DIAMOND THIEVES IN PARIS.

The Clever Trick by Which They Secured a Noble Gem. London Standard. The case of two clever English rogues, Fulton and Watson, came on for hearing yesterday. It was they who, last winter, stole from a jeweler, Mme. Chauvet, in the Rue des Capucines, diamonds to the value of $26,000 francs. The robbery was perpetrated in the following daring fashion: A man calling himself Col. Gaston presented himself in Mme Chauvet's shop, and requested to be shown some diamonds, necklaces, &c. His manners were so good and his dress so elegantly correct in every respect that the merchant had no hesitation in spreading before her customer her most valuable gems. Of these the swindler made a lavish choice, and asked Mme Chauvet to place them in a black hand-bag. Almost immediately he disappeared. Almost immediately he had left the shop a respectable dressed woman entered and requested to be shown a certain ring in the shop window. While Mme Chauvet was occupied in getting the ring the "colonel's" accomplice succeeded in stealthily substituting an absolutely similar handbag for the one left on the counter. This done, she quickly chose her ring and left. When evening came without her customer returning, Mme. Chauvet opened the bag—which she thought was the same one that "the colonel" had left—and discovered that she had been robbed. When Fulton and Watson were arrested in Belgium for other diamond robberies, several of the stones stolen from Mme. Chauvet were found in their possession. Fulton was yesterday sentenced to four, Watson the pretended colonel, to five years imprisonment.

THE GREAT COMET.

The Elements of its Orbit Computed at the Observatories of the Smithsonian Institution. An approximate computation of the elements of the new comet, completed by Mr. S. C. Chandler, Jr., at Harvard Observatory, based upon the observation of Professor Swift, of Cincinnati, on the 13th inst., at 1:30 p. m., on the 19th instant, at Cambridge, and that at 11 o'clock a. m., on the 20th instant, also at Cambridge is as follows: Time of perihelion passage 1882, August 30; longitude of perihelion 271°, longitude of node 170°, inclination of orbit 47°, perihelion distance 27,000,000 miles. At the time of the first observation the comet was about 36,000,000 miles from the earth, and at the time of the three observations 32,500,000 miles. This corresponds to a rate of speed of 1,500,000 miles a day. Assuming the orbit to be correct, the comet will approach within 15,000,000 miles of the earth, being nearest in the early part of October, but will then be visible only in the Southern Hemisphere, and will probably be visible above the horizon for a few days here a little before sunrise.

NEW RAILROADS.

Charters for Lines to Phoenixville from Lancaster, Reading and Philadelphia. A dispatch to the Philadelphia Times from West Chester says: A number of New York railroad men were at the falls of French Creek, in the western part of Chester county, on Wednesday, looking over the route of a proposed railroad from Lancaster to Phoenixville, a charter granted in 1873 being used. Directly in the route adopted is a local railroad in Lancaster county, seven miles in length, which has been purchased to form part of the proposed line. From Phoenixville it will run through the Skip-pack valley and Bucks county. It is expected that the average cost of the road will be about $11,000 per mile. It is announced that the board of directors will hold a meeting in Philadelphia on the 26th instant for the purpose of awarding contracts for its construction. Harrisburg, Sept. 21.—A charter has been issued to the Philadelphia, York, Pottstown and Phoenixville railroad company, which proposes to undertake the construction of a railroad from a point on the Pennsylvania railroad between Girard avenue station and Radnor station, to Phoenixville, a distance of twenty-five miles. The capital stock is one million dollars. The Pennsylvania railroad company is building the line. The Phoenixville, Pottstown and Reading railroad was also chartered to-day with a capital stock of one million dollars. It intends to construct a road from Phoenixville to Reading. This line will also be under the control of the Pennsylvania railroad company.
