A MAN OF WEALTH.

A MILLIONAIRE'S EXTENSIVE DESIGN

How William T. Winans, an Eccentrically Rich Man, Disposes of His Enormous Wealth—His Eccentricities.

Mr. William T. Winans, one of the celebrated Baltimore family of that name, is a millionaire who lives in London and is ambitious of possessing the most extensive shooting grounds in the United Kingdom. Accordingly he has for some years been bending his energy and his almost boundless wealth towards securing control of a deer forest that would stretch from sea to sea across the Scottish highlands. To accomplish this laudable undertaking Mr. Winans about a year ago leased the extensive farm of Kincaid, on the Chisholm estate, and almost of the great Kincaid estate, belonging to Mr. J. T. MacKenzie, of Glenmuick.

The complete possession of these two properties would have given Mr. Winans a shooting range extending from the east to the west coast of Scotland, from the Beaulieu Firth to the Atlantic, and, in a straight line, the length of this great pleasure park would have been forty-six miles, while the annual rental runs up to $75,000. As soon as he had leased the Kincaid estate, he had plans prepared for an extensive shooting lodge, which was to be one of the largest and most handsome in Scotland, and in other respects proposed to have a princely time of it in his sports. But the whole Kincaid estate was under sheep at the time of the lease. It was an easy matter to get rid of these obnoxious tame creatures by throwing some thousands of them on the market. In addition to the sheep, however, the estate was tenanted by a number of shepherds and crofters, and these obnoxious persons Mr. Winans requested Mr. MacKenzie to eject. The owner of the land refused to do this, and even refused to consent to their forcible removal from their homes. In fairness, however, he tendered Mr. Winans full compensation for this offset to his full possession of the property. The millionaire sportsman declined the tendered damages, still insisting on having every living creature cleared off the estate and to secure his demands applied to the courts. This remedy has failed, and it now remains to be seen what Mr. Winans is going to do about it.

Mr. Winans is a brother of Thomas Winans, who died at Newport in 1873. Both the brothers resided abroad for many years. Few private palaces in London are more splendid than that occupied by the surviving brother in Kensington Palace gardens. It is not so imposing externally as was the remarkable house that "Baron" Albert Grant built only to see it torn down, nor so fine as the East India palace, but it contains as much splendor inside as any of them. The first carpet that was put down was a magnificent Axminster, made to order, and costing hundreds of dollars, but this did not suit Mr. Winans' taste, so he ordered the second, and had it put down right over the first. It is likely that the double floor covering cost $5,000. To describe the bronzes and paintings, and articles of priceless bric-a-brac, would be impossible, but the most striking ornament in the first drawing room is an altar about a foot and a half high, in antique chased gold. Mr. Winans' family consists only of himself and wife, and his two sons, Walter and Louis. They are both modest and quiet young men, with cultivated tastes and generally good sensibly. Winans himself is fond of mooring, but engineering and deer shooting, although he spends his money lavishly to gratify the tastes of those around him. He has a morbid dread of the ocean, and often says that he would not cross the Atlantic for $1,000,000. Mr. Winans' income in 1877 was, as nearly as he could compute it, $650,000, with a prospect of being troubled, according to his own account within ten years. Most of his property is in the most fashionable quarter of London, where it is daily increasing in value. Having so much money to spend, it is not surprising that he endeavors to get rid of it in rather odd ways. Recently he completed another monster "cigar ship" on the Clyde, which cost about $1,000,000. It is believed by her owner that she will be able to cross the Atlantic in five days. This is the third vessel of the kind that Mr. Winans has built. The other two are much smaller, and are well known to all who frequent the Solent in the summer. It is understood that the three vessels, from first to last, have cost over $2,000,000.

When the Winans brothers lived in Russia, during the building of their company with the late Joseph Harrison, jr., of Baltimore—of the Moscow and St. Petersburg railway, they maintained the same elegant style, but the family now does in London. Mr. Winans had an elegant box at the opera, but was rarely to be seen there, and frequently expressed a wish to see a genuine American circus, which he insisted was very superior to the diving "Fattis". In the course of time a circus arrived, and the manager, hearing of Mr. Winans' passionate fondness for the sawdust ring, attempted to bleed him so unmercifully that Mr. Winans asked him indignantly, if he expected him to buy every seat at the performance. "That's just what I do want you to do," replied the unabashed knight of the sawdust. "Very well," said Mr. Winans, "I'll take every seat, but nobody except myself and a friend I am going to bring shall enter, and you are to give us everything on the bill. I have bought the whole performance, and I mean to have it." True to his word, on the appointed night, Mr. Winans and a solitary friend appeared in the great theatre and had the whole circus to themselves, applauding and encoring and making them answer their calls whenever they chose. Mr. Winans carefully studying up the hand-bills, to see that nothing was left out.

MRS. LABOUCHERE'S DIVORCE.
The sudden and widespread publicity given to Mrs. Labouchere's efforts to procure an American divorce from her first husband, Richard Pigeon, has undoubtedly put a new aspect upon the curious case. Mr. Thomas F. Fowler, of the firm of Drumm, Edeall, Hart & Fowler, of 67 Wall street, New York, who are acting as attorneys for Mrs. Labouchere, said that he believed all proceedings would be stopped and the suit abandoned. This would be done because of the annoying publicity which the matter has obtained. The English road of her divorce would be filed here instead. Mr. Fowler said that Mr. Labouchere owned property in Virginia and in order to pass title it was necessary to show that Mrs. Labouchere was his legal wife and had the right to sign papers as such; also if this were proven she could sign off her dower right and thus avoid the necessity of signing to all transfers. One way to make the proof was to file the English records of her divorce. As this was a slow and cumbersome process it was thought best to secure an American divorce, which would accomplish all purposes without serious trouble. They had expected to do this without publicity and were surprised at the stir which was made over the matter. Mrs. Labouchere had been separated from Pigeon for several years and had not seen him for eight years. She was legally married to Mr. Labouchere and is expected to visit this country with him in February. Mr. Fowler said he had visited Richmond with Mrs. Labouchere in order to begin the suit.

REGULAR SAUNTERS FROM IN GEORGIA.
Athens Banner-Watcherman.
Our young friend Jacks, clerking at Dorsey's, is one of the stoutest men in Athens. He can take six sacks of shot in each hand, holding the bags between his fingers, and carry them with ease. He can also hold out three sacks at arm's length. Bill Bess can take a large-sized keg of beer and hold it up at arm's length over his head, without the same touching his person in being raised up. Judge Nicholson says he has taken a heavy avul in each hand and carried them across a room. But this was in the dim and distant past. Uplavay, a negro in Athens, has been seen to take a heavy bale of cotton on his shoulders and carry it across the street. Mr. R. K. Reavessays he has seen a man named Harrison carry three sacks of salt, weighing over six hundred pounds across Broad street at one time. A man once lived in Athens who could take the largest sized sledge hammer between his teeth and heave it over his head from between his legs.

Wanamaker's.
Silk novelties innumerable and indescribable. Everything that ladies or dressmakers have occasion for in matching, decorating, combining. What we are remarkable for, more than for anything else in silks, is variety; or, at least, we are reputed so. You hear it said by everybody: "If you want to match anything, or find a rare silk, even an unexpected one, go to Wanamaker's."

The other peculiarity that everybody expects to find here is less pleasant to speak of; lower prices. We put it second, because there are people who don't credit us with lower prices. Still, we imagine that if one should assert the contrary, almost everybody in Philadelphia would believe it.

Often we speak of other aspects of our trade; aspects less obvious or less recognized. It is well occasionally to give old news.

Warm skirts for ladies, and leggings for ladies, girls and little girls. The warm skirts are satin, satin-and-cloth, satin-and-felt, satin-and-Italian-cloth, and Italian, all quilted; cloth, flannel and felt prettily trimmed, not quilted, warm enough without. The leggings are all sorts; one very useful and fairly pretty sort, woven, at two-thirds value, 25 to 65 cents.

Furs have to be thought of. We're busy enough as it making. If we advertise at all, we ought to say what will not oppress us with too much making. Perhaps this is true. A great many seal coats and fur-lined circulars are ready-made. More sizes are ready-made here than anybody expects; especially the unexpected sizes. Ready-made work we can make in July. Why shouldn't we make all the shapes and sizes ready-made? 1300 Chestnut.

Black satin rhademaes and satin de Lyons, 25 to 35 cents below our own recent prices, of all grades from $1 to $2; and we guess our prices haven't been very high; have they?

Wool serge embroidered with silk dots that ought to sell for $1.50—no that isn't the way to put it; it ought to sell according to our theory, for just as little as we can afford; and that is 75 cents.

Look out for such now. It's time for over-buying and all sorts of mistakes to show themselves. We try to keep ready to turn other folk's mistakes to account for ourselves and for you.

JOHN WANAMAKER.
