Democratic Candidate for Judge o the Supreme Court.

Hon. Si's M. Clark is a resident of the beautiful hatle town of Indiana, in Indiana county, where he has dwelt for many years. He is widely known throughout his own and surrounding counties, and has the respect, the confidence and friendship of all classes of citizens. Eminent as a lawyer, he adorns every relation of life and meets and discharges all the duties of advanced citizenship in a great commonwealth. He is not a "politician" in the perverted popular sense of that word, and in every case in which office or distinction came to him it was not of his own seeking. His pomination to the high and responsible office of Judge of the Supreme Court, in the great State of Pennsylvania, is a deserved tribute alike to his professional ability, and to his personal worth.

MB. CLARK'S POLITICAL RECORD. But Silas M. Clark is not one of those men who avoid politics as a filthy pool in which honest men should not dabble. He holds honest men should not dabble. He holds it the right and duty of every good citizen to vote; he recognizes that good men should not shirk their share in party management, and while he never stooped to the detested tricks of political schemers, he never ran away from public duties. He has frequently represented his county in Democratic State Conventions and was ever ready to lend his wise council to party lenders. He has also been a candidate for office. Profound in his knowledge of the law, and just in all his dealings with men, he has long been regarded a fit man to grace the Judical bench. In 1869 while yet in his 36th year, Mr. Clark's name was presented, without his knowledge or con-sent before the Democratic State Convention for Supreme Judge. He received be-tween 40 and 50 votes. Hon Cyrus L. Pershing was nominated.

The following year he was tendered the unanimous Democratic nomination for President Judge of the Tenth Judical district, then composed of Armstrong, Indi-ana and Westmoreland counties. The dis-trict was Republican and his opponent was an honorable member of that party—Hon, James A. Logan, of Westmoreland. The contest was the most exciting ever had in that district for any office. Both candidadates were able lawyers and popular gen-tlemen. Warm friends sprang to the support of each. Mr. Logan was solicitor of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., and the western officers of that corporation were his warm personal friends. They did all within their power for Mr. Logan. Trains were sent out along the railroad and voters were hauled free of cost to the polling places. Mr. Logan was popular also among railroad employees, and every man voted for him. That won him the contest Mr. Clark was defeated by 400 votes in a district that in the election of the succeeding year gave other Republican candidates 2900 majority. Judge Logan assumed the ermine, Mr. Clark practiced under him for years, and the other day paid him this well merited compliment. : " Judge Logan was a good, able and just Judge Logan resigned some time ago to accept the position of assistant general counsel of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., and is now serving in that capacity at Philadelphia.

IN THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION. In 1872 Mr. Clark was a candidate for delegate to the Constitutional Convention, and having been elected he assumed the duties of that office. He proved one of the ablest members of the Convention, He served on the committee on Declaration of Rights, on private Corporations and on Revision, bodies entrusted with perhaps the most important work accomplished by that great body of representative men. Mr. Clark was added to the latter committee at the special request of its chairman, Hon. Henry W. Palmer, Attorney General of Pennsylvania. In 1874 Mr. Clark's friends again offered his name before the Democratic State Convention, and he received forty-one votes for Supreme Judge. Justice W. J. Woodward was nominated and elected. When Mr. Clark was named before the recent State Convention at Harrisburg, delegates from every section flocked to his support. He was unanimously nominated by accla-mation on the second ballot. The nomination came to him unsolicited and unsought. Several days afterward he wrote a private note to a personal friend, in which he says: "I had no hope of receiving the nomination, was not thinking of it; expected only complimentary mention." He resorted to no tricks to secure it; there were no bosses to promise it to him; it was given to him by a convention whose enemies freely admit that it "committed no blunders.

Such is Silas M. Clark's political record Mr. Clark is no disappointed office-seeker; no broken down political hack; he is a man who always scorned the tricks of the demagogue, an honest Democrat, but no political bigot—a man to challenge the ad-miration of every voter who believes politics should not be brought into the canvass for Supreme Judge.

THE FRIEND OF POPULAR EDUCATION. Mr. Clark has the merit of being a selfmade and a self-cultured man; he has achieved his present success in life through your ticket for Supreme Judge, and I no family influence, wealth or other ad- will vote for him. I have known ventitious circumstances; he comes up from the ranks of the people, from a parentage and family which is highly respectable but of humble pretensions. He acquired the elementary part of his knowledged in the Common Schools, but at the least of fourteen years he entered the Ladionard will do himself hence and shed no family influence, wealth or other adage of fourteen years he entered the Indiana Academy, where he began the course of study which developed his capacity for success. Whilst he attended the Academy, he labored at times upon the farm, and for one year carried the mail between Indiana and Blairsville; reciting at the Academy one day and serving as mail-carrier the next, alternately. It was a matter of some curiosity and surprise to some of the students of the Blairsville Academy on one occasion when the candidates, that exception being our lindiana carried a copy of Horace's odes in lighty esteemed townsman, Hon. Silas M. Clark. We unhesitatingly express the his pocket to while away the time of his delay in Blairsville. In rather rude language they twitted the friendless lad about his Latin, and in defiant manner challenged him to measure his knowledge with their's; full of pluck, the little post boy ccepted, and he proved more than a match for the most proficient Latin scholar among them. And, perhaps, the worthy precep-tor of the Blairsville Academy was not less them. And, perhaps, the worthy preceptor of the Blairsville Academy was not less surprised when the same mail boy, in 1851, came to old lefferson College at Canons, "The Messenger, another Republican paper, published in Indiana, Pa, says:

"The nomination by the Democratic

the valedictory at the semi-centennial an-niversary of the organization of the col-

For two years young Clark served as instructor in the same academy in which he himself attended prior to entering college. He taught forty-five young men, most of whom were older than himself. He was a kind and successful instructor, and from that time he proved himself to be a zeal-ous and faithful friend of popular education; for twelve successive years he was a director in the public schools. His own trials and disadvantages had taught him the value of good schools, and he threw his whole energy into the work, and was the kind of man, above all others, to guard the school interests. To his judgment and energy are the public schools of the pretty little borough largely indebted for their present prosperity. In 1851 the first Teach-er's Institute of Indiana county was organ-ized. Silas M. Clark was present to lend encouragement and give counsel. In 1872 the State Normal School at Indiana was organized. Mr. Clark was a subscriber to the project, and one of the most active and most successful canvassers for other subscriptions. He was elected a member of the first Board of Trustees, and after the death of Mr. John Sutton was chosen President of that Board, which position he still occupies. In the sad trials of the institution Mr. Clark was its staunchest supporter, and to his work more than to that of any other man is due the present success of the Indiana State Normal School. His friendly aid and warm encouragement to officer, teacher and pupils was like "bread cast upon the waters," that will return to him at the November elections; for not a man ever connected with the institution, and not a person in Indiana county interested in popular education, but is numbered among his warmest friends,

THE LAWYER AND ADVOCATE. A man of forty-eight, years, a practising attorney for twenty-live years, Mr. Clark has never been sucd and has never sucd anybody. Though a lawyer, he believes in shunning litigation. Mr. Clark read law with Wm. M. Stewart, Esq., a distinguished and able advocate. Mr. Stewart was defeated for Congress in 1862 by the late John L. Dawson, father-in-law of Chauncey F. Black, Democratic candidate for Lieutenaut-Governor. Mr. Clark was admitted to the Indiana bar in Sept. 1857. After a clerkship of one year he was admitted into partnership with his instructor, and for sixteen years the firm as Stewart & Clark had much the largest and most lucrative practice in Indiana county, and indeed one of the largest in Western Pennsylvania. In 1874, after Mr. Clark's return from the Constitutional Convention, the firm was dissolved. Mr. Stewart removed to Philadelphia, where he resides at present, a member of the well-known banking firm B. K. Jamison & Co., of that city. The firm of Stewart & Clark never had a written agreement and never a disa-agreement. Their large business was settled up without a hitch or dispute. Since 1874, Mr. Clark has continued in the law, practising by himself, and in the past de-cade there has not been a single suit of magnitude in his county in which he was not engaged as counsel. His professional honor and integrity, and ability, are well known to all citizens of Western Pennsylvania. Few lawyers west of the Alleghenies have taken part in so many cases before the Supreme Court, and none have been more successful. There are few attorneys in Pennsylvania of riper experience, more mature judgment, greater political reputation and deeper knowledge of men than Hon. Thomas M. Marshall, of Pittsburg, the Republican attorney who de-clined the Stalwart nomination for Congressman-at-Large. Mr. Marshall said recently of Mr.Clark: "You Democrats have a great man on geous in asserting his principles. If he is elected he will do himself honor and shed lustre upon the supreme bench. He is a big man all over and in every way." Mr. Marshall's was a voluntary tribute to Mr. Clark's professional standing, purity of purpose and honesty of heart.

But there is much additional Republican testimony concerning Mr Clark's personal worth. The Progress, a Republican news-paper published at his home, speaking of the Democratic state ticket, said of him:

"With one exception we know little of sentiment which all who enjoy the person-al acquaintance of Mr. Clark will confess in place, that if the Republican party is to suffer defeat in any portion of its ticket, we could generously submit to the ulti-matum of the ballot that would place such a Democrat as Hon. Silas M. Clark on the supreme bench," the Republican candidate should be defeat. ed, there is the consolation of knowing that the place will be filled by a worthy man. We know that very many Republicans in this and adjoining counties will vote for him, but as the office for which he is a candidate is not a political one, we presume they will not be esteemed traitors to their party for so doing. Fitness alone should be considered in the selection of our judges, and whether Mr. Rawle or Mr. Clark shall be elected this year, we will have a judge who will be a credit to the bench and an honor to the State."

THE MAN OF FAMILY. Silas M. Clark was born on January 18 1834, at Elderton, a little village in Armstrong county, half way between Indiana and Kittanning. His ancestors, of the sterling Scotch-Irish stock, came from Franklin county, Pa., and settled in Armstrong county when that district was a wilderness. Mr. James Clark, his father, never held office except the position of school director and justice of the peace. He was never canal commissioner, as erroneously stated by ex-Senator Buckalew recently. Canal Commissioner Clark was the father of Hon. James C. Clark, of Westmoreland county.

In 1859 Silas M. Cla E. Moorhead, daughter of Wm. Moorhead now of Pittsburgh, were united in mar riage. Five children blessed the uniontwo boys and three girls. The oldest son is at present a member of the Sophomore class at Princeton College. There are few men of such even temperament as Mr. Clark, and his kindly disposition shines forth pre-eminently in his home life. His family life is a living illustration of Cowper's beautiful lines:

Domestic happiness, thou only bliss Of Paradise that hast survived the fall! Thou art the nurse of Virtue, in thine arms She smiles, appearing, as in truth she is, Heaven born, and destined to the skies again. Mr. Clark has a beautiful mansion in the pretty little town of Indiana, which is noted far and wide for its hospitality. He also owns a farm of 150 acres, bordering on the borough limits. He devotes his spare time to overseeing the farm. He delights in agriculture, and as president of the In-diana Agricultural Society has done much to foster the farmers' interests in his own county.

One touch of it transformed the toad at the ear of Eve into his true Satanic shape and sent him away. The toad of disease is silently issuing his venom, not at the ear, but at the kidneys and liver of many a man who "feeling out of sorts," does not know just what is the matter with him. By and by when the mischief is done, and Bright's Disease or some other terrible malady has set in, he discovers his malady only to despair of its cure. Now Hunt's Remedy is as Ithurlel's spear. Its touch reveals the disease in its true shape, and then dismisses it from the system. Even in the worst cases of kidney complaints, it is not too late to call liunt's Remedy in. DROWN'S IRON BITTERS.

MALARIA

Malaria is an almost indescribable malady which not even the most tal ented physicians are able to fathom Its cause is most frequently ascribed to local surroundings, and there is very little question, but this opinion is substantiated by facts. Malaris does not necessarily mean chills and fever while these troubles usually accompany it. It often affects the sufferer with general lassitude, accompanied by loss of appetito, sleepless ness, a tired feeling and a high fever the person afflicted growing weaker and weaker, loses flesh day after day, until he becomes a mere skeleton, a shadow of his former self.

Malaria once having laid its hold upon the human frame, the door of the systen is thrown open to nervous diseases. The body weak and enfeebled absorbs no nourish ment, but subsisting upon itself the digestive organs no longer per form their funcions; the liver be comes torpid, and other organ failing to do their routine work speedily become disordered, and dissolution and death are upt to

In addition to being a certain cure for malaria and chills and fever, BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is highly recommended for all diseases requir ing a certain and efficient tonie : especially indigestion, dyspepsia, intermittent fevers, want of appetite, loss of strength, lack of energy, etc. Es riches the blood, strengthens the muscles, and gives new life to the nerves.
