

OUR SOUTHERN FRIENDS.

BELOW MASON AND MASON'S LIFE. The News From Cecil County—What Our Maryland Neighbors Are Doing—The Grapes and Other Matters.

Rowlandville, Md., Aug. 22. The picturesque village, Rowlandville, is situated on the Colorado, near where it empties into the Susquehanna. Its location is similar to the location of Safe Harbor in Lancaster county. The Columbia and Philadelphia and Baltimore Central railroads form a junction about a half a mile below the village, which can boast of two churches, one large rolling mill, owned and operated by the McCullough iron company, large grist and merchant mill, owned by Davis & Christie, three stores, one blacksmith shop, one saddle and harness establishment, one drug store and a number of private residences. The mills are running up to their full capacity, the store-keepers are kept busy handling out goods, etc., and taking our village as a whole it might be called a lively and business place.

The late rains will be the cause of a good corn crop in this locality. The farmers that have threshed are well pleased with the quality and yield of wheat. There is considerable tobacco being cultivated in this vicinity. Mr. Irwin, lately of Little Washington, Pa., has four acres that are very even and fine looking; C. F. Kirk has two acres, Norman Wills two acres, all of which is considered fine. C. F. Kirk has some which he is now cutting, which measures twenty-three by thirty-one and two. Mr. Irwin expects to cut soon. He is erecting a large and commodious tobacco house on his property which he recently bought. It is generally conceded that Cecil county can raise as fine and large tobacco as her neighboring county of Lancaster.

The Susquehanna is low. Bass fishing is like the old fellow pitching pennies, when asked how he made out he replied that sometimes he won and sometimes he lost. So with bass fishing in this section; sometimes they catch and sometimes they don't. Mr. Wako Gatchell, of Rowlandville, had a valuable cow fall over a man's back one day last week and broke her neck. The young men of Rowlandville contemplate having a grand picnic in a short time in the dancing grove. They have had two already which were well attended by the young and old. Good music, good dancing and a general good time all round. Davis & Christie are repairing their mill by putting in a purifier, new bolts, &c., and will soon have it in running order for making a fancy grade of flour.

STURABURG NEWS.

What is going on Around the Borough. The public schools of Strasburg will reopen September 4. The splendid opportunity of visiting the famous seaside resort, Atlantic City, Aug. 25, will no doubt be taken advantage of by many in our borough.

Mrs. Miller, widow of Mr. J. Miller, deceased, laid pavement before her property on Main street, opposite Reese's carriage factory, on Monday. Mr. John Reese is the owner of a tomato stalk bearing twenty tomatoes weighing one pound each.

The coming of Van Amburgh's circus has created quite a commotion in our little town.

Birthday Party. A birthday party was given by Mr. and Mrs. John Hull, in honor of their little daughter, Blanche. The young ladies began to assemble during the afternoon until they numbered fourteen, then followed a very pleasant and joyful time, and after participating in games, &c., a splendid supper was laid before the happy crowd. The one in honor of whom the party was given was the recipient of many beautiful presents. The guests invited came with their hearts in their hands to congratulate Miss Blanche on having made the trip so far in life safely, and bid her good night with many wishes for her future happiness in life.
