JOHN L. ARNOLD.

QUAY DESPONDENT.

HIS VIEW OF THE STATE CAMPAIGN.

Trying to Raise $200,000 to Buy Election Boards—Pattison's Plurality Placed at 30,000 to 100,000.

New York Times. Matthew S. Quay, who has been running the Stalwart state committee for Cameron, is discouraged. A day or two ago a young Stalwart and a personal friend called upon him. The young man had a few hundred dollars to bet. He couldn't afford to lose money and would Mr. Quay kindly tell him if he was safe in betting on Beaver.

"Young man," said Quay, "put your money back in your pocket. It is possible that Beaver will pull through, but I don't believe it."

The fact is that not a soul at the Stalwart headquarters will risk a dollar on Cameron's candidate. It has been different heretofore. The reason why Quay wanted to help Chairman Cooper out in the campaign has been out. In 1878, when Quay was chairman of the Republican committee, there was a deficit at the end of the campaign of $30,000. For this Quay was personally responsible. When he took hold of the committee a short time ago he had two objects in view. He hoped to be able to capture the 100,000 vote, as he had done in 1878, or at least to divert it from Pattison. In this he has been sadly disappointed, for all of the Stalwart schemes have been so thoroughly exposed that but little headway has been made. Again, he hoped to get back that $30,000 which he is responsible. When he began to look into the committee's finances, however, he found the treasury nearly depleted. Cooper had used it up in sending missionaries through the state, in purchasing 100,000 copies of an alleged libel of Beaver by an alleged journalist, in printing all sorts of documents, and in getting thousands of copies of the New York Tablet struck off containing a speech credited to Pattison reflecting on the Irish. The papers were not circulated because the scheme was exposed, but they cost money just the same. Quay got so disgusted the first part of last week that he ran off to Harrisburg and remained there for several days.

There seems to be but one thing left for the Cameron men to do, and that is to fairly retrench. This has been considered during the week, and an attempt is now being made to get $200,000 out of the business men on a tariff scale. The plan is to use the money to buy up the election boards of the coal counties—Schuylkill, Luzerne and Lackawanna. The scheme is not a new one, and it is no doubtless be found impossible to raise the money. There seems to be only three hopeful Stalwarts left in the state, Beaver, Cameron and Cooper. The future of these three men depends upon this election, and they don't dare to be anything but hopeful.

Enthusiastic Democrats who hang about the committee headquarters are patting Pattison's plurality as high as 60,000 or 80,000. Victor E. Piolet, who is at the head of the State fringers, says that the Republican party is divided in the middle. He has been traveling all through the state on business connected with his office and says that his observation leads him to believe that Beaver will not lead Stowart 25,000 votes, and that Pattison's plurality will not be less than 100,000. It is impossible to get down to the figures of this campaign, for no one can estimate the independent vote or the success of the Stalwarts in buying votes in the coal regions. Conservative people who know the state generally settle upon about 30,000 as the plurality vote which will elect Pattison.

SINGULAR MARRIAGE.

An English Solicitor and an Eccentric Widow United After Various Troubles.

The London Times tells this strange story:

A marriage of a very extraordinary character took place on Wednesday at Sheffield between a local solicitor, Mr. E. Knowles Binnis, a member of the Sheffield town council and Sheffield board of guardians, and Mrs. Ada Caroline Milne, widow of Taubridge-wells. Two months ago Mrs. Milne, who possesses a fortune of £15,000, advertised in the Metropolitan News her wish to again get married. The advertisement fell into the hands of Mr. Binnis, who entered into correspondence with the lady. An appointment was made and Mr. Binnis met the lady at Taubridge-wells. The interview was interrupted by the appearance of Mr. E. Leibert, of Taubridge-wells, the brother of the lady, who, believing that his sister was not responsible for her actions, as she had already been confined in an asylum, took energetic measures to prevent the intended marriage. At his hands Mr. Binnis received summary chastisement. He was thrashed and kicked out of the house, and the thrashing was repeated at the railway station. Mr. Binnis returning to Sheffield, wrote to the lady for "some explanation why your brother should have thought fit to assault me in the way he did," and received a stern reply from the brother himself, who opened the letter. Mr. Binnis, however, persevered in his intentions. Early this month the lady, who had taken up her residence at a convent at Polkington, suddenly left and went to Sheffield, staying at the Victoria Station hotel under the name of Mrs. Scott, of New York. The lady being a Roman Catholic, Mr. Binnis proposed to be married first at St. Mary's, Norfolk-row, and afterwards at the parish church, Canon Walkway, of St. Mary's, however, who had been in communication with their relatives, declined to act, and a "dispensation" from the Roman Catholic bishop of Leeds, which had been obtained, was withdrawn. Last Saturday Mr. Binnis waited upon Canon Blakeney, vicar of Sheffield, and yesterday morning he again called at an early hour to obtain the promised license. The vicar who was unaware until Tuesday evening of the peculiar circumstances of the case, urged Mr. Binnis to make a settlement on the lady. He said he would not be coerced by any one, and that in consequence of the rough treatment he received from the brother nothing should induce him to make a settlement. The question of the lady's sanity was mentioned, whereupon Mr. Binnis produced three medical certificates all pronouncing her sane, and as he was prepared to make the declaration necessary to be made before a license could be obtained, the vicar had no option but to grant the license. Mr. Leibert, hearing of his sister's contemplated marriage, came to Sheffield on Monday, taking up his quarters at the Victoria station hotel, and it is a curious circumstance that he occupied the bed room immediately adjoining that of his sister without having any knowledge of her proximity. On Tuesday he was aware that an attempt would be made to have the marriage ceremony performed next day and he took steps to prevent it. A carriage and pair were in waiting at the church gates at 9 o'clock, and a number of men were employed for the purpose of forcibly preventing Mrs.

Milne from proceeding with the marriage.

The intention being to put her into the carriage and drive her away until such time as an injunction could be obtained restraining the marriage on the ground of the lady not being in a fit and sound state of mind. Mr. Binnis, however, had taken effective steps to prevent a breach of the peace, there being nearly a score of constables present. On the lady alighting from the carriage which conveyed her to the church, her brother stepped forward and seized her by the arm, and asked her to go with him, but she refused. The police held Mr. Leibert back, and the lady then entered the church, chased by her brother as soon as he got free from the constables. Mr. Binnis entered the church soon after, and the wedding ceremony proceeded quietly until the words "If any man can show any just cause why they may not lawfully be joined together, let him now speak or else hereafter forever hold his peace." Mr. Leibert then stepped forward and made a whispered statement, the purport of which was that the lady was of unsound mind, and that if time were granted he could prove the truth of his assertion. Canon Blakeney replied that Mr. Binnis possessed medical certificates from three leading Sheffield practitioners, and that he was bound to proceed with the marriage unless "just cause" could be shown against it. Mr. Leibert repeated his remonstrance again and again, but in vain, and the ceremony was proceeded with. Mr. Leibert was much affected, and went home on one of the piers weeping bitterly. The affair has created a great sensation in Sheffield, where Mr. Binnis, owing to his public position and his standing as a solicitor, is very well known.

DEAR CHOLLY'S NET.

The Horse Reporter Shatters His Wit About an Alleged Chicago Holder.

"Editor in Chief?"

"Yes," replied the horse reporter to the person asking the question—a young man with a tabacco-pipe hat and a young-may-kiss-me-but-don't-you-tell-papa mustache, who stood in the doorway—"the editor is in and the chances are that he prefers staying in, rather than run any risk of falling against you."

"Well, of course, you know," said the young man, "very likely it wouldn't be absolutely necessary for me to see the really and truly editor about this matter that I wanted to have settled. It is a question to be answered, you know."

"I should surmise," said the horse reporter, "that an average deckhand could successfully wrestle with any problem you could evolve."

"Well, I don't know," continued the young man. "This is a real hard question, you know, and a good many of our set, over on the West Side have tried to solve it, but we can't. I never saw such a provoking thing in all my life, and last night I was talking with my room-mate about it, and we got real angry, and it looked once as if we should strike each other. I wouldn't have had a row with Cholloy for anything, you know, because we have known each other for nearly three years now, and when he was promoted to the ribbon counter he always spoke to me just the same as when we were both in the threads."

"In the what?" asked the horse reporter.

"In the threads—the thread department, you know, and I always said that nothing could ever make me go back on Cholloy—you know how anything like that makes two fellows awful chums."

"Yes, I know," said the horse reporter, "but what is your question?"

"Well, you see, some people are playing croquet and a rover is driven up close to the home stake. Now another man he is dead on the ball, but having a stroke he plays on the rover and forces it against the stake. Now if the rover is dead and the other follows they say it isn't and we've been having an awful time about it over on the West Side, and—"

"Yes, you told me that before. Our croquet editor is away on his vacation. He spends it in the asylum for feeble-minded people, getting pointers from the inmates, but like enough I can fix this thing for you."

"Oh! that's awfully jolly. Have a cigarette?"

"No, thank you. I am over nine years old. Get out the croquet matter? You say the rover is close to the stake?"

"Yes."

"And the next player knocks it against the stake?"

"Yes."

"And then the player after him claims that the rover is dead?"

"Yes, that's it, and they can't agree."

"Well," said the horse reporter, "I should say that the man who got the first knock down ought to win."
