DORSEY TO GARFIELD. SOME MORE INTERESTING LETTERS.

A Further Installment of "Very Curious Political Republican History"—Porsey's Advice to the President Etect.

The Washington Sunday Gazette publishes portions of two more letters from ex-Senator Dorsey to the late President Garfield which have not been heretofore published. It says the portions omitted relate to personal matters, and that these omissions do not detract from the news value of the letters. The Gazette says it has been asked it reasons for putlishing these letters now, and in reply it would say that, while it does not believe it owes the public any explanation or apology, it will state two reasons: First, a desire to aid Dorsey, who, it claims, has been unjustly and shamefully abused; second, the strong desire which its editor personally feels to bring out to the light of day the very curious political (Republican) history of the two years past. The following extract is from a letter referring to ex-Governor Routt, of Colorado, and urging his selection as postmaster

FEBRUARY 5, 1881. General James A. Garfield, Montor, Ohio: I believe the most important ques-tion you ought to think, after satisfying yourself as to the capacity, integrity and representative character of the men you are considering for cabinet places, is as to whether the persons thus thought of are the men you ought to choose in making up a Garfield cabinet. It seems to me that upon this point there should be no mistake. If I can help it there shall be none. While I have freely criticised persons who I have heard were candidates for catinet places, I never thought of recommending any one to your consideration because he was a friend of mine or because he could advance any special interest I had in view. Judge Folger is the only person I have ever urged you to appoint, and I scarcely know him. In respect to that recommendation, I am quite certain I have nothing to retract.

[Confidential.] FEBRUARY 24.—Hon. J. A. Gartield, Mentor, Ohio.—My Dear General: General Arthur came over last night from Washington, and I had a conference of several hours with him. He informed me that Mr. Blaine and his political adherents were very much provoked at what they called my interference; namely, because I had suggested with many others, the name of Judge Folger for secretary of the treasury. General the conduct of the people. Next day Mr. Arthur says that he has never heard such | Southgate sent him a check for $158 of a buzz and disturbance of teeling as there has been among the Blaine people. He furthermore says that Mr. Elkins, acting no doubt, for Mr. Blaine, is talking very noisily against the selection of Judge Folger because he was a tool of mine. I simply wish to call your attention to the fact that when I mentioned Judge Folger to you first I had never him; my whole course with him since would cover half the time that you occupied with him at Mentor. I know him personally less than I know almost any public man in the country. I urged his appointment, and I still urge it, because I think it is the great thing for you and the party to do. The disappointment manifested by the feeling in Washington on the part of his friends is the evident outgrowth of a notion that they expected to control the cabinet, and especially treasury department. If Mr. Blaine did not care to control the treasury department he would not be dissatisfied or annoved at the appointment of Mr. Folger. I warn you, therefore, that this man- No. 835 South Second street. She had undoubtedly committed neither Mr. Blaine nor any other ambi- suicide, having once or twice attempted tious man should have control of the great to kill berself. Mrs. Landis, who has been places in your cabinet. If Mr. Blaine is to a woman of means since her husband's be made secretary of state, and a protege of | death, about a year ago, left her home on his secretary of the treasury, and another Thursday morning, from which no tidings secretary of the interior, I have great were received of the woman until her fears that the administration would greatly suffer, with an even chance that ing to stories told the coroner, she lost disaster would follow in the near future about $5,000 worth of registered bonds, I do not wish to say an unkind thing of Mr. Blaine, although he is charged with placed by new ones after some trouble the responsibility for the most unkind with the department at Washington things said of me within the last week, and the most untruthful and malignant ever uttered by man. If what General Arthur has heard is true it is as clear as daylight to my mind that he expects to have his friend in the treasury department, another friend either in the post office or interior, and that through them and by them he intends to do one of two things, either to make your administration a camping ground for his own aspirations, or he has some other object no less dangerous to the party. I cannot bring myself to believe that Mr. Blaine is in the state of mind he is reported to be, and I sincerely trust that General Arthur has been misinformed. In respect to Judge Folger, I have made it my business since I saw you to see Re publicans, as well as Democrats, of all shades of opinion, and to get from them an expression as to the capacity, integrity and fidelity of the man. Now, outside of Mr. Fenton, I do not believe there are twenty men in the state of New York but what have the most implicit confidence in Judge Folger's whole character. Mr. Fenton has had reason to hate Judge Folger, because it was through his great power and ability that Fenton was destroyed in this state. The allegation that Folger was in any way connected with the Tweed ring is too absurd to consider, for he was the one particular man in the state who fought the Tweed ring and the story of the woman's fluancial losses. He whole gang of thieves in this state from said that she had once attempted suicide the beginning to the end, while at the same at an apothecary shop; but that her life time Mr. Fenton was hand-in-glove with had been saved on that occasion by the them. I believe Folger's personal character, use of an emetic. She had often said that his great ability and the perfect purity of his fife would bear comparison with those of any living man. Folger's appointment simply means what the large standing armies of Europe mean, namely, that you are equipped for any emergency that may offer, so none will arise. I beg of you not to permit the disappointment and the bitterness which grows out of disappointment to influence you in this matter. I say to you that for your administration and the Republican party and for the country the appointment of Judge Folger to the treas-ury department is the most important one you have to deal with. The failure to appoint him, it seems to me, will be the numental mistake of your administra-I believe the Republican party of the country thinks well of Mr. Blaine, and I of 100 members of the Atlanta bar and think that his selection as the head of committee of senators, composed of Messrs your cabinet is a wise one, but Mr. Blaine is not in a position to be chief of the cabinet and then dictate the other important places in it, and, what is of more importance, you are not in a position to allow him to do it......But to return to Imperiously he requested that guests should not be permitted to promenade the broad piazzas, and directed that the blinds be tightly closed, so that no one could see him or hear him without the payment of the dollar admission fee.

Mr. Southgate assented to the latter, but inasmuch as his guests pay him for the conveniences of the hotel he didn't feel like insulting them, and told Wilde so. He was furious and talked freely of American manners. I expected him to demand that the surf should cease rolling and the sea stop roaring. A pretty little girl, inspired by older companions, modestly presented Wilde a gorgeous sunflower, whereupon, with a look at the expectant child, he threw the flower on the table. Malaria is an almost indescribable malady which not even the most talented physicians are able to fathom. Its cause is most frequently ascribed to local surroundings, and there is very little question, but this opinion is substantiated by facts. Malaria does not necessarily mean chills and fever while these troubles usually accompany it. It often affects the sufferer with general lassitude, accompanied by loss of appetite, sleepless ness, a tired feeling and a high fever the person afflicted growing weaker and weaker, loses flesh day after day, until he becomes a mere skeleton. a shadow of his former self.
