A VETERAN ACTRES. The Celebrated Miss Kelly, Who Made Her First Appearance in 1790.

London Athenreum. A memorial in behalf of Miss Kelly, the celebrated actress, now in her ninety-third year, having been some time back presented to the prime minister, Mr. Glad-stone has just awarded her a grant from the Crown £150. Many eminent names were subscribed to this memorial, and Mr. Charles Kent greatly exerted himself in the matter. Miss Kelly, who is still happily in possession of her faculties, enjoyed for 36 years a wide celebrity in her profession. During that period she was associated on the boards of Drury Lane and Covent theatres (as well as on those of the Haymarket and the English opera house) with Mrs. Siddons, John Kemble, Edmund Kean, Munden, Mrs. Jordan and other distinguished contemporaries. It is curious to remember that she made her first appearance before the public so far back as the last century, namely, in the December of 1799, when, as a little sprite of nine, she stepped on to the stage of Drury Lane in her uncle Michael Kelly's opera of "Blue Beard," marching in the children's perspective procession, turban on head and scimitar in hand, among the retainers of the boy Blue Beard. The representative of this character, throned that night in a miniature howdah on a baby elephant, was, fourteen years afterwards to take the town by storm as Shylock and win the recognitioe of posterity as Edmund Kean. Miss Kelly was the original of "Barbara S-" in the "Essays," of Eliza, and to her Charles Lamb inscribed two of the most graceful of his sonnets.

The Author of Home Sweet Home." The remains of John Howard Payne, which the philanthropist Corcoran is about to have removed to Washington, will be interred in a triangular piece of ground in Oak Hill cementery, on the crest of a hill which slopes down into the valley of Rock creek. The spot is now marked by a magnificent black beech, two and a half feet in diameter, the most beautiful tree in the cemetery. The surrounding evergreeus will be removed, leaving the beech to stand in solitary grandeur on the hill top. There will be no florid epitaph upon the monument. Simplicity will be its finest ornament. It will be a plain shaft, bearing only the inscription : John Howard Payne, author of "Home Sweet Home," born July 9, 1792, died April 10, 1852.
