TUESDAY EVENING JAN. 9, 1883.

NOT COUNTERFEIT, AFTER ALL.

A Curious Story About a Silver Dollar and the Trouble it Made.

Washington Dispatch to the Times.

President Arthur has pardoned out of penitentiary at Buffalo, New York, a man named John Pendergrass, who was serving out a sentence of one year for attempting to pass counterfeit money, it having been demonstrated that the prisoner was innocent of the charge. The circumstances of the case are rather interesting and seem to show that even bank cashiers are not infallible in determining whether a coin is genuine or not. The story of the affair is substantially this: Several weeks ago Pendergrass, who is a canal boatman working in the vicinity of Buffalo, accompanied by a friend, went into a saloon for drinks, in payment of which he tendered a silver dollar. The barkeeper suspected the coin and refused to take it, whereupon Pendergrass was warned by his friend not to attempt to pass that dollar again or he might get into trouble. He then counseled him to give the piece of money to the barkeeper for a pocket piece. This was done, but subsequently Pendergrass demanded his change from the saloon keeper, who not only declined to give it to him, but sent for a deputy marshal and charged Pendergrass with trying to pass bogus money. The latter and his companion were arrested and taken before United States Commissioner Murray for a hearing. A bank cashier of Buffalo was summoned to inspect the dollar and pronounced it a counterfeit, stating that he was an expert in handling money. It was mainly upon his evidence that Pendergrass and his friend were committed to jail, where they remained for two weeks. The friend was induced, by promise of pardon, to turn state's evidence against Pendergrass, his testimony being that he had cautioned his companion not to try and pass the money. When Pendergrass was brought to trial he was advised by the prosecuting officer to plead guilty and that he would be sentenced to prison for only one year. This he did and was committed accordingly.

The case would probably never have become public but for the cupidity of the deputy marshal who made the arrest. Under the statutes officers of the secret service of the treasury department are entitled to a reward for every counterfeiter convicted. The deputy marshal learned of this, but, being ineligible to receive the compensation, he connected a scheme by which a member of the local police force was stated to be the party who made the arrest and was entitled to the reward. The necessary papers were prepared and, with the supposed counterfeit, forwarded to Chief Brooks, of the secret service. As soon as the latter examined the money he declared it to be genuine and was sustained by the experts in the treasury department, who cut the piece in half and weighed it. The attention of the secretary of the treasury was called to the case and he laid it before the president for action. The United States commissioner before whom Pendergrass was tried was notified that the coin was genuine, but he refused to believe it until one-half of the dollar upon which he had cut his initials was returned to him. As a result of the investigation the president shortly issued a pardon to the prisoner who had been convicted of a crime of which he was innocent, and he was promptly turned out of jail.

"Did She Die?

No; she lingered and suffered along, pining away all the time, for years, the doctors doing her no good; and at last was cured by this Hop Bitters the papers say so much about. Indeed! Cannot I hear them? and we should be for that medicine." jl-2eodSw

"Example is better than precept." It is a well-known fact that dyspepsia, bilious attacks, headache and many other ills can only be cured by removing their cause. Kidney-Wort has been proved to be the most effectual remedy for these and for biliary costiveness, which so afflicts millions of the American people.

The Law of Kindness

Is very great; it affects all the human family, all animals, and may be even found in patent medicines. Sometimes drastic, and the patient is obliged to submit to more suffering than the disease; but in cases of obstinate constipation, dyspepsia, there is no remedy so kind, so generous in its effects, and yet so satisfactory as Burdock Blood Bitters.
