THE THREE KINGS.

BY HENRY W. LOGGINS. Three Kings came riding from the East...

The star was so beautiful, large and clear. That all the other stars of the sky...

Three caskets they bore in their drab-bows. Three caskets of gold with golden keys...

And so the Three Kings rode into the West. Through the dusk of night over hills and dells...

And sometimes talked, as they paused to rest. With the people they met at the wayside wells...

"Of the child that is born," said Baltazar, "Good people, I pray you, tell us the news..."

We know of no king, but Herod the Great! They thought the Wise Men were men inane...

And when they came to Jerusalem. Herod, the Great, who had heard this thing...

So they rode away; and the star stood still. The only one in the gray of dawn...

Light over Bethlehem on the hill; The city of David, where Christ was born...

And the Three Kings rode through the gate and the guard. Through the silent street, till their horses turned...

And neighed as they entered the great inn-yard. But the windows were closed and the doors were barred...

And cradled there in the scented hay. In the air made sweet by the breath of kine...

His mother, Mary of Nazareth, Sat watching beside His place of rest...

Then the Kings rode out of the city gate. With the clatter of hoofs in proud array...

And returned to their homes by another way.
