COMMON PLEAS COURT.

CASES DISPOSED OF AND ON TRIAL

Decision of the Referees in Lancaster City vs. Welchans et al. In the case of Martha Eckert, alleged lunatie vs. Milton B. Eshelman traverser. counsel began speaking when court mot and the speeches had not all been made yet when court adjourned. The case reached the jury this afternoon, too late for to day's paper. BEFORE JUDGE PATTERSON.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the use of William D. Weaver, A. M. Frantz, et. al. vs. D. G. Steacy, Morris Cooper, Peter Pickel and Samuel Hughes. The facts of this case are about as follows: In the year 1871 Wm. Pickel and wife of Bart township, made an assignment of their property to D. G. Steacy, dorris Cooper, Peter Pickel and Samuel Hughes became Steacy's sureties. Steacy filed an account and at the audit a bond in the sum of $4,600 due George H. Pickel's estate was presented His heirs objected to the money being paid to their father's administrator, Adam Draucker, who had gone to Virginia, and asked that it be awarded to Steacy to hold until their father's estate would be settled, then pay Mr. Draucker sufficient to pay their father's debts, and the balance to them. This award was made. Steacy retained the award the sum of $3,507.51 and paid the heirs this neighborhood were his mother and $16,000. Mr. Draucker did not ale his sister who, until recently, resided in Lancaster, but are supposed to have lately was made, Steacy retained the award in Steacy had failed. This suit was therefore brought against his bondsmen. The jury rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs for $3,096.33 and the penalty of the bond $14.416.

A street damage case has been attached town stairs, but nothing has been done in it as yet. The City vs. Welchans.

W. A. Wilson, esq., referee in the case of the city of Laucaster vs. Edward Weichans and the sureties on his official bond, has to-day filed his decision. The epinion is quite voluminous, and it is impossible to give more than a brief abstract in our columns. He decides that the late city treasurer was lawfully suspended by councils on January 5, 1881, and was therefore entitled to that at the time of his last election April 5. 1860, there was in his hands, as city treasurer, as shown by the journal and his own admissions, the sum of $20,773.64. The referee has stated an account from which it appears that on January 5th, 1881, when the treasurer was suspended. there was due the city the sum of $3,594.17 which has never been paid over. He accordingly directs judgment for that amount and interest to date, to wit: $4,004 48 to be entered up against the detendants.

SUICIDE IN LEBANOS

A Lancaster artist Takes His Life The following dispatch was received a the INTELLIGENCER office this afternoon "LEBANON, Pa., Dec. 1.-J. F. Malone young artist from Lancaster, Pa., committed suicide, by taking laudanum, in the Valley house, last night." The subject of the above melancholy tidings was well-known in this city. He was an artist and wrote considerable for the newspapers. He resided for a time at the Brickerville stock farms, managed by Colin Cameron, and frequently wrote from that place for the INTELLIGENCER. Latterly he made crayon portraits in this Young Malone was not a relative of any of the well-known families of his name in this city. He was from the northeastern part of the county, his father having gone West some years ago and having not been heard from since. While attending the eattle at the Elizabeth farms and aiding an artist to sketch the fancy stock Malone determined to try portrait painting and crayoning, but he did not succeed very well. He worked at tobacco packing in this city, and also collected and wrote items for the defunct Oct, but was never much of a success and, his tragic taking off has no doubt been the outcome of a fit of melancholy induced by failure in his undertakings. The only known relatives of deceased in removed herefrom.

His Dying Statement, The following special to the INTELLI-SENCER from Lebanon gives the particulars of Malone's suicide :

This morning James F. Malone, a young man aged 25, of Lancaster, Pa., committed suicide by taking a dose of laudanum. The deceased was an artist and had painted several pictures in town, which were much admired. This morning on visiting the room the hotel people found the young man lying on the floor of his room, having on his body a shirt, pantaloons and stockings. His face was swollen and had partly turned blue salary only to that time. He finds On a stand close to where the body was found, the following letter was discovered by Mr. Boltz, which needs no explanation as it tells its own tale :

> LEBANON VALLEY HOUSE, LEBANON, Nov. 30.—Some people live while others only exist. Everything being against me I have decided to live no longer. I am ontered suit. I shall expatiate my crime before a just tribunal. I had intended paying a visit to my folks at Lancaster, but last night some one stole every cent I had, four dollars; now I have nothing. I abhor nothing more than debt, yet I was nearly always a debtor. Imbued with the idea that I am a regular Joanh among mankind, I have resolved to exist no more. I wish my dear mother and sister to understand that I am not lacking in filial affection.
