MR. SAYRE'S RETIREMENT TO TAKE CHARGE OF THE SOUTH PENN

Valley and Mis Intimacy With Judge

Packer-The New Rival Line. The resignation of Robert H. Sayre, the superintendent and engineer of the Lehigh Valley railroad company was a sur-prise to the public. It has been talked of privately for some time, but it was not known generally until it was publicly an nounced. Mr. Sayre is one of the bestknown railroad engineers in the United States. His management of the Lehigh Valley has not only be a successful, but brilliant. To the great work of building, equipping and extending the road, he has given the major portion of his life. When be entered the service of the company thirty years ago, he was twenty-eight years old. He now retires famous in America and Europe, with the best wishes of the management of the company, who

Mr. Sayre still retains his position as a director, and will remain in charge of the road for some weeks. It may be said that the relations of the management and Mr. Savre are very friendly and will continue to be so.

Mr. Sayre, thirty years ago was a young engineer living in Mauch Chunk. He had been connected with the Lehigh coal and navigation company and was well known have regarded his services as invaluable.

to Judge Packer, who had watched him from boyhood. The charter of the Lehigh Valley company was in 1849, but capital ists were slow to take hold of the enterprise, the old notion that a railroad could not compete with the canals in carrying heavy freight had not been dispelled. When the lines of the new road were to be located Judge Packer sent young Sayre out to do the work, and in 1852 he superintended the construction of a mile or so of the road, east of Allentown, which was necessary to keep the charter from expiring. When Judge Packer determined to build the road himself Mr. Sayre became regularly attached to the engineer corps, and was soon at its head. He located the line, procured the right of way, looked after the construction, and at first as the of marmalade in front of her plate. Sudroad was built managed and ran it. In the donly Cupid inspired him. He fastened office of William C. Norris, jr., the cashier of the road in Mauch Chunk, there is hung "Will you have a little Parr, Miss in a frame the time-table in Mr. Sayre's handwriting of the first passenger train the cheese. She comprehended his meanwhich made one trip daily each way between Easton and Mauch Chunk, a disance of forty six miles. friends. When the judge died he left Mr. Sayre a legacy and made him one of the executors and trustees of his great estate. He will probable be succeeded by H. Stanley Goodwin, who for many years has been the assistant general superinten-dent of the company. The post of en-gineer will probably be filled by  $\Lambda$ . W. Steedman, Mr. Sayre's assistant, who has been under his eye for many years, and who, like his chief, was a Mauch Chunk boy when he first entered the service of the company. It is an open secret that Mr. Sayre retires to accept the position of the presi-dent of the South Pennsylvania railroad, the new road between Harrisburg and Pittsburgh. If this is true, it means that Mr. Vanderbilt intends to push this work to completion rapidly and energetically, and that before many months the Pennsylvania will have a competitor for busi ess on its main line. As surveyed the new line runs almost parallel with the Pennsylvania, and thirty to forty miles south of it. Beginning at a point opposite Rockville on the Susquehanna a few miles above Harrisburg, the South Penusylvania runs through Perry county in a southwest direction, and just touching the corner of Juniata enters Huntingdon. The course then changes to nearly west to Bedford and Somerset. The road then runs northwest through Westmoreland county to Osceola, a little town in Allegheny county, where connection is made into Pittsburgh with a road already built. The line taps the bituminous coal fields of Huntingdon and Bedford, and it will give Mr. Vanderbilt an entirely new and com-

The Amusements of the Men While in the lee Pack—The Scientific Observations. In the Jeannette board of inquiry Licut. Danenhower said that judging from the experience of whale ships and that of the Jeannette herself the chances of getting free after once being beset in the ice, such as is found off Wrangel Land, are very slight. The report of Capt. Hooper to the secretary of the treasury, of the cruise of the United States revenue steamer Corwin during 1880 and 1881, witness thought was good authority on this point. Witness was asked, "Do you know of anything in the management of the Jeannette which subsequent experience proved prejudicial and which could have been avoided?"

"It is a question of judgment," he replied, "which is called for by the court, and when I embarked on the expedition I was to abide by the judgment of the commander, and I do not wish to oppose my udgment to that of the commander or Danenhower said that during their imprisonment in the ice pack each person was provided with a rifle and hunt ing was encouraged, foot ball and foot races were often indulged in, and frequent short exercises were made with the dog teams. Musical and dramatic entertainments were also gotten up and cards and other games were also supplied to the men. In regard to the provisions he said a coniderable quantity of the canned goods turned out badly. A large invoice of canned beef, marked with Eric Co.'s brand, had to be rejected at Mare Island. The flour, bread, coffee, tea, sugar, butter and such articles were very good. Of the observations taken he said:

During the first year in the ice metaorological observations were taken hourly with with the barometer, the wet and dry bulb thermometer, the maximum and menimum thermometer, the accmometer and the black bulb thermometer in a vacuum. Observations were also made upon the state of the clouds and their movements, the direction of the wind and the general character of the weather, and upon the condition of the ice. Mahone Calling for Money. Despite the confident predictions of the Richmond Whig, Senator Mahone's organ, of an overwhelming coalition victory in Virginia in which it had indulged daily for the past three mouths, it seems that even before the Ohio election the Virginia senator was calling on the Republican national committee for funds with which to prosecute his campaign. Under date of October 2 Schater Mahone wrote to the secretary of the national Republican committee: "We ought to have help at the earlest day now," and two days later Col. James D. Brady, chairman of the Virginia Republician executive committee and au intimate personal and political friend of Mahone, wrote to the Republican committee: "It is of vital importance that we should receive financial help within the next five days." Col. Brady estimated that at least $25,000 was needed in Virginia. Peetry and Fact.

In Keat's beautiful poem, "Lamia," a young man has been led captive by a phantom girl, and is made the slave of her beauty, until an old teacher comes in and fixes his eye upon the figure, and it vanishes in its true form of a climy serpent. This is poetry; now for fact. Disease in various forms setzes upon young men and old, and especially does it affect the kidneys and liver, and begin insidiously to work rum and death. But Hunt't Remedy, as the old teacher, comes in, and the slimy serwork ruin and death. But funt't keinedy, as the old teacher, comes in, and the slimy ser-pent of disease glides away. At first, men think that a diseased liver or disordered kid-neys is a mere phantom, and go on their way neglecting the evil, and not realizing their danger. But this is not something to be trifled with. Call in Hunt's Remedy at once; it will both reveal the demon and erset it out. For both reyeal the demon and cast it out. For kidney, liver and urinary complaints there is nothing like it. 018-1 wd
