An Eye Witness' Account of the Fight-The Egyptian Position Taken After a stop. Our covering parties lying down fired while those in front pressed on. Gen. Graham's brigade worked with gallantry. Nothing could surpass their cheer which esembled a wild yell, and could be heard above the din of musketry as they charged up the steep slopes of the trenches. The Egyptians were terror stricken. Many of them hid in the corners of the works, while others fled at their utmost speed, throwing everything from them. work, however, was not yet ended. A large inner redoubt on Arabi's left, well manned and armed, still remained intact, but the British troops were not to be denied. With another brilliant rush they were among the enemy, bayoneting the gunners at their guns and capturing the

from the first rush we were its masters. The rattle of the enemy's musketry died away, while our men forsook the bayonet and picked off any rebels who still showed fight in their retreat. Of the south, the enemy stood a few minutes longer, perhaps a quarter of an hour ; but ments. In a few minutes one rushing stream of fugitives was making for Zagabrigade burst upon the flying foe from the south, and the rout was complete. The artillery came up at a gallop unlimbered, and sent their shot and shell after the rebels, adding to the confusion. The cavalry had got right around the enemy's flanks before the fight had begun. The Egyptian losses and the number of guns captured are greater than was first sup-

Guards and the Fourth brigade cause up." Rejoicings at Alexandria, At Alexandria, the taking of Tel-el-Kebir causes great joy. The excitement and enthusiasm over the English victory culminated in a grand demonstration at night. A procession headed by a band and bearing the devises: "Viva Wolseley," "Tel-el-Kebir," and "Angle terre," paraded through the town. The khedive's band marched to the different death blow has been given to Arabi. All amid the applause of the Europeans. Few Arabs appeared on the streets.

The Italians and Greeks took the initiative, but persons of all nationalities participated in the demonstration. According to news received from Zagazig orders had been given to burn all property belonging to Europeans in the event of the defeat of

The cut connecting the sea with Lake Marcates has been completed, but it is not considered quite successful, but the sea has entered the fosse to the height of three and one half feet.

Zagazig Occupied. Major General McPherson has telegraphed from Zagazig to the Loudon war office, that he made a forced march after the capture of Tel el-Kebir and occupied Zagazig at 4:14 o'clock. He seized five trains with their engines. The governor came in and surrendered to the British. The people are submissive.

Gen. Welseley's Account of the Fight. The war office has received the following official dispatch from Gen. Wolseley, giving his report of the battle at Tel-el We struck camp at Kassassin lock last evening, and bivouacked on a high ridge above the camp until 1:30 this morning. We then advanced upon a very extensive and very strongly fortified position held by Arabi Pacha, with 20,000 regulars, of whom 2,500 were cavaly, with seventy guns, and 6,000 Bedouins and irregulars. My force was about 11,000 bayonets, 2,000 sabres and sixty guns. To have attacked so strong a position by daylight with the troops I could place in the field would have entailed very great loss. I resolved, therefore, to attack before daybreak, marching the six miles that intervened between my camp and the enemy's position in the darkness. The cavalry and two bat-teries of horse artillery on the right had orders to sweep round the enemy's line at daybreak. The First division, Second brigade, under General Graham, supported the enemy's works and camps are now in our possession. I do not yet know exactly the number of guns captured, but it is considerable. Several trains with immense considerable. Several trains with immense quantities of supplies were captured. The enemy ran away in thousands, throwing away their arms when overtaken by our cavalry. Their loss is very great.

General Willis is very slightly, and Col. Richardson severely wounded. Majors Colvile, Underwood and Somerville, of the Highland light infantry, were killed. Of the "Blackmatch" Lieutenant MacNeil way killed, and Captaing Cambagland and cavalry is now on the march to Bilbeis, and the Indian contingent is on its way to Zagazig, to be followed this evening by the Highland brigade. Three lieutenants of the Cameron Highlanders are wounded. The caual is cut in some places, but the railway is intact. It has been discovered that Racheb Pacha and Ali Fehmi Pacha were wounded in the engagement of last Saturday. The British Commander.

The next occasion on which Sir It is feared that he will lose the sight of liament. The next occasion on which Sir Garnet saw active service was in 1879, when he conducted the operations against Secocoeni, whose stronghold he destroyed. Sir Garnet, besides his military employ-ment, has held civil posts under the colonial office. In 1874 he was dispatched to Natal to administer the government of that colony; in 1876 was appointed a member of the Council of India, and in 1878 the administrator of the Island of Cyprus. In 1879 Sir Garnet went out as high commissioner of the Transvaal and Natal, and re-organized the affairs of Zululand. Coming home in 1880, he was appointed quartermaster general at the Horse Guards, and has lately succeeded Sir Charles Ellis as adjutant general of

WOMEN AS STOCK OPERATORS. ome Facts About Female Speculators in New York-Doing a Large Business

Without Publicity. The New York Times has the following: One of the best-known women in this country is a heavy and successful operator in Wall street. And she is not the only heavy artillery Thus we captured the woman who puts up margins and takes key of the position. In fifteen minutes the risk of their being wiped out in the fickle, fluctuating course of the market. Seized with the mania which has made and unmade many men, women are plunging into the vortex of speculation. are more places than one would imagine in New York where women can consult the "tape" and give their "orders"— places that were established for their exclusive accommodation, and where the sterner sex are not expected to intrude. There are "bucket shops;" as they are called, for female dcalers, too-places where no actual transactions are made, but where money changes bands on the quotations without making purchases. The offices intended for the patronage of ladies are up town. There are "bucketshops" in Twenty-fourth street, but bucket shops only thrive among a certain class. Ladies of refinement who have money to invest prefer to place it where they can venture without fear of exciting posed. It is believed that the bulk of the rebel forces will be captured, and that a the walls of a staid and stately brownstone front in a fashionable neighborhood the work was done by our troops in the first line of attack. The principal fortifications had been carried by the time the tages can watch the course of the market without any one being the wiser for it, Notwithstanding the fact that the people who conduct the better class of offices do not advertise, they do a large and profita-ble business. Their customers prefer absolute privacy, and they trust to their patrons to increase their operations.

Half-a-dozen wires run from the network strung on the Western Union telegraph company's poles in Sixth avenue, lor of the house No. 47 West Thirtyseventh street. The house is like the others in the row. It is a brown-stone front with modestly curtained windows. There is an iron balcony in front. Green ivy climbs up the heavy balustrade leading to the entrance and entwines itself in the iron-work of the balcony. The pres-sent occupants have been in the house only a short time, and it is within the past few weeks that the wires have been put up. Were it not for the wires, which are discreetly trained like honeysuckles up the back of the house, no one would take it for anything but a private resi-dence, and as for that matter the casual observer would even now take it for nothing else. But the wires have thrown the neighborhood into a ferment. They have wondered what their purpose was, and time has not only increased their curiosity but excited their suspicions as well. They have not made bold to go to the buse and find out, and have consequently lived in a state of perplexity. The people in the neighborhood even went so far as to seek the owners of the property, but they, too, were ignorant on the subject and could throw no light on the mystery.

A reporter called at the house one day lately to solve the mystery. A woman answered the bell, and the caller was shown into the front parlor. The door of the back parlor was partly open ard through it came the sounds of a "ticker," such as are found in the offices of brokers to register stock quotations. There was a telephone and a messenger call in sight besides. There was a desk near the ticker," at which sat a woman, and there was something of an air of business about the room. The front parlor was handsomely furnished. Fine engravings hung on the wall, and a grand piano stood in one corner. Near the front windows was a large desk with a rolling top which was closed. The woman who admitted the caller was a middle aged person with blonde hair. She were glasses and a light well fitting dress, and was brisk in her airs. She explained that the "ticker" was put in for her own use. by the foot guards, under the Duke of have dealt in stocks for ten years," Connaught, seven batteries of artillery, she said. "If ladies want me to buy numbering forty-two guns, with a supporting brigade, the second division of the Highland brigade leading, the Indian contingent and the navel brigade on the railway, advanced. Great emulation was evinced by the regiments to be the first in the enemy's works. All want at them the enemy's werks. All went at them straight, the Royal Irish particularly distinguishing itself by its dash and the manner in which it closed with the enemy. All house down town, which were made out to Mrs. C. R. Morse. "As I said, I will take no orders for less than 100 shares. I charge 10 per cent., so that if the stock goes down a point or two or three the margin will not be wiped out. Here is an advertisement of what is known as a bucket-shop," she went on, pointing to a notice in a morning paper. "Do you suppose a legitimate business is done on a margin of 2 to 3 per cent.? No indeed—that is simple gambling. No stock is bought or sold. I do no advertising and was killed, and Captains Cumberland and Fox were wounded.
General Alison's aid-de-camp, Captain Huttong, was wounded. Colonel Stirling and the surgeon of the Coldstream guards were wounded. Colonel Balfour, of the Grenadier guards, was wounded in the leg, and the color sergeon.

" No, madam." A decline in another stock brought forth the remark, "Well, I am glad I am out of that." A lady in black, evidently an investor, was in the parlor when the reporter

"A Wonderful Thing is a Seed," Says some song writer, and then he adds:
You can sow to day; to morrow will bring "You can sow to-day; to-morrow will bring The blossom that proves what sort of thing Is the seed, the seed that you sow."
All of which is true. And Hunt's remedy is a wonderful thing, also. It, also, is tested by experience. You give it to one who is severely afflicted with dropsy, or some liver or kidney disease, and "to-morrow," or a little while, reveals "what sort of thing" it is; for it proves itself to be "the friend in need," the cure for which you have been seeking. This is the experience of thousands. We do not fear, but invite the most rigid testing of Hunt's Remedy in kidney and liver diseases.

MALARIA

malady which not even the most talented physicians are able to fathom. Its cause is most frequently ascribed to local surroundings, and there is very little question, but this opinion is substantiated by facts. Malaria does not necessarily mean chills and fever while these troubles usually accompany it. It often affects the sufferer with general lassitude, accompanied by loss of appetite, sleeplessnoss, a tired feeling and a high fever the person afflicted growing weaker and weaker, loses flesh day after day, until he becomes a mere akeleton, a shadow of his former self.

Majaria once having laid its hold upon the human trame, the door of the system is thrown open to nervous discusses. The body weak and enfeebled absorbs no nourishment, but subsisting upon itself, the digestive organs no longer per-form their funcions; the liver becomes torpid, and other organs failing to do their routine work,

In addition to being a certain cure for malaria and chills and fever. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is highly recommended for all diseases requiring a certain and efficient tonic; especially indigestion, dyspepsia, intermittent fevers, want of appetite, loss of strength, lack of energy, etc. Enriches the blood, strengthens the muscles, and gives new life to the perves. Acts like a charm on the digestive orgaus. It is for sale by all respectable medicine dealers, price, $1 per bottle.

Be sure and get the genuine BROWN'S IRON BITTERS. Take no other.
