I'm cursed with corns, despite a shoe As old and worn as fifty-two. Rheumatic arrows pierce me through, My back's a butt, at fifty-two.

Where once my unthinned grinders graw, What dismal gaps at fifty-two! Stern warnings-ah, how oft !- renew My dread of gout at fifty-two.

Though all Muses I should sue They'd stint their fire to fitty-two Beauty and Grace may fill my view ; They tempt in vain : I'm fitty-two. Nature ! Alack ! 'tis " mountain dew '

One prizes most at fifty-two. Ideals-pshaw! I marvel who Dotes on the moon at fifty-two! Taste ! Art ! One tries with racier gout Pates de foie at fitty-two ;

Or even a niquant Irish stew (Just dashed with wine), at fifty-two. Pass on, O world ; your false ado Moves not the phlegm of fifty-two.

Your sweets, soon changed to bitter rue, Deceive no more at fifty-two. Come, friend, a modest game of "loo:"

Mild stakes, mild port, at fifty-two. Diversions not too flushed of hue Just suit the nerves of fitty-two. -Paul Hayne in Harper's Magazine for October.

TALE FOR TODDLERS How Lucy Warbled About the Gien and Mow She Was Crushed.

Chicago Tribune. After Lucy returned from Boarding School and began Laying Pipe to secure the Young Man of whom I told you in my last number, she coaxed her Papa to let her take lessons from a Singing Master, and pretty soon she could Vocalize quite we'i, and loved dearly to sit in the Parlor and Turn Herself Loose on the piano. Lucy was very partial to Sentimental songs, and seemed to be a Little Gone on those that had rather sappy titles and the words to which did not mean anything in particular. She would hustle around the Music Stand for awhile, and then Come To The Surface with a lot of such Truck as "Angel Voices Now Are Calling,"
"Darling, Kiss My Eyelids Down," "When the Brown is on the Heather, and so forth. To hear Lucy singing "Tread Lightly, for Mother is Sleeping," while her Mamma was out in the yard with her mouth full of Clothespins was worth quite a journey, but Lucy never seemed to think of the Incongruity of such proceedings. She would Wrestle the piano every day, while both her Parents were working hard, and never think that Idleness is the Mother of Matinecs and that the Singing Girl Gathers No Boss. One beautiful summer evening she was Having Her Hoot as usual, and had got far enough into the pile of music so that she was singing Sentimental songs. Finally she started in on one that begins: "I am Sitting in the Glen," when suddenly her Papa, turned to his Wife and said: "How much do you think it would cost, mother, to move a fair sized glen about nine miles, and fix things so that it couldn't come back ?" Then Lucy began to cry and said that her Papa was a Brute.

A FLOOD OF WEDDED BLISS. The City Full of Bridal Couples—A Harvest for Hotel Men and Guides.

Washington Star. The city is full of bridal couples. There hasn't been for several years such a flood of newly-wedded bliss poured into the city at one time, and the capital city may be said to be wreathed in smiles. There is nothing mean about a young couple on a wedding tour. They are happy, and they want everybody else to be happy. They must have the best rooms in the hotels and as a clerk in uptown hotel told a Star reporter this morning, "There is not a vacant private parler in our The same is true of other hotels. These young people have their meals served in their own rooms, and give so little trouble that hotel men welcome their arrival with joy and their departure with sighs. Mr. Willard, of the Ebbitt, always presents each bride with a handsome bouquet, and thus gives the sanction of approval to the marriage. As a rule they go sight-seing merely as a matter of form, and when a guide gets a young married couple in tow he has what is technically known among the fraternity as a "soft snap." The guide, if he has had exerience with those kind of visitors, very soon finds a comfortable seat in some quiet place and asks them to wait until he goes for permission to enter a certain room or building. The guide takes his departure, and knowing that he would not be missed for five or six hours, embraces the opportuplays cards with other guides who have also bridal couples in tow, and in the latter part of the day makes his appearence before his employers, whom he finds seated in the same place, apparently having forgotten his existence. When he apoligizes for the delay he is smilingly told that he was not very long away, and so the sight-seeing is resumed. The bridal couple scatter happiness around them wherever they go, and as there are about ferty couples now in this city the amount of happiness that is now being diffused in the community can readily be calculated. It has in fact assumed such proportious that no doubt Mr. Raff will soon designate it as a business, and levy a special license

Bi-Centennial.

Our exhibit in the Trades Procession of the Bi-Centennial Celebration on October 25th will illustrate the great stock of men's and boys' clothing now ready in Oak Hall. Our preparations for the trade of this Autumn and Winter already reach

One Million Dollars.

Our stock is in all respects the best we have ever offered, and we firmly believe has never been equaled in volume by any retail clothing house in America.

Do not fail to visit Oak Hall. Look at the Clothing and Piece Goods, go through the workrooms and see how the vast place goes on. We have a hearty welcome for all, whether buyers or visitors. The tens of thousands of friends we have made in the country about Philadelphia during the last twenty-two years are, we are sure, more firmly our friends than ever before. We have gained their confidence by giving them the best dollar's worth of clothing to be had anywhere, and we offer a new pledge of fidelity in our low prices and elegant Autumn stock of this year's sales.
