INNOCENCE ABROAD.

AN AMERICAN GAMBLER IN MEXICO. Playing Poker With Citizens of Sonora-A tunishing the Natives and Carrying Off $5,000 of their money.

San Francisco Chronicle. The steamer Sonora, which arrived at La Paz a week or so before the 4th of July brought to that little Mexican town a smooth-tongued gentleman who represented himself to be a mining expert about to inspect several valuable pieces of property located somewhere in the mysterious country back of the town. He gave his name as William Cartis, and was, he said, but recently from San Francisco.

To those who met Mr. Curtis, it was quite evident that he had more money than brains, although he might be accounted a very good mining expert. He conducted himself in a manner that would be described in sporting circles as "fresh," a condition for which a salt water voyage is no remedy. Immediately on arriving at La Paz, Mr. Curtis sought an introduction to the prefector of the town. The prefector of La Paz is a very dignified person, who in the political register would rank with our Mayor Blake, the gentlemen in both cases being the chief magistrates of their particular burgs. The prefector received him cordially; in fact was overjoyed to meet so distinguished a Gringo, and said in Spanish, "Senor, I throw myself at your feet." On the third evening after this acquaintance began, and after the prefector had introduced the innocent American to a countless number of his merchantile crouies. Mr. Curtis was invited around to the club. At the club Curtis met a number of his new acquaintances, and after the usual exchange of civilities, and after each of the party had imbibed a quantity of aguardiente, a game of draw poker was proposed. The Gringo's innocent antecedents at once intervened, and he protested that he not only could not play, but was opposed to the game on principle. The Mexicans laid siege to the bashful young man's scruples, overcame them and finally induced him to "take a hand. The American asked foolish questions about the game, and generally showed that his early education had been sadly neglected.

"Which is the biggest hand a man can get?" he inquired of one of his Castilian friends.

"Four aces is tha biggest," he was in-formed, "except a royal flush, which nobody ever gets unless he has a stuffed deck. But we never wait for four aces," the condition of remaining in the colony. Whispered the Mexicaus; "we often bet heavily on a single pair."

The party sat down and arranged a game of $1 aute without limit, of which prono understanding. In the first draw Mr. they are called, ever return to France. Curtis picked up three tens. The man next to him bet $15, and the American raised him $20. Two of the party passed, but the third raised Mr. Curtis $10, to which the latter responded with $200. The Mexicans called, and Curtis picked up another ten, while his opposent, who had three sevens did not improve his hand. He looked at the American. The blank appearance of that person's countenance reassured him, and he bet $300. Curtis reflected for a moment, looked somewhat bowildered, and raised the amount to $500. The Mexican, astonished, threw down his cards and Curtis swept the money off the table. The Mexicans held a mute cousultation for a moment and shuffled the cards for another deal. Before the draw, the American picked up a jack full, and lost about $30 on it. In his next hand he picked up four fives. This time the Mexicans were "laying" for their friend and under the impetus of good draws the pot rapidly mounted up to $500. At that point the Mexican called, having prepared the deck to swindle the unsuspecting George. Curtis passed, knowing that his opponent would bet, which he did, raising the amount of money on the table to about $2,000. The Mexican then threw down his hand and exhibited four jacks.

"It's not good," said the American; s still large and varied, and our Great Reduction in Prices will astonish the closest buyers. We sell Children's Clothing from $1.62: $2.00, $3.25, $4.50, $5.25, up to $7.00 a suit. Boys' Suits from $2.00 and upwards. OUR CUSTOM DEPARTMENT contains a large line of Suitings and Pantaloonings, and for workmanship, fit and prices can't be beat anywhere in the city. We still hold the lead on our $12.00 Suits, custom made; but if people wish to save money they should not forget, before purchasing cisewhere, to look at our $15.00, $18.00 and $20.00 Suits, made right up in any style to your order $20.00 Suits, made right up in any style to your order $20.00 Suits, made the suits Great Reduction is only for the Next Fifteen Days, and anybody who wishes to take advantage of it will please call early, to avoid the rush. · I have four aces. The party was struck dumb with astonishment, while the mining expert coolly swept the pile of money into his pocket.

But the Spanish blood of the natives was up. They could scarcely brook the presence of a Gringo in La Paz, much less endure seeing one of the hated race carry off $2,000 at their favorite game, especially when they had expected to gather in his surplus cash. That same evening they hunted up Don Carlos Ramero. The don is a noted sport and monte dealer, and is justly celebrated throughout the republic of Mexico. The matter was soon arranged, and the next evening Mr. Curtis was again invited to the club. On this occa-sion Don Carlos was introduced as a leading merchant of La Paz, who often indulged in poker after dinner. The party smoked a few eigarettes, gossipped a little about American affairs, discussed the prospects of another Mexican revolution in the future. Finally "draw" was pro-posed. Don Carlos was backward at first but ultimately consented, and they sat

In the pool room in Barclay street, New York, known as the "Parole Turf Club," which the police broke up a few days ago, was found the pledge which each man had to take on becoming a member. After promising not to tell what went on in the rooms, the form runs as follows: "If I violate this promise I declare myself a mischief maker, a liar and scoundrel." This appeals to a very delicate sense of honor, indeed.

MARRYING FEMALE CONVICTS. How the French Government Aids Their Reformation and Finds Them

A writer in the Cornhill Magazine says : French female prisoners and convicts are is now complete. I have now the largest and treated with more kindness, on the whole, than persons of their class are in England. Their matrons and warderesses are Augustine nuns, whose rule, though firm, is gentler, more merciful and more stead-fastly equitable than that of lay women could be. The female convicts are allowcd the same rrivilege as the men in the matter of earning money and buying things at the canteen. Those of them who are young also enjoy a privilege not granted to female convicts in other countries lated in the female penitentiaries calling men are generally rich."

been sentenced. The only moral qualifi-cation requisite is to have passed at least two years in the penitentiary. The se-lected candidates have to sign engagements, promising to marry convicts, and to settle in New Caledonia for the mainder of their lives. On these conditions the government transports them, gives them a decent outfit and a ticket-ofleave when they land at Noumea. Their marriages are arranged for them by the had been out after 9 o'clock for several conditions when once he had fallen in love. There are some instances, though, of the authorities having declined to let a female convict marry a free man, when disposition. For the woman's own sake it is necessary that they should not be married to men who would be likely, in some moments of temper, to fling their disreputable antecedents into their text. they were not convinced that the latter disreputable antecedents into their teeth.

Of course, if the girl declares that none of the aspirant bridegrooms submitted to her in-

There is nothing of this kind to fear when a female convict gets wedded to a man whose past life has been so bad as her own.

Why the French government should have saddled itself with the responsibility of promoting marriages among convicts it is difficult to say; but the experiment has, on the whole, yielded very good results. The married couples get huts and free grants of land, and all they can draw from it, by their own labors, becomes theirs. During five years they are subjected to the obligation of reporting themselves weekly at the district police, and they are forbidden to enter public houses and must not be found out of doors at night. This probationary period being satisfactorily passed, they get their full freedom, but subject always to the condition of remaining in the colony. promoting marriages among convicts it is den that any exception shall be made. On no account whatever must convicts who have accepted grants of land and contracted "administrative marriages," as

They are at liberty, however, to send their children to France if any respectable person in that country will become answerable for them and undertake to provide them with a good education. The sons of convicts are born Freuch subjects, and will be required at the age of twenty to draw at the conscription and serve their appointed terms in the army. From what precedes it may be inferred that the lot of convicts in New Caledonia is a fairly pleasant tone. But we have spoken as yet only of those convicts who have tickets of-leave, and are more or less free to roam over the whole island. Those who have not earned tickets-of-leave are kept in the penal settlement of the island of Nou, or are employed on public works, road-making, house building, etc, in gaugs, moving and encamping from place to place during the flue season, under military escort. The lot even of these convicts cannot be called a hard one as compared with that of convicts in other countries, and of French convicts under the old system of bagnes, or transportation to Cayenne. The climate of Cayenne was so deadly that all the convicts transported there either died or contracted incurable maladies. As for the old bagnes of Brest and Toulon, they were very hells, where the convicts were kept chained in couples and were treated pretty much like wild beasts. The climate of New Caledonia. on the contrary, is delightful, and the soil of the different islands composing the colony is so fertile that corn, fruit and vegetables grow there in abundance, and can be had very cheap. In 1873 an attempt to cultivate vines was commenced, but

"Well," said the young lady, "I really hate to tell you about this matter, but mamma said the best way would be to go right to a newspaper and see what I had better do, because ever since papa died we haven't had any man to put us right about such things, and mamma thinks just as I do, that in a case like this a man would be ever so much more apt to decide right on what was best to do, because woman, you know, always let their feelings run away with their judgment, and frequently make mistakes in matters that perhaps effect their whole future existence. I told mamma that it seemed awfully queer to talk to a strange man about any such thing as this, but she said editors were persons of great experience, and since dear papa was dead it would be a great deal better to find what some man of experience thought about it before I went any farther.

MALARIA

Malaria is au almost indescribable malady which not even the most talented physicians are able to fathom. Its cause is most frequently ascribed to local surroundings, and there is very little question, but this opinion is substantiated by facts. Malaria does not necessarily mean chills and fever while these troubles usually accompany it. It often affects the sufferer with general lassitude, accompanied by loss of appetite, sleepless ness, a tired feeling and a high fever the person afflicted growing weaker and weaker, loses flesh day after day. until he becomes a mere skeleton, a shadow of his former self.

Malaria once having laid its hold upon the human frame, the door of the systen is thrown open to nervous diseases. The body weak and enfectied absorbs no nourish-ment, but subsisting upon itself, the digestive organs no longer per-form their funcions; the liver becomes torpid, and other organs failing to do their routine work, speedily become disordered, and dissolution and death are not to

In addition to being a certain cure for malaria and chills and fever, BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is highly recommended for all diseases requiring a certain and efficient tonic; cspecially indigestion, dyspepsia, intermittent fevers, want of appetite, loss of strength, lack of energy, etc. Enriches the blood, strengthens the muscles, and gives new life to the nerves. Acts like a charm on the digestive organs. It is for sale by all respectable medicine dealers, price, $1 per bottle.
