TROUBLES OF THE KEIMS. Why the Railroad Solietter Disclaims Being

Philadelphia Record. The Keims are being badly Buttercupped of late, greatly to the annoyance of each other. Mr. George de B. Keim, the general solicitor of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad company is one Mr. Keim, while the other is Mr. George de B. Keim, the head of the saddlery and harness manufacturing establishment on North Third street, and also at the preseut time the candidate of the Republican party for sheriff. Both gentlemen were are subject to this, as well as to dandruff, tet born in Berks county. The railroader is slim of stature and retiring in disposition; ness, eruptions, ulcers and other troubles. he is a Democrat, and only mingles in politics when some great crisis occurs. The other is of good preportions, genial disposition and seeks jolly company.

Since the one Mr. Keim has become candidate for office the other Mr. Keim has had trouble, until at last the Committee of One hundred (which is opposed to Keim that is the caudidate) has published a notice informing the public that the as pirant for the office of sherift is not the solicitor of the Reading railroad company. Many persons think he is, and the country papers have taken up the fight, especially those on the line of the Reading railroad. which delight to tickle high officials; and one writer even went to the extent of a column in laudation of the Reading solicitor because he thought he was to be the sheriff for Philadelphia.

into the office of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad company. He was glad of the boly. Price, One Dollar per package to meet Mr. Keim. Then he burst forth : All druggists have it for sale, "Your prospects are grand. Takes money to run a campaign. A few boys in the 'Neck' need fixing. What say you to giving an X?"

A sleek and fat, rosy cheeked broker from New York met Candidate Keim en the street the other day and, after being introduced, opened the conversation with: Deferred bonds all placed. I believe.

Consols in good shape?"
"Confound it ! I know nothing about deferred bonds and consons !" said Mr. Keim impetuously. "It must be the other Keim."

So it goes, day in and day out. Letters are being constantly miscarried, messages go wrong, bills are sent to the other man, and life is almost a burden to one of the George De B. Kelens because his name is the same as that of the other. People bolt heedlessly into the office of the Read ing railroad company to tell the solicitor that that last cargo of saddle trees has not arrived and the price is too high, and try to talk horse to him, while others rush into the harness warshouse to have a talk about law decisions that have been Married in Presence of Princess Louise. British Columbian.

An interesting ceremony took place on Merchant square, Victoria, B. A. A. Squamish maiden and Musquim youth, aged 17 and 20, respectively, were be trothed. It was their purpose to postpone marriage for some months, until sufficiently instructed by the missionary to have the ceremony performed in civilized, Christian fashion. On Saturday, however. they determined to avail themselves of so auspicious an occasion as the presence of their "great white mother's" daughter. and so the interesting affair was arranged for Saturday evening. The friends of the two contracting parties were ranged in two long rows, facing each other, the chiefs, the bride and groom, and more immediate relatives occupying a cros seat at the head of the two rows. The father of the bride made an address, in the course of which he said he was giving away his daughter to the young man, and she would be all the same as dead to him. A large dish was placed on the ground in front of the old man, into which the friends of the groom cast money to compensate him for the loss of his daughter. This occupied some time, and when count was made the dish was found to contain $400. The ceremony over, the bridal party and their friends held a feast. It is understood that, by and by, when better in-structed, they will be remarried by the
