FRIDAY EVENING, DEC. 8, 1882.

TRAGEDY ON THE MIMIC STAGE.

An Amateur Actor shot by his brother in a Play in a Country School House.

Makanda, a little town on the Illinois Central railroad, a few miles south of Carbondale, Ill., was the scene of a painful accident, not unlike that which occurred in Cincinnati.

The play was presented to the public for the first time in the school house on Saturday evening. There was quite a large gathering of rustic youths and maidens, with a few adults.

When the first became known the scene was a very sorrowful one. A physician was summoned, who soon ascertained that the ball had entered the head just back of the left ear, and ranged upwards into the brain.
