DAPHNE'S ANSWER. George W. Simpson Made as Happy as Though He Had Seen Maud S. Trot.

Chicago Tribune. "Twenty years ago, sweetheart."

As Daphne McCarthy spoke these words she looked into the face of the man she loved so well, and the dimpled arm, whose rearly whiteness and beautiful rounded cur. es shone so bewitchingly through the sof, n. ecy dress that the girl wore, clung sof, n. ecy dress that the girl wore, clung more trustingly than ever to that of Geo. W. Simpson. The day was indeed a beautiful one—a symphony of sound, and light, and scent. blanding in the centre of a little dell into which the girl was looking was a stately marbic shaft around whose base the violets and pancies were clustering, and showing by their presence that loving hands had placed them there. For an instant Daphne did not speak, but the tears that trickled down her cheeks told all too plainly of the grief that was racking her young breast. Finally, she turned to George, and, smiling through her tears, placed her head confidingly on his shoulder and seemed perfectly con-

"Is it not strange, darling," she said, "that I can never look on the grave of my mother-that mother whom I never saw and who yielded up her young life when was born-without a sense of bitter grief and desolation? Twenty years ago to day, sweetheart, she died. It is a long time dear, is it not ?"-and again the gir

"Yes, my pet." replied George. "Gold-smith Maid was a colt then," and, bend-ing down his shapely head with its coronal of shoe-brush hair, he kissed the little rosebud mouth. Then pressing the lithe form more closely to him, he spoke with a grave tenderness that showed how much his words meant of a subject that was very near to his young heart :

"But though your mother be dead, Daphne," he said, "you have still my love to comfort and uphold you. And can you not speak now, darling, here beside that mother's grave, the words that will make me happy for life? Will you not promise me that when the autumn comes you will crown my life with the halo of your love and become my wife?"

For a moment the girl was silent, looking down and twining nervously around her fingers the tendril of a rose that she had plucked from a bank of the searlet beauties that blossomed near the grave. "Will you marry me, Daphne?" asked George again. Still no answer.

"I cannot bear this silence, sweet-heart, indeed I cannot," exclaimed the young man, his pallid face be-tokening the intense agony from which he suffered. "You must end this terrible suspense in some way. Tell me truly, Dapline, do you love me?"

Placing her arms about his neck and looking into his face with eyes from which the glad light of love was streaming, Daphne said to him in tones that thrilled his very blood: "I should gasp to gurgle."

LOST IN THE WOODS

A Deaf and Dumb Child Wanders About Alone for Six Days. On the afternoon of July 8, a ten yearold son of George Wolfe, a farmer, living in a thinly settled district in the Catawissa Valley, suddenly left home and was un-heard of for six days. The Wolfe house is surrounded by a high fence, built purposely for the children's protection. The child was deaf and dumb, and on the day mentioned, through some carelessness, the gate of the main entrance was left open. In this way the child escaped, wandered off through the woods and lost its way. The boy was not missed by its mother for some hours after. She quickly hurried to her husband in the field and gave the alarm. The most diligent search has been kept up night and day in vain. Two hundred people joined in the search. On the sixth day the boy was found sitting on a rock, weeping bitterly and suffering great pain from innumerable bites of insects. His food consisted of tree bark, which he was eating. When found the only clothing worn was a night shirt. The child was immediately taken home. He cannot re-

Noting the Effects.

R. Gibbs, of Buffalo N. Y., writes: "Hearing your Burdock Blood Bitters favorably spoken of, I was induced to watch their effects, and find that in chronic diseases of the blood, liver and kidneys, your bitters have been signally marked with success. I have used them myself with best results, for torpidity of the liver; and in the case of a friend of mine suffering from dropsy, the effect was marvelous." Price $1. For sale at II. B. MEDICAL.

[From Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper.] A LADY SAID,

Those Horrid Pimples! No. I Cannot Go

Please Present My Excuses." Probably two-thirds of the ladies in society and homes of our land are afflicted with skin diseases of various kinds, to do away with which, if it could be done without injury, would be the happiest event of their lives. Then she would have instead of a disfigured and marred countenance, one that would be handsome, or at least good looking, for any one with a clear, pure skin, no matter what the cut of her leatures are, has a certain amount of good looks which attract everybody. As it is now, she imagines every one sees and talks about "those freckles," "those horrid pimples," and other blemishes with which she is afflicted, and this is true of either sex.

To improve this appearance great risks are taken; arsenic, mercury, or high-sound titled named articles containing these death-dealing drugs, are taken in hopes of getting rid of all these troubles. In many cases, death is the result. No al-leviation of the burning, heating, itching and inflammation is given. All troubled with Eczema (salt rheum), Tetters, Humors, Inflammation, Rough Scaly Erup-tions of any kind, Diseases of the Hair and Scalp, Scrofula, Ulcers, Pimples or Tender Itching on any part of the body, should know that there is hope for them in a sure, perfect and clegant remedy, known as "Dr. C. W. Benson's Skin Cure." It makes the skin white, soft and smooth, removes tan and freckles, and is the best tollet dressing in the world. It is elegan: ly put up, two bottles in one package, consisting of both internal and external treatment. Our readers should be sure to get this and not some old remedy resuscitated on the success of Dr. Benson's and now advertised as "The Great tkin Cure."
