THE BIED SCIENTIFICALLY TEEATED

A Dissertation on the Christmas Fowl-The Best Bird of the Barnyard-His Origin and family. Prof. Rathvon in the Farmer.

"Man, cursed man, on turkeys preys, And Christmas shortens all our days. Sometimes with oysters we combine: Sometimes assist the sav'ry chine. From the low peasant to the lord, The turkey smokes on ev'ry board.

At one time it was thought, in Eng land at least, that the turkey had its ori gin in the country called Turkey-the 'and of the Turks-but this was a grave mistake, the naturalists of England knew better. In a "Perfect description of Vir-ginia," written two hundred and forty years ago, it is recorded that the colonists had "wilde turkies" weighing "sixty pounds," and Ray refers to America as the origin of the species from which we derive our domestic bird. It is easy enough to perceive how the name Turkey should have been applied to the land of Turks by "outside barbarians," but it is not so easy to perecive why, or how, it was first applied to an American fow!.

The Mcleagris of the ancients was not a turkey at all: it was a "Guinea fowl." Our Clothing is made to fit the Linnaeus, however, has given this as the generic name of our turkey, a bird which average shaped man, but many was altogether unknown to the ancients purchasers require changes such as and ornithologists have continued it down lengthening or shortening sleeves. to the present time. But this is now of little consequence; for it has been proven, shaping the back or shoulders, etc., and is generally conceded, that the Euroetc., which to accommodate our cuspeans only became acquainted with this bird after the discovery of America, and tomers we are always ready and from which it has been spread in a domeswilling to make . We do this altcticated state, over the greater part of the civilized world. The wild turkey at one gether at our expense and for the period had a much wider geographical work employ the most experienced range thon it has now, extending from the northwestern states down to the Isthmus of Darien, but civilization, public improvements, and general progress are fast circumscribing that range, and probably the present rising generation may see its entire extinction as a wild bird. Moreover, they do not seem to increase as rapidly in a wild state as they do in a domestic state. The adult males are very hostile toward the young, and kill Ledger Building, Chestnut & Sixth Sts. them whenever they can get an opportunity is more frequent in a wild state than it is under human intervention in a domestic state. In the wild bird there is a general uni formity of coloration, but in the domestic bird, there is great variation, from pure white to almost pure black, including almost as many varieties as there are in the genus Gallus, which includes our common "chickens." Attempts have been made to demonstrate that there are two distinct species among the wild birds, but it never has had a universal following. It is supposed the Mexican and farther that which inhabits the United States. It had also been alleged that the tailfeathers of the Mexican bird were not tipped with white, or whitish, presenting the lightcolored margin when the tail is expanded but that distinction certainly mean nothing. In one of our country strolls about the first of October, we came upon a family of turkeys containing an adult "gobbler," two adult hens, and nine "adolescents" almost as large as the hens aforesaid. Among these were two that lacked the Men's Heavy Wool Mixed Suits. . . $ 8.00 white tips of the tailfeathers; three were entirely white; one was buff, and the remaining three dark colored with the white tips very conspicuous. The adult gobbler Men's All-Wool Casimere Salls. 12.00 was dark-almost black-and brenzed, and the females were brownish. These were probably the progeny of the two heas Men's Black Beaver Overcoats. . 14.00 or may have been a single family, and we have only introduced the phenomena here to illustrate the tendencies in the bird to vary from the wild type, in its plumage.

Of course these different varieties have belong to the Linuxan genus Melengris—

"White Holland," "Browz," "Browz," "Grey," etc., etc.
The "Honduras turkey" (Melengris occilata) is nearly the size of the common turkey, and is supposed—as the name implies-to be a distinct species. The dis tinction is based upon the less developed tail, and the fact that it has never been known to spread it. The "Brush turkey" is an American species. It is the Talegalla lathami of Gould, and inhabits various districts in New South Wales, where it is found in large flocks. It is, however, not a true Meleagris, and hence was not derived from our aboriginal stock. gris being retained as a specific name. of those festivals themselves. If the poor man can only afford to partake of turkey once or twice in a whole year, it will be on one or both of those festivals, in nine cases out of every ten. The turkey has, therefore, a most fearful gauntlet to run in its mission through civilization. To visit the poultry markets of any of our great cities during the week preceding either of the festivals named, a most formidable scene would be revealed, and the novice not only would be wrapped in wonder as to where all these fowls came from, but also as to where they all go to. True, there are also ducks, geese, and the common fowl in goodly numbers. but none of them garnish the festive loud

He was one of those superbly fly men to whom the rapid civilization of the nincteenth century has given birth, and as he sat there in all his insouciance and striped pants one could see that though his life had been a gay and reckless one, it had held for him much of disappointment and sorrow. "So she refused you point blank?" he asks. "Yes," is the reply. "She could never bear to leave her dear parents, and the little brothers and sisters whose lives were wrapped up in hers. God knows I love her though"—and the strong man turned away to hide his grief.

Bertie was by his side in an instant. "She told you nothing else?" he asks -"gave you no other reason?"
"No," is the reply, "none what

"Then go back to her," Bertie says "and plead with her again," and he seats himself in the chair and awaits the return of his friend. . In a few moments Aristides reappears his pure young face wreathed in smiles "What success?" asks Bertie.

Aristides does not reply at once, but stepping to Bertie's side, he leans forward and whispers in a low, agonized tone "She was bluffing without a pair."

Artists Who Know How to Kiss. · So the art of love making and the art of kissing," says the old stager, "have been carefully studied by the leading actresses of the day and each of them have their peculiar methods of meeting lips with lips. Pretty Miss Neilson used to hang ubout Romeo's neck with an ecstatic abandon that was almost frantic at times, and when the kiss came it stayed a long while. Mrs. Langtry, it is said doesn't impress the spectator with the idea that she wants to be kissed, as she allows her leading man to touch her lips respectfully and seems very ill at ease while she is in his arms. Miss Mary Anderson is rather difficult to kiss nicely because she is too tall to nestle down upon Mr. Downing's broad chest. She kisses in a good, straightforward way, however, as though she isn't ashamed of it, and there is no nonsense about the performance. It's in the part and she does it, without putting any very delicate touches to it. Miss Catherine Lewis has evidently given a great deal of thought to the art. She wraps her arms about the neck of her mock lover as if she wanted to make them go twice around, and when she is sure of her grip she gives a hungry snap, and then all is still for a few seconds Suddenly there is a loud pop and the operation is over. Her sister, Miss Jeffreys Lewis, is something like her, but her methods are more subdued. A favorite bit of business of hers is to have the lover sit ic a chair and she comes before him She walks cautiously around him first, as though she were watching for a place to light on. With a whirl she falls on her knees and bends backward over his neck and draws his face close to hers. For a moment she looks into his eyes and then

Wanamaker's.

Silk novelties innumerable and indescribable. Everything that ladies or dressmakers have occasion for in matching, decorating, combining. What we are remarkable for, more than for anything else in silks, is variety; or, at least, we are reputed so. You hear it said by everybody: "If you want to match anything, or find a rare silk, even an unexpectable one. go to Wanamaker's."

The other peculiarity that everybody expects to find here is less pleasant to speak of; lower prices. We put it second, because there are people who don't credit us with lower prices. Still, we imagine that if one should assert the contrary, almost everybody in Philadelphia would believe it.

Oftener we speak of other aspects of our trade; aspects less obvious or less recognized. It is well occasionally to give old news.

The warm skirts are satin, satin-and-cloth, satin-andfelt, satin-and-Italian-cloth, and Italian, all quilted; cloth, flannel and felt prettily trimmed, not quilted, warm enough without. The leggings are all sorts; one very useful and fairly pretty sort, woven, at two-thirds value, 25 to 65 cents.

West of south entrance to main building, Furs have to be thought of. We're busy enough as to making. If we advertise at all, we ought to say what will not oppress us with too much making. Perhaps thisit is. A great many seal coats and fur-lined circulars are ready-made. More sizes are ready-made here than anybody expects; especially the unexpected sizes. Ready-made work we can make in July. Why shouldn't we make all the shapes and sizes ready-made?

1303 Chestnut. Black satin rhademaes and satin de Lyons, 25 to 35 cents below our own recent prices, of all grades from $1 to $2; and we guess our prices haven't been very high; have they? Next-outer circle, south entrance to manu-

Wool serge embroidered with sitk dots that ought to sell for $1.50-no that isn't the way to put it; it ought to sell according to our theory, for just as little as we can afford; and that is 75 cents. Look out for such now. It's time for over-buying and all sorts of mistakes to show themselves. We try to keep ready to turn other folk's mistakes to account for ourselves and for you.
