LANCASTER WATCHES.
Omaha Opinion
AS TO RELATIVE MERITS OF
Lancaster Watches
IS DIRECT AND CONCLUSIVE.
"One Recommends Another."
OMAHA, NEBRASKA, Oct. 3, 1882.
To LANCASTER WATCH CO.
Gentlemen: WE NEVER SAW GOODS SELL SO FAST AS YOURS. WE HAVE SOLD ALL KINDS OF WATCHES HERE IN OMAHA FOR THE PAST NINE YEARS, BUT HAVE NEVER HAD SUCH A "RUN" ON ANY OTHER MARK OF WATCHES. OUR CUSTOMERS CALL FOR LANCASTER MOVEMENTS IN PREFERENCE TO OLDER ESTABLISHED WATCHES. WE SELL THEM AT WHOLESALE AND RETAIL, AND EACH ONE SOLD SEEMS TO RECOMMEND ANOTHER.
THEY GIVE, ALSO, BETTER SATISFACTION FOR THE MONEY THAN ANY OTHER WATCH THAT WE HAVE EVER HANDLED, AND WE FEEL CONFIDENT THAT, AS THEY BECOME KNOWN, THE LANCASTER WATCHES WILL TAKE THE LEAD WHEREVER ACCURATE TIME-KEEPERS ARE NEEDED.
WE WILL SAY THAT WE HEARTILY AGREE WITH MR. E. J. ZAHM, OF YOUR CITY, IN HIS RECENT ESTIMATE OF THE MERITS OF THE LANCASTER WATCH, AS COMPARED WITH OTHERS IN THE MARKET. THANKS FOR THIRTY MOVEMENTS WHICH YOU HAVE BEEN SO KIND AS TO SEND US. WE NEED AT ONCE A QUOTE SOLD OUT.
Respectfully,
EDGEMAN & ERICKSON,
Wholesale and Retail Manufacturers of Jewels and Practical Watchmakers.
The above Letter is the More Gratifying because of its Unqualified Endorsement of the very Favorable Home Opinion of the Lancaster Watches recently given by Mr. E. J. Zahm.

OVATION TO PATTISON.
CROWDS FLOCKING TO WELCOME HIM
Hearty Greetings All Along the Line From Williamsport to Clarion—Some Notes on Demonstrations—The Speeches.
When Controller Pattison and his party left Philadelphia on Monday night, the programme provided for the first stop at Williamsport, but the enthusiastic Democrats of Sunbury broke in on this arrangement in a measure. The train stopped there for a short time and, though the candidate was readily named, he did not yield to the impromptu, hastily dressed and appeared on the platform long enough to receive a cheer of encouragement and hopeful God-speed from the crowd. At Milton, the town risen from its ashes and strengthened and beautified by the chaste hand of adversity, though the dawn light was still struggling through the blinds of early morning, a goodly number of people had assembled at the station. The stop was very brief and only sufficient for a word of well wishes. A committee of citizens from Williamsport, headed by the veteran Gen. Early and including the notable Jacob Ballads, boarded the train, which rapidly sped on to that place.
Arriving there at eight o'clock the party was greeted by a most flattering reception. An immense crowd had gathered and the train pulled into the station. The event was celebrated by a salute of belching artillery. Then the band broke in on the silence that followed with inspiring music. Ex-Senator Wallace and E. A. Bigler, of Clearfield, and ex-Senator S. H. Peale, of Lock Haven, were foremost in the ranks to greet the controller with words of welcome and ex-Senator Robert P. Allen, Colonel Fred E. Embick and other trusted leaders of Democracy thought added their presence to the occasion. Breakfast was steaming on the table and the great crowd made a free passage to the dining room, to which the party headed with haste impelled by gnawing appetites. While the controller was thus employed comforting the inner man Senator Wallace, in response to calls, made a ten minute speech, such as he can well make. He referred to the fact that the last Democratic governor of the commonwealth was a citizen of that beautiful city, and now filled an honored grave in the adjacent cemetery. He recalled that eighty years had elapsed since a citizen of Philadelphia had been called to that high trust, and now a Democratic governor was to come again from that great city, because the methods that had surrounded it and its people had been met and successfully encountered by the candidate of Democracy and his associates in the work of reform. They had placed her upon the high road to honest government and purity of administration. This had made reform the crying need of the state, and reform and our candidate were to come to power together. The Democracy would then be not inferior to the Republicans in the duties imposed upon us.
Thus entertained, the controller found the crowd in a happy mood to receive him on his appearance on the hotel piazza. After the cheers that announced his coming had subsided and order was restored, he was introduced and spoke as follows:
"As I journeyed towards this city, one of the great centres of the timber interest of Pennsylvania, my mind recalled the story of the building of Solomon's Temple. Sacred history tells us how devoted hands stripped the forests of Lebanon of their wealth of wood, which went into the construction of that wonderful edifice, dedicated to the worship of Almighty God. This thought then occurred to me: 'The people of this region are engaged in the building of a great temple—the temple of a state's prosperity—a nation's grandeur. The trees you fell on your hills float down your river and are used in the building of churches, school houses and homes. Thus your industry, with that of other sections, unite in erecting the great temple of education, which has grown to such fair proportions in this land. I thank your kindness and heartiness of this reception and congratulate you upon the auspicious promise that you have the government of this state—the political temple which you have helped to build—will soon be restored from the hands of the bosses and spoilsmen.'
When the candidate descended to the platform and passed through the immense crowd to the train he was introduced to the people and shook them cordially by the hands. Wallace, Peale and Bigler joined the party and the train moved off for Lock Haven. At this place a crowd, which, though less in number than at Williamsport, was fully equal in enthusiasm, received the tourists. The train, which had been delayed at all points, was now falling, but the earnest Democrats stood out and listened, seemingly oblivious of the discomfort. Judge Mayer, protected by a friendly umbrella, smiled assent to the logic of the orators, and cheer after cheer testified that the words were falling on friendly ears. As at other points, a band was present to give life to the event, and after a lively strain Mr. Pattison, being introduced, said:
"The people are contesting in this campaign for faithful representation. They represent the people and not the bosses and spoilsmen. They are public trusts and not personal property. If officials administer their duties as trustees and with an eye to the benefit of those entrusting them with power, then will the people be in fact represented. If, on the other hand, as spoilsmen regard their offices as property, as spoils, then the people are not masters, but servants. This is a reversal of the spirit and intent of republican government."
Chauncy F. Black, candidate for lieutenant governor, had been called for and appeared upon the platform to a volley of cheers that shook the hills about. In acknowledgment of the compliment he said a few words. Then the train again moved off. T. C. Hippie and Chairman Braungard added their presence to the party. The constant commutation had by this time crowded the car, though this fact only contributed to the good feeling that prevailed on board. At Whitehorn station, commonly called Kattensake, E. Bigler addressed the crowd.
Clinton county is fully aroused and was evident by the crowd that had assembled at Renova. Mr. Pattison was conducted to the broad platform of the station. His tall form towered above the crowd and it was evident that he had in advance secured the friendly interest of those about him. Senator Peale, suave but cautious, introduced him as the Democratic nominee for governor and the Democrats received the announcement with cheers. "The development of this county," said Mr. Pattison, "in every department has followed the progress of our common school system. The cross roads school house has been replaced by more commodious buildings and higher and more thorough education. These shops that I see about me remind me of the growth of the mechanical art. The ride Clinton county is fully aroused and is in great contrast with the improved tools and appliances of to-day. As the old school house has to the magnificent seminaries and colleges of the present, so in many other directions—in art, agriculture, methods of travel, the railroad and telegraph—progress has been marked and has followed the development of our systems of education. Pennsylvania does much, very much, for her common schools. No little benefit from them has been the intelligent interest they have given our citizens in the government and its officers. I only want to leave this thought with you. Prize and preserve our common schools, for in them is developed that intelligent and zealous citizenship which is at once the defense and the ornament of a free government."

At Driftwood the special car was transferred from the Philadelphia & Erie to the Allegheny Valley road, on the low grade division of which the journey was pursued to Brookville. During the few minutes necessary to make the transfer Candidate Pattison responded to the calls and addressed the assembled crowd, which was unexpectedly large. As at other points, a band of music was in attendance, and though the notice was brief people from the hills and valleys for miles around had assembled. Mr. Jackson, superintendent of the road, was among the auditors, and he gracefully tendered the courtesies of his road to the distinguished party. J. C. Shaffer, Democratic candidate for Assembly in Elk county, in appropriate language introduced Mr. Pattison, who spoke briefly but earnestly on the duties of citizenship and was rewarded by a round of applause and a cheerful expression of hope for success.
At Beaslie, Elk county, a short stop was made and a number of lumbermen and others entered the car to shake hands with the candidates.
The journey continued without incident until Dubois was reached. Here Senators Wallace, Peale and Bigler, and Ex-Senator Barrett took leave. Considerable of a crowd was at the station, and as the train drew up Mr. Pattison appeared on the platform. Senator Wallace said: "Citizens of Clearfield county, I have the pleasure of introducing to you your next governor, Robert E. Pattison. The crowd cheered and the candidate took off his hat and addressed the people on the importance of electing representatives who represent the sentiment of the community. 'Honest constitutions,' he remarked, "if the people are alive to their duties, will secure honest government." As he withdrew a voice called out: "You will hear from Clearfield county; it is the home of Senator Wallace and will do her whole duty," to which the candidate responded with an expression of thanks.
Chenango, Pennsylvania, had gone out in quest of a lunch for the hungry tourists, and as he re-entered the car, both arms laden with provisions, a loud call went up for a speech from him. The enterprising campaign manager, equal to the emergency, doffed his hat and said: "Gentlemen, not having any office holders to assess to provide sumptuous feasts, we are compelled to forage where we can, and my present duty is to appease the hunger of the candidates in so far as these provisions will accomplish this result."
Then the train made a stop at the next stop was made at Reynoldsville, when the calls were responded to by the controller waving thanks to the crowd in attendance. A committee of citizens of Brookville, consisting of James H. Maize, chairman of the Democratic committee, W. D. Martin, J. W. Greenland, J. K. Hamilton, R. J. Nicholson, Geo. Colburn, J. W. Means, J. B. Jones, C. B. Bishop, Edward English and J. C. Hodgkinson, met the train at this point to escort the party to their town. At the station, other ex-Congressmen, B. A. Font and other citizens with carriage to convey the party to the hotel. Arriving there dinner was served, after which Messrs. Pattison and Hessel made brief addresses and all hands embarked for a carriage drive of seven miles to Clarion. The town of Clarion had put on holiday airs and, amidst decorations that would have done honor to the Hancock campaign, the country folk commenced pouring in by train and private conveyance. Several horse-drawn teams, harness and township delegates paraded the streets under the marshaling of Sheriff Colner and a dozen aids. In the afternoon the meeting was held in the public square, and all who could get within hearing surged toward the platform, when the county chairman, M. Meredith, called William J. Corbett to the chair. He made a brief speech, and introduced J. Simon Africa, who, though almost prostrated with cold and a sore throat, spoke long enough to give his old friends (he has long been a favorite in this county) to understand that he is in earnest in this fight, and they cheered him lustily.
Judge McCalmant, of Franklin, who had been sent there to induce the tourists to stop at that place on route, next spoke, followed by D. G. Gillespie, and after that the inimitable Dr. St. Clair of Indiana, paid his respects to General Harry White, the hero of Kiskiminetos, in so grand a style that it pleased every body but Harry's personal pets.
The crowd waited until evening to see Pattison and the tourists. The Hancock club was hastily reorganized and three hundred men in line, with torches and caps and two brass bands, marched out the Brookville park, and on the arrival of Mr. Pattison's carriage the horses were detached and a corps of hundred feet long at a trot and amidst the wildest cheering the carriage of the candidate was drawn through the streets to the public square. There he delivered a speech which pleased the people greatly. They are in wonderful enthusiasm here and claim a majority larger this year than they gave Hancock, 1,600. So marked is the contrast between the reception Pattison got last night and that given to Heaver, who was there Monday night, that the stalwarts are greatly disheartened.
At the conclusion of Mr. Pattison's remarks Chauncy F. Black was introduced. In a twenty-minute speech he referred eloquently to the pending issue and was followed by Senator Gordon, Major Veale and General Snowdon. Colonel Peale and Chairman Hessel in turn followed and kept the audience until ten o'clock, but with interest unabated to the close.

MEDICAL.
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
The Secret of the universal success of Brown's Iron Bitters is simply this: It is the best Iron preparation ever made; it is compounded on thoroughly scientific, chemical and medicinal principles, and does just what is claimed for it—no more and no less.
By thorough and rapid assimilation with the blood, it reaches every part of the system, healing, purifying and strengthening. Commencing at the foundation it builds up and restores lost health—in no other way can lasting benefit be obtained.
79 Dearborn Ave., Chicago, Nov. 7.
I have been a great sufferer from a very weak stomach, heartburn, and dyspepsia in its worst form. Nearly everything I ate gave me distress, and I could eat but little. I have tried everything recommended, have taken the prescriptions of a dozen physicians, but got no relief until I took Brown's Iron Bitters. I feel none of the old troubles, and am a new man. I am getting much stronger, and feel first-rate. I am a railroad engineer and now make my trips regularly. I cannot say too much in praise of your wonderful medicine.
