

Lancaster Intelligencer.

MONDAY EVENING, AUG. 14, 1882.

Look to the Senators.

The question of Mr. Cameron's return to the Senate or his retirement to private life three years hence, will probably be decided at the ensuing election.

The members of the House to be elected in November next will not participate in the senatorial election in 1875, but the twenty-five senators to be chosen will hold over, and they will be elected directly on the senatorial issue.

It will be noticed as a singular fact that these districts are now evenly divided between the Republicans and Democrats, with a Greenbacker holding the balance of power.

In every Republican district, with the probable exception of the 4th (Pittsburg), the Independents will make a determined fight to prevent the election of Cameron senator, and it is entirely within their power in each case to accomplish this eminently worthy purpose.

The result of this effort of Mr. Cameron to pack the Senate with his subservient creatures will bring the issue of his bossship so directly and prominently before the people that he will do well if he holds the districts above referred to.

But should the Republicans settle their quarrel, the Democrats, with superior nominations and proper management, ought to be able to recover the 10th (Ducks), 12th (Montgomery), and 20th, (part of Leachawanna and Luzerne) districts.

Each of the Republican incumbents in these districts had narrow margins in 1878, and their election in each instance was due to the tricks of the Republican managers with the Greenback leaders.

The bicycle is said to be a graceful arrangement, composed chiefly of two wheels and three cranks; one, seated on a little saddle, turns the other two with his feet.

The best summer resort hotels have their own physicians, just as ocean steamers have. Most of these physicians get one holiday in the week by bribing the steward to make out a wholesome bill of fare.

The sturdy democracy of "all Berks" initiate their campaign to day with a rousing demonstration that will start the Patison ball a rolling with a energy that will make itself felt when the votes come to be counted up in November.

THE destruction of the county insane asylum, while in the nature of a present disaster to the inmates, may not prove an unmitigated evil to the county or to the poor unfortunate who were compelled to find refuge within its walls.

It is not surprising that the building was unfitted for the purposes for which it was used, and the location of the institution had been unfavorably criticised by those whose opinion in the matter is not without weight.

NEW JERSEY, whose coast has long been the home of sea-serpents and other startling phenomena, presents a curiosity of a novel species in the person of a negro who can furnish documentary proof that he is one hundred and twenty-seven years old, and who boldly avows that he never even saw the late lamented G. W., much less acted as his body servant.

There is nothing essentially new in Mr. McClure's estimate of the political probabilities in this state in an interview with the New York Herald correspondent printed in that newspaper to-day.

Mr. Charles C. Francklyn and family have arrived at Provincetown, Mass. From London, on board the steam yacht Santa Cecilia, owned by Lord Alfred Paget. They are en route for New York.

GENERAL STONEMAN, the Democratic candidate for governor of California, lives at Los Robles in an old square house made of redwood, which has never seen paint and is not infrequently neglected.

Miss Rose G. Hinsie, Lancaster, Pa., is regarded in certain quarters as entitled to the recognition of being the belle of the New Columbia. Her taste in the matter of dress is justly admired.

REPRESENTATIVE HOLMAN, of Indiana, was so indignant at the publication in an obscure newspaper of a rumor that he had drunk a whisky cocktail that he induced a number of his fellow members to sign a statement that he had never been seen by them in the act of drinking anything of the kind.

ARCHBISHOP LYXIE, of Toronto, who has just returned from Rome, had the honor of a formal official presentation to the Prince of Wales at a levee in London held in behalf of the queen. The significance of this presentation lies in the fact that for over two hundred years no Roman Catholic prelate has been presented as such at court.

ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS will return to his home in Georgia, where he is in excellent health and fine spirits. When asked recently if he intended to make a general canvass of the state, he replied: "It is my purpose to see as much of the people as I can. I believe that to be the duty of every man who stands for the public welfare. I do not intend to make more than three or four regular speeches, and these I may supplement with little talks to the people when occasion may demand."

THE office-bureau was made public. The possessor of the masculine persuasion is bad enough, but his terror as nothing as compared to those of the female who has set her mind on serving her country in a government position, and the person is out in great force just now, and is asserting her rights in a spirit of indignation which it would not be agreeable to encounter.

It is not without some reason for complaint, as in strict justice she has as much right to the loaves and fishes of office as her more favored competitor. Especially when it is considered that under the Habbell dispensation neither age, color, nor previous condition of servitude is regarded in the levy of the toll.

EX-SECRETARY BLAINE has offered for sale his new house in Washington. It is one of the finest houses at the capital. PRESTON BENNETT, member elect of Parliament for Yale district of British Columbia, has died suddenly.

MRS. RHEA arrived in New York last evening by the steamer Arizona and was received by a large company of theatrical people. JUDGE WILLIAM M. LEVY, of New Orleans, did not die at Saratoga last Thursday, as published in some New York papers, but is yet alive.

McKEE, the centre fielder of the Harrisburg club, is reported to be worth $50,000 in his own right, and is playing ball for exercise as his health.

ANTHONY TROLOPE is sick with Bright's disease and is traveling in Ireland for his health. On his tour he will gather material for a new novel. JOSEPHY, the pianist, has devoted his summer leisure to composition. He has recently finished the orchestration of a piano forte concerto which is spoken of quite highly.

GENERAL SHERMAN's daughter, Mrs. Fitch, has just lost her youngest child, a baby, and another child, Katie, is seriously ill. The baby died on the cars just before reaching Washington.

MR. CHARLES C. FRANCKLYN and family have arrived at Provincetown, Mass. From London, on board the steam yacht Santa Cecilia, owned by Lord Alfred Paget. They are en route for New York.

MISS ROSE G. HINSIE, Lancaster, Pa., is regarded in certain quarters as entitled to the recognition of being the belle of the New Columbia. Her taste in the matter of dress is justly admired.

REPRESENTATIVE HOLMAN, of Indiana, was so indignant at the publication in an obscure newspaper of a rumor that he had drunk a whisky cocktail that he induced a number of his fellow members to sign a statement that he had never been seen by them in the act of drinking anything of the kind.

ARCHBISHOP LYXIE, of Toronto, who has just returned from Rome, had the honor of a formal official presentation to the Prince of Wales at a levee in London held in behalf of the queen.

THE LATEST NEWS.

CLEANED FROM THE MORNING MAILS. The Record of Recent Tragedies—Crime and Casually—Losses by Fire—Miscellaneous News Items.

Two fine business houses were destroyed by fire at Grand City, Mo., last night. Loss, from $35,000 to $60,000; insurance, about $10,000.

Smith, Woodbury & Co.'s new saw and planing mill at Brewer, Me., with a large amount of lumber, was burned on Saturday night. The loss is heavy.

DEATHS BY DROWNING. Fred. Raeth, of Baltimore, was seized with cardiac disease while bathing near the government wharf at Fortress Monroe yesterday, and died instantly.

CRIME AND MISHAP. Thomas Elder, keeper of a saloon on Shelbyville pike, fourteen miles from Louisville, Ky., was shot dead; by whom it is not known.

THE McGARRON OUTRAGE. On Saturday Edward Wagner, charged with being implicated in the outrage committed by Lizzie McGarron, was taken before Judge Patterson with a view of having him discharged on bail.

SAFETY ACCIDENT. A Little Girl Fatally Injured. A sad accident occurred to Mary Lytle, a 21 month old daughter of Scott Lytle residing on Andrew street, on Saturday night, by which she lost her life.

A Mysterious Murder. A brutal murder was committed in the western part of Evansville, Ind. Alexander Weber, a German saloonkeeper, and his little son, 7 years old, were found murdered in their bed.

CLOSING A LONG BRANCH HOTEL. A Landlord's Remarkable Demand Upon Relatives of Fever-Stricken Guests. Threatening to Close.

NEWS MISCELLANEOUS. The Twenty-five new cases of yellow fever—twenty-one Mexicans and four Americans—one death, were reported at Brownsville, Texas, on Saturday.—Eight deaths and several new cases were reported at Matanzas.—Twenty-two deaths from yellow fever occurred at Havana last week.—The Mississippi and four American established quarantine stations at Oxygia, on the New Orleans and Chicago railroad; Fort Adams, on the Mississippi river, and at a point in Hancock county on the Mobile & New Orleans railroad, the latter under the charge of Dr. Rice, of Vicksburg. A certificate of the national board of health will be required of all persons travelling.

FORSAKING ARABIC BEY. The Central Union of the Irish Land League met last night. M. J. Griffin explained in a communication that he had been misrepresented in regard to a motion he had made at a previous meeting relative to aiding Arabi Bey. A dispatch was read from Charles Stewart Parnell, disapproving of any movement with that object in view, and a resolution was adopted disavowing any scheme to send money to Egypt.

DEATH UNDER A SURGICAL OPERATION. Mr. Harden Stevenson, a farmer of Concordia, Ky., 74 years old, died at the Cincinnati hospital on Saturday under the surgical operation of removing the liver to relieve a cancer of many years standing. Dr. Walker was the operating surgeon. The body was taken home.

AT THE MEETING OF THE CENTRAL BODY OF TRADES UNIONS yesterday at New York resolutions were adopted regarding the striking operatives at Coburn, N. Y., were adopted and subscriptions in their aid were ordered to be taken up.

THE BAR HARBOR ROBBERY. Charles Leona, the trapeze performer, of Syracuse, who was arrested at Calais, Me., on suspicion of being the Bar Harbor highwayman, has been released, owing to lack of evidence against him.

to be there. She replied that her grandson was coming after her. A few minutes afterward a man came rapidly down the path. He had just passed the woman, who was shouting and crying, and she returned to the doorway of her lattered and dirty bonnet and her spectacles, she drew a seven-barrelled revolver and fired five shots at the man. He fired one shot in return and died. Officers, who were by that time on the scene of action, arrested the woman and locked her up in the station house at Twenty-Third and Brown. The man proved to be George Hayes, of 340 North Thirty-first street, and the woman Georgia Price. Last September she was convicted of making threats of taking Hayes' life, by whom she claimed to have been infatuated and then discarded. She was formerly an amateur actress and possessed many winning manners. She states that she first became acquainted with Hayes about four years ago and at once fell in love with him. He was then employed as engineer in the printing office of the Saturday Night. He made pretence of returning her affections, and then ceased his attentions. Her disappointment then prompted her to avenge herself, and she prepared shooting with a revolver with the avowed intention of killing Hayes, and for this she was convicted. She was placed in the Norristown insane asylum, but escaped last winter, and has since been employed at different places as a dressmaker. On last Friday she resolved to shoot Hayes. Before starting out on her mission on Saturday night she left a letter with Mr. Pierce, of 1934 Van Pelt street, stating her purpose. She then made the assault, with the above result. She is about forty years of age.

THE INSANE ASYLUM BURNED. Before the flames at Wetzels were entirely quenched there was a simultaneous yell of "fire" from a hundred throats, and the crowd gathered there rushed pell towards the insane asylum, which stands on the corner of the village of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed, with a small loss of property. It is supposed that the fire started at the pipe. There was no fire in the stove at the time, but there had been just before when supper was prepared. Some old clothes were lying near the pipe and they were likely caught. The house of Samuel Keylor's, situated on the corner of Goodville, East Earl township, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire was first discovered in the garret and it made such rapid headway that it was found impossible to save the building, which was destroyed,