WAR DECLARED.

THE INDEPENDENT'S FIRM STAND.

The Stalwart Propositions rejected and the Fight to be Vigorously Made for Reform—A Strong Manifesto.

The Independent Republicans of Pennsylvania, represented by their state committee, on Thursday burned their bridges, and leaving behind them all hope of compromise, sounded the battle cry of a vigorous aggressive campaign. The fear of a slim attendance at the meeting which had been entertained on Wednesday evening, were dispated by the arrival of the morning trains. As early as half past nine o'clock the lobby of the Girard house, where the meeting was to take place, was rapidly filling up with members and friends of the Independent cause.

H. L. Foster, of Venango, chairman of the recent Independent convention, arrived at the Continental at an early hour, and was soon one of the most conspicuous figures at the Girard house. The committee members gathered in knots about the corridors discussing the situation, and long before the hour of meeting it was clearly to be seen that the general sentiment against any compromise or concession was overwhelming. The pressing business engagements would prevent his attendance. John Stewart, the Independent candidate for governor, remained in his room at the Girard house and received his friends there, and Colonel William McMichael, arrayed in a linen suit and pantaloons, was the only candidate visible.

At half past eleven o'clock the members were called to order in the gentlemen's parlor of the Girard house. In a number of districts the gentlemen originally elected as members of the committee had been unable to serve and substitutes had been chosen in their places. One or two members came in after roll call, making the number present sixty-five of the committee.

About fifteen duly authorized proxies were handed out by Chairman McKee declined to admit them to the privileges of members. The meeting, in daring violation of the long-standing custom of political committees, was held with open doors. The chairman's table had been brought into the center of the hall and the members were stationed near the Chestnut street front and the members of the committee sat in arm-chairs in a rude amphitheatre about the central point.

"In the call for this meeting, which I transmitted to you on July 14," said Chairman McKee, "I referred to certain proposals made to us by the candidates and committee of the Stalwart organization. It is to answer those propositions that we are here to-day. I have no suggestions to make, for in this matter I desire to be left to the judgment of the committee. I would only ask that the question shall be fully, freely and fairly discussed, and I hope that good judgment will prevail in your deliberations."

After this brief introduction Mr. McKee handed to Secretary Leach a copy of the minutes and report of the meeting of the Independent party on the 27th of July, and the reading of the Regular candidates.

Then came the letter addressed to the Stalwarts by the four Independent candidates. It was heard in silence. Colonel McMichael's brief and vigorous note was the touch stone. As his ringing declaration of the first principle of the Independent movement rose in a deafening chorus. It was some moments before the secretary could go on with the reading. Then came the letter from Chairman Cooper and his trusty ten, which was received in silence.

Harmony is desired, but it cannot follow any arrangement which does not absolutely secure the two objects of the Independent movement, first, thorough popular reform of party methods; second, the absolute retirement of the spoils system. The first is but a means to the second principal and indispensable object sought. The acceptance of a new convention with tickets barred out may or may not secure the principal object, as the majority may decide. Possibly a recall of both conventions for a conference on ticket and platform would work out both objects and secure harmony among the Independent members. Nothing short of a new ticket of such men as shall command the respect and support of all the Republicans is wise, just and practicable.

The four propositions of Mr. Cooper's committee were then considered separately and each in turn was rejected.

The third, providing that a new convention should be held, based upon the rules recommended by the Continental conference, its choice to be limited to the candidates already nominated or to a new limited list, the option to be given to the members at the fourth and last, providing for a new state convention under the rules adopted at the recent convention, were disposed of in a similar manner after due discussion.

Mr. Dickson renewed his motion to appoint a committee of five to convey the Stalwart's action to the committee, which was agreed to, as were also motions endorsing the letters of the Independent candidates to the Stalwart committee.

After due deliberation the committee presented the draft of the answer to the propositions based on the questions contained in the letter of the independent candidates. This paper met with approval, and Chairman McKee was directed to forward it to Chairman Cooper. The document was in these words:

Dear Sir: I am instructed to advise you that the Independent Republican state committee have considered the four suggestions contained in the minutes of the proceedings of your committee, forwarded to me by you on the 12th instant. I am directed to say that this committee find that none of the four are methods fitted to obtain a harmonious and honorable unity of the Republican voters of

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.

Strength

to vigorously push a business, strength to study a profession, strength to regulate a household, strength to do a day's labor without physical pain. All this represents what is wanted, in the often heard exclamation, "Oh! I wish I had the strength!"

If you are broken down, have not energy, or feel as if life was hardly worth living, you can be relieved and restored to robust health and strength by taking BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, which is a true tonic—a medicine universally recommended for all wasting diseases.

501 North Fremont St., Baltimore.

During the war I was injured in the stomach by a piece of shell and have suffered from it ever since. About four years ago it brought on paralysis, which kept me in bed six months, and the best doctors in the city said I could not live. I suffered fearfully from indigestion, and for over two years could not eat solid food and for a large portion of the time was unable to retain even liquid nourishment. I tried BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, and now, after taking two bottles, I am able to get up and go around, and am rapidly improving.
