A NOBLE WOMAN.

SUFFERING TO SAVE HER HUSBAND.
How Kallstrom Reached the Crib in the Lake Amongst the Snow by His Wife's Heroic Conduct.
Chicago Tribune.

I wonder how many of the hundreds who look out on the lake every day and see the crib tower rising up against a blue or gray sky, as the case may be, know of a scene that took place there nearly three years ago?

At the time of which I speak the crib keeper was a Finn named Kallstrom, a gigantic man and heavy in proportion to his size. He was known about the wharves as "Big Charlie," and his claim to distinction was that he had, as he said, "commanded a bark of a thousand tons" in which he had sailed the North Seas, and in which, Vikinglike, he had carried off his wife, a bright Irish girl from Drogheda, one of the east ports of Ireland.

She was a small woman, with gray eyes and long black lashes. She had strongly marked eyebrows and a mass of waving black hair that crept in little curls around her temples and the nape of her neck. She had a prominent nose of her race and a generous mouth filled with strong white teeth. It was in March, and the day was one of those soft, treacherous ones that lure unwary flowers to their destruction, and now pneumonia and bronchitis brooded. The sun shone warmly, and the great lake seemed to dream of spring-time.

The crib ladder was like Mother Hubbard's cupboard, and Kallstrom took his small boat and rowed ashore. In the first morning he had a glass of beer with his friends, the wind changed, and when he reached the shore with his stores, he found the lake churned up to the fury peculiar to inland seas.

He was worried, but had such confidence in his little Irish girl, as he called her, that he spent the night quietly. The next day found the storm as wild as ever, and he spent the hours of daylight striding up and down the shore, for by this time he knew how few provisions he had left, and that his wife was actually suffering from food. Twice he launched his boat, and twice it swamped.

At dark the light gleamed out from the crib top, but to Kallstrom's eye it had a baleful glare, and morning found him determined "I'll go or I'll swim for it," as he swore with some round Scandinavian oaths. Fortunately the wind was more quiet, and, after hard work he had come to the crib-top. His wife had picked up the rope from the top of the crib; for the waves rolled so high that all the storm doors and shutters were battered down and the white caps spit at the lantern as they drove before the wind.

He caught the rope and passed up his bundle of supplies. She dropped it a second time; and just as he got it under his arms a great wave swamped the boat, leaving him clinging to the wall, blinded and bruised, and depending on the little woman up aloft for his life.

She began hauling on the rope, and had drawn him as high as the still frame—leaving her fingers and toes into whatever crevices offered. As he reached his right hand up, the wind came round the corner with a yell and his loose, drooping hair fell into the lake; but the faithful Irish girl paid out the line as fast as she could, and he found himself with a chance for life still in his reach.

Up he came, hand over hand, and as he cut the wind he saw that he had half a bundle of supplies. She dropped it a second time; and just as he got it under his arms a great wave swamped the boat, leaving him clinging to the wall, blinded and bruised, and depending on the little woman up aloft for his life.

TWO SMALL HAND-MADE HAVANA CIGARS in each of HARTMAN'S YELLOW FRONT CIGAR STORE.
A FULL LINE OF LOMBARD'S at HARTMAN'S YELLOW FRONT CIGAR STORE.

Wanamaker's.

Silk novelties innumerable and indescribable. Everything that ladies or dressmakers have occasion for in matching, decorating, combining. What we are remarkable for, more than for anything else in silks, is variety; or, at least, we are reputed so. You hear it said by everybody: "If you want to match anything, or find a rare silk, even an unexpected one, go to Wanamaker's."

The other peculiarity that everybody expects to find here is less pleasant to speak of; lower prices. We put it second, because there are people who don't credit us with lower prices. Still, we imagine that if one should assert the contrary, almost everybody in Philadelphia would believe it.

Often we speak of other aspects of our trade; aspects less obvious or less recognized. It is well occasionally to give old news.
Next-door circle, south entrance to main building.

Warm skirts for ladies, and leggings for ladies, girls and little girls. The warm skirts are satin, satin-and-cloth, satin-and-felt, satin-and-Italian-cloth, and Italian, all quilted; cloth, flannel and felt prettily trimmed, not quilted, warm enough without. The leggings are all sorts: one very useful and fairly pretty sort, woven, at two-thirds value, 25 to 65 cents.

West of south entrance to main building.

Furs have to be thought of. We're busy enough as it making. If we advertise at all, we ought to say what will not oppress us with too much making. Perhaps this it. A great many seal coats and fur-lined circulars are ready-made. More sizes are ready-made here than anybody expects; especially the unexpected sizes. Ready-made work we can make in July. Why shouldn't we make all the shapes and sizes ready-made? 1233 Chestnut.

Black satin rhademaes and satin de Lyons, 25 to 35 cents below our own recent prices, of all grades from $1 to $2; and we guess our prices haven't been very high; have they? Next-door circle, south entrance to main building.

Wool serge embroidered with silk dots that ought to sell for $1.50—no that isn't the way to put it; it ought to sell according to our theory, for just as little as we can afford; and that is 75 cents.

Look out for such now. It's time for over-buying and all sorts of mistakes to show themselves. We try to keep ready to turn other folk's mistakes to account for ourselves and for you. Third circle, southeast from center.
