Late Local Tidings From the East End. During the last month the Bellevue Presbyterian church has undergone considerable interior improvements. The pews which were formerly of a dull brown color, have been painted a light drab color releived with brown, which gives the church quite a bright appearance. The ews are numbered on a neat white porcelain shield, boardered with gilt. The pulpit and blinds have been repainted, and floor covered with a beautiful red ingrain earpet, of a pretty design. Many other improvements have been made, but our space will not admit a full description. Services were held in the church on Sunday morning, a large congregation being in attendance. The regular pastor, Rev. W. L. Ledwith officiated.

Narrow Escape, Samuel Kinley, section boss on the Piles, roaches, ants, bed-bugs, rats, mice, Pennsylvania railroad at the Gap, parrowly escaped being struck on Thursday by the "mud express." He was walking in a westerly direction on the new temporary track used by the above trains in conveying earth and stones from the grading contract in the "cut." Two trains were passing on the main tracks, and as he had his back towards the dirt train they prevented him from bearing the latter until it was nearly on top of him, when he gave a quick jump from the track over the steep mbankment while the train rushed past him. Thomas Waldron, the superintendent of work, was on the train that came so near striking Mr. Kinley, and he and his men being unable to attract him by Mr. Waldron, who has been in the employ of the company for many years, says he never saw so narrow an escape. Some Very Fine Tobacco.

So much has been said of tobacco of late that but little more can be said. The farmers of this township are busily engared in cutting and housing their crops. Some is very small and others just the reverse. Several very large crops have been brought under our notice recently. Some of the lengths given seem incredible but are vouched for by good authority. Michael Hess of Mt. Vernon, who raised ome very fine tobacco last year, beats it by far this year. He has over an acre; regularity, and Samuel Linville has a very fine patch.
