Unnecessarily Disturbed.

The editor of the Philadelphia Times is very much disturbed over the action of the Philadelphia Democratic conventions in nominating Democrats for the county offices. " The folly of the Demo crats vesterday was monumental." says the veteran McClure ; " it was the sublimity of stupidity." Anybody unacquainted with the colonel's disposition to " go off " in this way would naturally think that he was in a bad way and in serious danger of apoplexy. But the trouble with the editor of the Times is a trouble that assails a good many states. men ; namely, a supreme degree of satisfaction with his own judgment and a superlative impatience with those dissenting from it. The Times is often amusing in this way, but it never has been more so than on this occasion when its denunciation of Democratic folly is laughable because it is so entirely unmerited. The Democratic city conventions in nominating Democrats, in our judgment, and that of all other Democrats we presume, did just what they should have done and what they could not avoid doing; it was what they were appointed to do ; what their party was formed to do; and what, band. Doubtless the Democracy may the important matter of paying taxes. be all wrong and the editor of the Times Right now is the time to perform this all right in their respective judgments, duty. No person is entitled to vote at but the chances are decidedly the other the approaching election who has not way. The Times man has the fortune paid a state or county tax within the not to be a Democrat ; which is a mis- past two years. The last day to pay fortune when he undertakes to recommend Democratic action and to ber. Let no one who has the interest criticise it. If he could get his of Pattison and good government at focus right he might see right; but it is quite impossible for Colonel McClure, with the political education he has had, to comprehend Democratic principles and policy, so at least as to be a teacher of them.

The Democratic judgment is easily that a Democratic conentisfied has done its duty when vention placed fit Democrats in it has nomination for office. The public offices are regarded by the party as places to be filled by the party, if it can command a majority; if some other party can command a majority than that party should fill the offices. It may surprise the Times to hear it. but nevertheless it is a fact that the Democracy does not lay claim to the offices unless it can get them with a majority vote. If, as the Times declares, the Republicans are in a majority in Philadelphia, then the Republicans are entitled to fill the offices and should do it. Theirs is the responsibility. 'The true policy of the Democracy is to mind its own business and to famy of the men with whom he slept so long in one political bed. Infamous we may believe them to be, when their party associates admit it. Infamous we knew them to be, since the facts proclaimed it. But some people do not believe facts and are only convinced by confessions. Such men have Mr. John Stewart's confession and that of his fellow repentants to confirm them in the knowledge of the thorough rottenness of the Republican party. Bishop's Discent. A special dispatch from Chicago says : A storm is gathering over the heads of the Episcopalians of this city. Bishop Mc-Laren was invited by the Rev. Mr. Richie. the rector of the Church of Ascension, to be present Friday afternoon at the laying called high mass which is not contained in stage, and the bishop's refusal to attend the dedication was intended and accepted as an expression of his emphatic dissent from the popery practices prevalent at the Church of the Ascension.

The ceremonies attending the laying of the foundation stone of the church were begun Friday morning at 6 o'clock by celebrating mass. There were five masses given, lasting half an hour each, the last altar, which is of handsome marble and candles, the vestments worn by the priests and the bowing before the cross, the regular Episcopalian service was observed. The celebration of solemn high mass began at 11 o'clock and lasted nearly an and numbers were unable to procure seats. Many of those present were attracted out of curiosity, and it was the first time that a majority of the people had ever witnessed the celebration of a high mass in an Episcopalian church. The procession was made up of cross bearers candle bearers, incense bearers, sub deacon, deacon celebrant, choir and visit ing clergymen, in the order named. Every person in the procession wore robes of brilliant colors, the choir having theirs of blood-red and white, with red velvet bands around the waists. The vestments of the celebrants were an alb and chasuble of beautiful design and colors. That regular ceremonies of high mass had been performed and the Gloria had been sung mass, the priest took the sacrament and the choir left the church while singing. Thus the mass closed.

Immediately after the service the cornerstone was formally laid by Rev. Darrett. of Racine. Addresses were made by Ritchie and Dr. Jewell, 'Father' "Father" Ritchie spoke of the bishop's absence, and said that a few years ago he was in the darkness of Calvinism. This ended the exercises. The most intense amusement was created in Sheffield on Thursday in legal and commercial circles, the fact having leaked out that a local gentleman, exceedingly well-known in public life, had sought the help of the Matrimonial News in his de sire to obtain a wife, and had met with a strange adventure during his quest. In the newspaper mentioned a widow at Tunbridge Wells, with considerable personal attractions, advertised that she was desirous of entering the marriage state; and last Saturday the Sheffield gentlemen. having seen the advertisement, visited the widow with a view of offering her his hand and heart," and sharing her fortunes. But " the course of true love did not run smoothly," for the eager lover, on reaching the house, was confronted by tical leaders, and is a most serious evil in gineer should have noticed the opening in the widow's brother in-law, who thrashed and kicked the Sheffield sutor out of the a few yards of the draw before any at- fair one's home. Discomfited, the deject ed one returned to Hallamshire, and wrote to the widow asking, "Why your brother should have thought it fit to insult me in the way he did ?" The letter got into the hands of the brother-in-law, who replied, "You ask for an explanation. I now give it you. The lady in question was once a lugatic, and confined for seven years in an asylum I took her out of it, and, hearing she was trying to get marired, through the Matrimonial News,] came down to see if it were true. I am thankful to say I had the great pleasure of kicking you out of her house, and showing you up before so many people."

The Independent Leader.

When politicians fall out the public are benefitted much as honest men are rogues; we do not care to say that there is not much difference between politicians and rogues, because some politicians are very decent people. There is no positive incompatibility between decency and politics, though they do not have any great affinity to each other. The present thought was suggested by the liberal denunciation which the Liberal Republican speakers the other uight sword and scabbard of silver, presented to in our opera house had for their late him by the troops under his command comrades in the Republican fellowship. Mr. Stewart, Liberal Republican candidate for governor, declared that there was nothing in Senator Cameron of senatorial capacity, and that his only title to his place was that he was the son of his father, and that father a very disreputable old man who "disgraced the Towanda, because she refused to go ridcommonwealth by his corruption and ing with him. MEDICO-POLITICAL ETHICS.

Two Boards of Visitors for Virginia Medical

Governor Cameron of Virginia, a few days ago appointed a new board of visitors for the medical college of Virginia, in Richmond, thereby summarily displacing the old board. This action created much excitement and indignation in medical circles, and is being severely criticised by the press and public. The old board, how-ever, upon the best legal advice, determined to hold on, claiming that the gover-nor, under the law, had no right to remove them ; that he could only fill vacancies, and that no vacancies existed. There was a meeting of the new board at Ford's hotel, when they proceeded to the medical college to take possession. Upon arriving they met with resistance, the oid board hoving the place guarded by policemen, who proceeded to take the intruders into custody. Licutenant Governor Lewis, who s president of the new board, notified the police that he would hold them responsible under the law for the indignity and illegal arrest.

The new board subsequently adopted a resolution notifying each member of the faculty of the medical college of Virginia that the board will proceed to-day at four p. m., to consider whether each of them the faculty) shall not, for his participation in the illegal proceedings above-mentioned, be removed from his position as professor in said college. It is expected that State Attorney General Blair will be instructed to-morrow to take such legal steps as may be deemed necessary to secure to the new board the property, etc., of the medical college and give them control of

THE OLDEST TYPU.

His Name is Jos'ah S. Royal, a Native o Lancaster. Harrisburg Independent.

Mr. J. S. Royal is one of the oldest practical printers now living in the city. He was born Oct. 11, 1814. and will soon be 68 years of age. Mr. R. was born in the city of Lancaster, and came to this city when quite a young man, working for several years in the old Keystone office, under the reign of Packea, Barret & Parke. He went to Columbus, Ohio, in 1835 or 1836, at the request of Sam Medary, esq., the then state printer, and for many years the publisher of the Statesman-a promiment Democratic paper of the times-and returned to Harrisburg about the year 1840. At that day there was railroad communication only between vance is anticipated.

this city and Chambersburg, and it required 11 days to make the journey over the mountains via Chambersburg. Mr. Royal has resided in this city ever since, and for many years carried on the printing business on his own account, having his office on Third street, in the old Keystone building on the site where the two lower stories under the opera house are now lo

The Mennonites

Some one in New Holland writes for the Times an overdrawn account of the habits and manners of the Mennonite people in that section of Lancaster county. He draws somewhat freely on his imagination for picturesque effects, and the article is evidently from the same pen that recently contributed to the Times a ridiculous and inaccurate sketch of the mode of life that prevails among the rustic population of the county.

Before Alderman Barr.

Jacob Shaub had a hearing before A!derman Barr this morning on the charge of larceny as bailee, on complaint of Samuel Ward, and was held in bail for court. James Quinn got drunk and for that offense received a ten days' excursion ticket to Burkholder's Villa this morning.
