A WILD MAN IN IDAHO.

How Two Cowboys Chased the Solitary Sav

Two cowboys who just came in from Camas prairie relate an experience which will probably go a great way toward re-establishing the popular faith in the wild man's tradition. On the first day of this month two cowboys searching cattle lost in the storm, passed over some lava crags and were startled by suddenly seeing before them the form so often described to them. They were so terrified that they sat upon their horses, looking at it in dread. Mustering courage and drawing their revolvers they dismounted and gave chase, but the strange being skipped from crag to crag as nimbly as a mountain goat. After an hour's pursuit both young men were so completely worn out that they both laid down, seeing which the wild man gradually approached them and stopped on the opposite side of a gorge in the lava, from which point he regarded the cowboys intently.

The wild man was considerably over six feet in height, with great muscular arms, stood out in great knots and his chest was as broad as that of a bear. Skins were twisted about his feet and ankles and a wolf skin about his waist. All parts of his body to be seen were covered by long,

black hair, while from his head the hair flowed over his shoulders in coarse tangled rolls and mixed with a heavy beard. His face was dark and swarthy and his eyes from his mouth. His fingers were the shape of claws, with long, sharp nails, and he acted very much as a wild animal which is unaccustomed to seeing a man.

wearying of eyeing him, the two boys fired their revolvers, whereupon the wild man turned a double somersault and jumped 15 feet to a low bench and disappeared, growl-

It is supposed that this is the same apparition that has so often been seen before,

The man, no doubt, does as the Indians did for subsistence, and lives on Camas

had not been in the field all of his votes would have gone to Pattison, but it is reasonable to believe that the larger part of them would. Pennsylvania does not seem to have a people so easily moved from their ancient political moorings as those of New York and other states. Such a wholesale desertion of party as has occurred in New York could not be expected of our voters. Here in Lancaster county, and across our line in Berks, the Republican and Democratic parties shows no sign of weakening. Before cendant. these counties become politically revolutionized a great change will have to take place in the character and education of their citizens. New York is greatly in Some actors enjoy this privilege without fluenced politically by metropolitan cities | emigrating. lying down in the southern neck of of mobile political sentiment; but they contributed less than half to the majority of Cleveland and left a hundred thousand of it to come from the state outside. Notable changes took place in the rural counties; some, which are ties nearly as stiff as those of Lancaster, have swerved over to the other side. The country districts of Pennsylvania do not seem to differ greatly in their political minority from the metropolitan city of the state, for Philadelphia does not show in its vote any great move ment from the political tide that has swept over the country, notwithstanding that tide has had the effort of the influential Independent Committee of One Hundred, well supplied with money and agents, to help it along. Stewart's candidacy had the sympathy of this committee, although it is especially devoted to the work of municipal reform; and yet Stewart polled his eight thousand votes in the city and Beaver has a plurality of thirty-six hundred.

Manifestly Pennsylvania is not as easily moved politically as her neighboring state of New York; and yet the element that is movable is very determined in its independence, as has been shown by the open revolt of the dissatisfied Republicans against the regularly nominated ticket of their party. It is certainly fair to conclude that most of these discontented Republicans would have been carried, by their opposition to their party management, into voting for Pattison if Stewart had not been nominated. We Last evening be was taken to Waynes are satisfied that if Beaver and Pattison burg, where he will be tried for murder had been left to dispute between the vote of the state, Pattison would have been elected by a majority as large if not larger than his present plurality So that the Stewart movement cannot be credited with any part of his vote. What Republican votes he received he would have received without it, and a great many more in addition.

THE CHAIRMAN of the state committee pays only a deserved tribute to the Democratic women of the state when he

"My greatest pleasure of this victorynext to the patriotic satisfaction of replac ing bad government with honest rule -is in the satisfaction it affords to the hundreds of thousands of Democrats who have been steadfast in the adherence to the party through the days of its adversity and They are the political salt of the commonwealth. They have kept the faith and saved the ark. But none the less grateful is this victory to the Democratic women of the state. Their abiding faith and loyalty at last finds recompense

YESTERDAY when Chairman Cooper thought his party had carried the lower House of the Legislature he indulged in this prospect—or threat :

" The reapportionment of the state will be made far more rigid by a small majority than by a large one. The Republican majority in the Legislature will see to it that such a reapportionment is made as come.'

The Democratic majority in the Legislature will " see to it " that there is an "honest, just and true apportion- ing a lectvre while there. She is negoment" made. More than this it will not ask; less than this it will not take.

THE Democracy will have a majority of about fifty in the next Congress, which will be an ample working majority and not too large to prevent the necessity of Democratic unity.

CHAIRMAN W. U. HENSEL indulges in this prospect for his party: "I sincerely trust that, if we have obtained control of Congress and the state Legislature, as seems almost certain, the first concern of the members will not be to find places for party workers, but to see how many existing useless places can Beyond this I am not worried over the future. If the party does what is right, results will take care of themselves to its abiding welfare."

BARR, in the Dauphin congressional district, is now reported to have a majority of less than two hundred over Mc-Cormick. It is a pity that the defection of the good men in the Republican party so as to have sent a good representative to Congress instead of a bad one. THE floodgates have been opened.

A square issue was made on the question on Tuesday, and Governor St. John, the leader of the movement, was defeated for re-election The Republican politicians who originally led their party into the movement are said to be thoroughly frightened at its failure, and they will probably abandon the cause which for a time out of mind clung to the mass they espoused in the first place only for of their voters and a tenacity which the sake of keeping their party in the as-

DETAIL RETURNS FROM THE COUNTIES

Nearly all Sections Heard From-The Con gressmen Elected, With the Majorities of Each-A Working Democratic Majority in the Legislature.

The returns received from the the interior counties serve to make the table of majorities by counties for governor reasonably complete. Pattison's plurality by the latest reports is 36,333. It is shown by the returns that the successful candidate have run very close together, although each has been complimented with a large home vote. The congressional delegation has settled down to 16 Republicans and 12 Democrats. The Democrats have secured a majority of about 30 in the lower House of the Legislature, and will have 22 majority on joint ballot.

The reports have come in such shapegiving merely pluralities in all but few instances—that it is impossible to give any thing like a detailed statement of the vote for Stewart. It is apparent, however, that it will be much below most of the estimates and may not reach 50,000. The following table gives the latest re-

THE REPUBLICAN WRECK

TUESDAY'S DEMOCRATIC TIDAL WAVE New York Gives a Democratic Mejority of Over 190,000-Thirteen States Elect Democratic Governors-Enormous

Gains in Congress. The Democratic victory on Tuesday is even more complete than was announced Wednesday. The opponents of the Republican party have chosen their candidates for governor in 13 of the states, and have made great gains in nearly all of the 33 states which held elections on the 7th of November. In the Forty-eighth Congress the Demo crats will control the House of Representatives by a majority of 71, the figures being : Republicans, 127; Democrats, 198. They have solid delegations from Alabama Arkansas, Florida, Georgia and Texas, and have secured representatives in Lowa and Michigan, which have un-broken Republican delegations in the Forty-seventh Congress. By the apportionment of congressmen California's representation was increased from 4 to 6, and the Democrats have elected 5, a loss of one to the Republicans and a gain of three for the Democrats. In Illinois the Democrats gain three members. The Democrats have more than reversed the figures in Indiana, for while the Republicans have now 8 out of 13 members, the Democrats have elected 9 out of the 13 in the next House. The Republican reverse in Michigan is complete. Instead of a solid delegation of Republicans the state elects 6 Democrats to five Republicans. While the New Jersey delegation stands 4 Republicans to 3 Democrats, the Democrats gain Robeson's (first) and the Essex (Sixth) districts, and the Republicans gain the Third and Fourth, the districts now represented by Miles Ross and Henry S. Harris. A loss of 3 Republican representatives is encountered in Pennsylvania where the Democrats elect 14 out of 28 members. The Democrats gain 3 mem-of the nine representatives chosen. Revised returns from the counties of New York state increase the majority for Cleveland for governor to more than 190,-000. The dispatches show that Judge Andrews, the Republican candidate for chief justice of the court of appeals, and Howard Carroll, for congressman-atlarge, run many thousand votes ahead cf the candidate for governor. From very meagre returns it would appear that the free canal amendment has been adopted No reports have been made regarding the judiciary amendment. The state will be represented in the next Congress by 21 Democrats and 13 Republicans—a Democratic gain of 3. The state Assembly will consist of 85 Democrats and 43 Republicans, thus giving the Democrats a ma jority of 42 in the lower House. The Senate stands 17 Democrats to 15 Republi-

bers in Wisconsin, where they elect 5 out

The majority for Hale (Rep.) for governor of New Hampshire is estimated at 600. Both Republican congressmen are elected. There is a large Republican ma jority in the Legislature on joint ballot. Massachusetts gives Gen. Butler a plurality-one small town to hear fromof 13,000, but elects Republicans to the other places on the state ticket. Nine Republican congressman are elected. with one Democrat, one Democrat and In dependent, and one Democrat and Greenbacker. THE NEW GOVERNOR.

MR. PATTISON'S REARTY RECEPTION. lovernor Pattison's Reason for the Great

Democratic Victory in this State-

What the Business Men Say. Governor-elect Pattison held his first re ception Wednesday. It was an impromptu affair, the comers invited themselves, and the brightly furnished apartments of the controller's office served as the executive blue room. Mr. Pattison's demeanor dur ing the long siege of hand shaking was quite in accord with his hasty retreat by back stairway when the Americus club serenaded him at the Irving house Tuesday night. While his friends were exaberant and oftentimes demonstrative in their expressions concerning the result, the youthful controller received the shower state and from other states, all in the most jubilant vein, John G. Thompson, Ohio's Democratic chairman, whose to have been not misplaced, wired : "Congratulations upon your splendid victory. Bossism has met a Waterloo and the people rejoic." The Central Democratic club of Harrisburg, sent a message brimming with rejoicing and tendering the new governor an escort at his inaugura-

In the afternoon Mr. Pattison was in consultation for nearly an hour with Lewis C. Cassidy and John R. Read. Later Cam. paign Chairman John Field and Rudolph Blankenberg came in to extend congratulations, Mr. Field, jocularly putting in an application for the prospective vacancy in the controllership. Mr. Blankenburg was more modest in his aspirations, and promised to be content with an appointment to the governor's staff. A by-stander, with thoughts of 1884, asked Mr. Pattison sage. 'Thirty-two next December," answered the latter promptly; whereupon there was a dubious shaking of hoads, and an arithmetical calculation quickly demonstrated that the new governor would be barred out of the next presidential race. There was speculation during the day about forthcoming executive appointments, but Mr. Pattison gave no hint on this point. Senator James Gay Gordon was congratulated by many friends as the successor of Ex-Secretary Quay, but protested that the Senate had a claim on him for two years

"It was an uprising of the people for a people's government, and means the overthrow of boss rule," was Mr. Pattison s terse commentary on his election. "Was not the result largely owing to the Independent Republican vote thrown

"The result in 1884 can only be determined by the future. If the Democratic party uses wisely the power given it, there s every reason to look for a repetition of this victory in 1884?"

Mr. Pattison is as yet undecided as to the relinquishment of the controllershipreplying to a question on this point that two months yet remained before it would be necessary for him to step ou. . It is probable that his resignation will come just before inauguration day, and that the governor-elect will apoint his own suc-

How It Will Affect Business. "I cannot see why the Democratic gains n Tuesday's elections should have any voted the Republican ticket, but I must say that the party have abused the power placed in their hands and here we are face to face with the natural result."

A. C. Sinn, a member of the same firm, said: "If we are beaten this time I have no fears as to the future of trade. I am inclined to agree with Governor-elect Pattison that this has been a people's not a party victory."

Joseph Tomlinson, of the firm of George A. Smith & Co., said when approached on the subject : "Affect business? Not a bit of it: why should it? I am a Republican but I do not consider the Democratic victory in this state as a party defeat, on party lines. There was no party issue before the people. The Republican defeat is the outcome of a squabble. There is no principle involved in it. A section of the party wanted to strike Cameron, and they have done it. This will not, in my opinion, threaten protestion. Republicans and Democrats

this question in the interests of both labor and capital. There has been a split in the Republican party and the Democrats have it; but, in my opinon, trade will not be in any way affected." Colliery Explosion at Girardville. THE ARSON CASES.

HEARINGS OF THE ACCUSED TO-DAY.

"Tid" Brimmer Tells What He Knows About Lancaster's Keign of Incendiarism-Implicating His Accomplices.

Thursday morning the men charged with arson, who were arrested last week, were given hearings before Alderman McConomy. George Brimmer, the man who squealed, was the only witness examined and he testified in all of the cases. The first case taken up was that of John

Staley, who is charged with arson in the burning of the barn next to Shirk's warehouse in Christian street. Brimmer testified that he, Harry Snyder and John Drachbar met Staley at Klump's saloon. of compliment and congratulation with on Middle street, on the Sunday before characteristic modesty. An occasional this fire. They then had a conversation smile and a twinkle of his black, snapping in the water closet in regard to the firing eyes were the only index of his of the stable. Staley said there was a satisfaction. Telegrams came pouring in man who owed him $25, which he refused early in the morning from all parts of the to pay, had a buggy in this barn. He wanted the money and he would fire the barn if he did not get it. It was then made out that they should fire it. "claim with confidence" proved for once on the evening of the fire witness, to have been not misplaced, wired: "Con-Snyder and Drachbar went up Christian street to a shanty near the stable. They asked a man if Staley was in the shanty, Staley came out and they told him they were ready. Staley said he was. Drach bar, Sayder and witness then went into the alley and set the building on fire. The three walked up the alley to Lemon street around to Duke and Walnut and then back to the alley. The fire was then out and they did not set it again. In a half an hour afterwards another alarm of fire was caused by this stable which was on fire again at a different place from where witness and party set it; the three went to the fire and while it was burning Staley took them over to Haas' saloon and treated several times to beer ; Staley said. "You knocked it good;" witness told him it had gone out, and he replied, "It is down anyhow;" witness did not know that it burned from their firing, and Staley did not say that he had retouched it.

This was returned to court and Staley gave bail before the mayor, who was pre sent, in the sum of $2,000 for trial.

The Hilke Warehous The next case attached was that of John Wertz, who is charged with having fired Hilke's tobacco warehouse, on Tobacco avenue, on Whit Sunday, 1881. Brimmer testified as follows: I was over at Wertz's house on Fulton street on this night : Wertz told his wife that he had to go out and light the red lamp which was used at the Shippen street bridge; he got a lot of matches and went out; we walked down Fulton street to Shippen; Wertz said: "Let's go over and have a fire;" we went down the avenue to the warehouse he pulled open a shutter and got in there was a desk close to the window and "Undcubtedly. This case was also returned to courand the defendant was committed in de fault of $2,000 bail.

The Old Sash Factory The third case was that of Harry Sny der, charged with firing the old sash fac tory in Plum street, Brimmer testified : Snyder, Drachbar and I were at the engine house on this night, and we talked of having some fun; Drachbar got a bottle of coal oil and I took a piece of waste; we went to the factory and jumped over the fence from the alley; there was a big hole under the foundation; Snyder and Drachbar got under and fired the building, and we then effect upon business generally," said S. B. placed a door over the hole; we then got Brown, of the firm of Hood, Bonbright over the fence and left; when on East & Co. I have always got on one side and I on the other; Zeb

Wise had the carriage, and Drachbersaid: "Hold her back and let her have a start." On cross-examination the witness said that they did not speak of setting any special building on fire when at the en gine-house; when they got near the factory witness said: "There is a good one," and they then went to the building. This case was returned to court. The same amount of bail was asked and defendant was unable to furnish it. Chas, J. White's House.

John Daley was charged with firing this place and his case was next taken up. Brimmer was again examined. He testifled: On this night I was at the American house when Daley came up; we had a short talk and he said he bad set White's barn on fire a few nights before; While talking be said, "Let's set the house on fire;" the house was right next to the engine house; I told him I would not do it : he said he would do it himself. I gave him a lot of waste out of the engine; I alike must take up the same position on then went out and saw Daily go into the alley and through the fence into White's lot; I stood there a while and then came out to Church street; Daily and I soon smelled smoke. He said he was going home, and walked down Church street ; I went to East King street and then to Middle; I met a girl and took her down to South Queen street, near the cemetery; when I came back I went to bed, and the fire alarm was rung. On cross-examination the witness said he had soaked the waste well with oil before giving it to Daily. It was an hour from the time be gave it to him until he heard the alarm. The defendant was held for trial on this case in default of bail.

Henry's Feather Factory. In the next case Daily was charged with although many miners were working in firing the feather factory of Benjamin Henry, in Millin street, near Lime, in 1879. Brimmer testified : For this night Daily and I and a fellow whose name I do not recollect, were at the hose house; I went inside and got a bottle of oil and waste; we then started for the stable; we left the third man standing at Lime street and Daily and I went to the factory; there was a board off the shed; Daily put the waste in and I touched it off; when we got back to Lime street, the other man had gone ; I walked up to East King and and Daily walked down Lime; I went back to the engine house and the alarm soon struck ; when I got to the fire Daily 10, for the purpose of celebrating the was there; Daily said then if anyone had seen them he had a good excuse as he had proved death and destruction to seen Officer Stormfeltz and asked him it On cross-examination the witness said they met no one around, at or before the burning. The case was also held for court.

A New Case This morning Philip Smith was acrested on the charge of being accessory to the firing by Brimmer of Jeffries' carpenter be present, and participate in celebrating shop, ou Grant street. Brimmer testified as follows: On this evening I was sta ing at Grant and Duke streets with Smith. John Gill and Dr. Fitzpatrick went down in the cellar under Grant hall with Smith and soon came up; Smith and I walked up Duke, out Orange and down Lime street M.
