JOHN L. ARNOLD,

IN MEMORIAM.

A FRIEND'S TRIBUTE TO A FRIEND.
Sketch of the Life and Character of the Late Michael Fisher by His Associate of More Than Thirty Years.

Inasmuch as the obituaries of our lately deceased fellow-citizen, which were published in the city papers, were not quite satisfactory to his family and friends for lack of facts, it may subserv a useful end to offer the following:

Michael Fisher was born on the 3d day of November, 1823, in the village of Garsdorf, Alsace, about "three hours" from the city of Strasburg, on the Rhine—then belonging to the kingdom of France, and in the reign of Charles the Tenth—consequently, had he survived until the 31 of November next, he would have been sixty years of age. He, therefore, and his immediate ancestors, were French subjects. His father, John George Fisher, served fifteen years under the Republic and the first Napoleon in the French army. His uncle, after whom he was named, was also in the army, but never returned, and his fate was unknown to his family. His father was with Napoleon at the Bridge of Lodi, and the latter's flight acrossed the Alps and participated in the battles of that military enterprise. He was also in the Egyptian campaign and various other places, and only escaped Moscow and Waterloo because the division in which he served was doing duty elsewhere. However, after the thirty years, and in the 37th year of his age, he was mustered out of the service and returned to his native village, where he commenced the tailoring business and where, about the year 1817, he was married to Miss Maria Elizabeth Fisher, sons were the issue of this marriage while he remained in Europe; namely, George, Louis, Michael and Henry. Charles B., his fifth son, was born in Lancaster. All these sons learned the "art and mystery" of tailoring and became skillful workmen. George, however, about thirty years ago and became an artist, and Henry about twenty years ago entered into the grocery business. To their credit it may be truly said they were honest workmen and felt a pride in doing things well. Michael, however, after his trade, in the earlier part of his lives at least.

With his own military experience ever before his mind, and the constant demand upon the services of the masses of the people of Europe, under monarchical rule, Mr. Fisher saw no prospect for his sons but long leases of service in the army, with little or no opportunity for promotion; hence he turned his mind towards republican America. In the month of March, 1830, at the port of Havre, in France, he and his family embarked on board of the ship Great Britain, for the city of New York, where, after a passage of thirty-four days, the vessel arrived (about Whitsuntide) in the month of May. From New York they came immediately to Lancaster and took up their residence in or near the Swartz tavern, East King street, from whence they subsequently removed to Middle street, near the court house. They had not been more than two months in Lancaster before another revolution occurred in France, culminating in the downfall of Charles the Tenth, and the inauguration of Louis Philippe as "Citizen King."

Mr. Fisher was a staunch Lutheran, and under the auspices of Rev. John G. Baker, then the pastor in charge of the Trinity church, he soon obtained employment at his trade, his first employer being Mr. Long, who died in the year 1847, much esteemed. Before his death, he and all his family were united in the church of the late F. J. Kramp, on the corner of North Queen and Orange streets. On the 1st of July, 1851, Michael Fisher, the subject of this memoir, took a position in the establishment of Mr. Kramp as assistant cutter and salesman, and continued in his employ until the death of the latter in April, 1853, and was retained by his executors until April, 1859, when the establishment passed into the hands of S. S. Rathvon. He continued in the same position with Mr. Rathvon until the 1st of January, 1870, when he was taken in as a partner under the firm name of Rathvon & Fisher, and continued in that connection until the 15th of July, 1882, when the partnership was mutually dissolved, as it became manifest that he could not recover from the repeated attacks of paralysis, of which he had been the subject for the two last years of his life—the first occurring on the 18th of July, 1880, and the last on the 8th of August, 1882. From this last date, until his death on the 8th of September, he became prostrated, and for a week or more altogether unconscious, evincing no pain, and finally and tranquilly passing away.

From these records it will be perceived that as fellow craftsman, employee and partner, he was associated with the writer a little over thirty-one years, and all the while in the same locality. Nor had there ever been a single altercation or misunderstanding between them in all his financial, social, business and domestic relations, Michael Fisher was a man of the most scrupulous integrity; he was also a consistent, although not a bigoted, religiousist. He labored honestly, industriously and economically, and his chief desire was to realize the pauline doctrine: "own no man any thing," but good will. If he had not faith in all men it was because his business experience had furnished ample evidence that "all men are not what they seem." Few men were more pure and more single in their domestic relations than he. Although not "rigidly righteous," he constantly endeavored to "render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's."

From a very early age he was identified with the Lutheran church, and belonged to its vestry, both in Trinity and Grace churches. He was a genial companion and had a tolerably keen sense of the ludicrous, but never willfully or wantonly offended any one. Of course, as is the custom of our family, he may have had his faults, but these were more of the "rank and file" variety, and he, or others, often entertained the doubt whether he was, however, not based upon faith alone as contradistinguished from good works, and he had implicit confidence in the teachings of Jesus—"He that heareth these sayings of mine and doeth them, I will tell you what he is like." Whatever counter to that, may have been inculcated by the creeds of men. He did not think that any human power could unchurch a man for a lack of prescribed faith alone, if his life was good.

He was for many years a member of Lancaster lodge, No. 67, and Washington encampment, No. 11, of the Independent order of Odd Fellows, and lodge and chapter No. 43 and commandery No. 13, of the order of Free and Accepted Masons, but he never aspired to official position therein, his sphere of duty being confined to the "rank and file." He, with many others, often entertained the doubt whether he was, however, not based upon faith alone as contradistinguished from good works, and he had implicit confidence in the teachings of Jesus—"He that heareth these sayings of mine and doeth them, I will tell you what he is like." Whatever counter to that, may have been inculcated by the creeds of men. He did not think that any human power could unchurch a man for a lack of prescribed faith alone, if his life was good.

the surviving issue of that marriage is one son and one daughter, the latter of whom is the wife of Mr. Jacob Powell, of Philadelphia.

In politics Mr. Fisher was a Democrat of no doubtful type, although he did not claim to be a politician. In all his political, religious, social and domestic proclivities, he was conservative, and did not believe things were always bettered merely by being changed; and, in his pecuniary obligations, few men were more scrupulously correct.
Always accustomed, from his youth up, to an active, industrious life, it may well be supposed that during the two years of his affliction he must have suffered a great deprivation. Inheriting a strong, independent and self-reliant disposition, it was no small trial to feel a deep sense of helplessness; and yet, under the providence of God, we have reason to believe, he perceived that it was well it should be so. The discipline would doubtless in every instance ultimate in good, if men "possessed their souls in patience," and hopefully subordinate themselves to it.
Death is not "an eternal sleep," but is, on the contrary, the "beginning of life," and infinitely alone knows who are fittest to be removed from this world, for which removal is vouchsafed. It is always a sad event, but not necessarily an unfortunate one, and he is a wise man who can comprehend the lesson it teaches. Our friend has gone; may his spirit rest in peace. R.

DESPERATE JAIL BREAKERS.

Five Burglars Lock up the Jail Officers and Escape.
Two months ago five burglars robbed the express office at Greenville, Pa. and were afterwards captured at Oil City, after a long chase and a desperate street fight. They were taken to the Mercer jail, and were to be tried next week. On Wednesday they seized Marshal Hughes, guarding the inner court of the prison, bound and gagged him and placed him in a cell, after which, with revolvers, they forced fifteen prisoners into their cells. They awaited the arrival of the turnkey and jail physician, and when these officers appeared both were seized and locked up. Scouring the keys, they opened the doors, passed to the sheriff's quarters, captured the sheriff's wife and the cook, locked them in a room and then fled. It was some time before their absence was discovered, and at last accounts the desperados were still at large. Five hundred dollars reward has been posted for their capture.

The Case Against Election Inspectors.

James Miller and John Warrick, election inspectors of the First ward, of Newburgh, N. Y., were tried in the county court on an indictment charging them with a violation of the law of 1880, which provides that political organizations shall have the privilege of appointing watchers at the polls. It was alleged that they ejected representatives of the Citizens' association who were appointed as watchers at the charter election in March last. This indictment, made in the month of June, of the nominees of the Democratic and Republican parties, but nominated a few candidates of their own. The inspectors held that the association was not such a political organization as the law contemplated, and refused admission to the watchers. One of the latter made a forcible entrance, and was ejected by the police by direction of the inspectors. The offense charged was that of a misdemeanor. The jury, after forty minutes' deliberation, returned a verdict of acquittal.

Clubbing a Clergyman.

Rev. Mr. McClintock, pastor of the United Presbyterian church of Avondale, Colobon county, Ohio, was arrested and brutally beaten with a club by Robert Hood, one of the elders of the church, on account of ill-feeling growing out of a church trial.

It is a wonderful unanimity among the physicians and the laity who have tried and prescribed Hunt's Kidney Pills to their patients, that they are in the most valuable work. For ailments of the kidneys, liver, bladder, and urinary organs, they are as effective as works with marvelous directness and power. It is against the rules of the medical fraternity to give written testimonials in favor of "proprietary medicines," but we have scores of verbal testimonials from the best physicians as to the value of Hunt's Kidney Pills among their most valued prescriptions, and used in severe cases of kidney and liver diseases freely as is quinine as an anti-periodic. With such an endorsement, one cannot go wrong in buying this medicine for himself, and following the specific directions which accompany it.

"By asking too much we may lose the little that we had before." Kidney-Wort asks nothing but fair for it. This is not a case of loss of faith in its virtues. A lady writes from Oregon: "For the last year I have been afflicted with kidney complaints. Two packages of Kidney Wort have done me more good than all the medicine and doctors I have had before. I believe it is a sure cure."

Visible Improvement.
Mr. Noah Baker, of Chest, writes: "About four years ago I had an attack of bilious fever, and never fully recovered. My digestion was so impaired that I was unable to completely prostrate for days. After using two bottles of your Burdock Kidney Bitters the fever was gone and my digestion was restored. I can now, though 61 years of age, do a fair and reasonable day's work. Price 25c. For sale at H. B. Cochran's drug store, 137 North Queen street, Lancaster."

Catarrh cured, health and sweet breath secured by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50c. per bottle. For sale at Cochran's drug store, 137 North Queen street.

None enjoys the nicest surroundings if in bad health. There are miserable people about today to whom a bottle of Parke's Ginger Tonic would bring more solid comfort than all the medicine they have ever tried.—New York.

Walnut Leaf Hair Restorer.
It is entirely different from all others. It is as clear as water, and, as its name indicates, is a perfect Vegetable Hair Restorer. It will immediately free the hair from all dandruff, restore gray hair to its natural color and promote the growth of new hair. It is so effective that it does not in any manner effect the health, which Sulphur, augar of Lead and Nitrate of Silver preparations have done. It will change light or faded hair in a few days to a beautiful glossy brown. Ask your druggist for it. Each bottle is warranted to give satisfaction. H. B. Cochran, Wholesale Agents, Philadelphia, and C. N. CHITTENTON New York. June-17, 1882

MEDICAL.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.

No Whisky!

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is one of the very few tonic medicines that are not composed mostly of alcohol or whisky, thus becoming a fruitful source of intemperance by promoting a desire for rum.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is guaranteed to be a non-intoxicating stimulant, and it will, in nearly every case, take the place of all liquor, and at the same time absolutely kill the desire for whisky and other intoxicating beverages.

Rev. G. W. Rick, editor of the American Christian Review, says of BROWN'S IRON BITTERS:

Cin., O., Nov. 16, 1881.
Gents—The foolish wasting of vital force in business, pleasure, and vicious indulgence of our people, makes your preparation a necessity, and it applied, will save hundreds who resort to saloons for temporary recuperation.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS has been thoroughly tested for dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, weakness, debility, overwork, rheumatism, neuralgia, consumption, liver complaints, kidney troubles, &c., and it never fails to render speedy and permanent relief.

For sale wholesale and retail by H. B. COCHRAN, Druggist, 137 and 139 North Queen street, Lancaster.
