SUDDEN DEATH.

Inquest at the Poor House. Last evening between 5 and 6 o'clock a German about 50 years of age applied for lodging at the county almshouse. He was taken to the workhouse department, where soon afterwards he complained of feeling unwell. He ate his supper, however, and made no further complaint until near midnight, when he again said he was very sick. Dr. McCreary, the resident physician, was sent for, but before he arrived the man was dead. His name is not known, and there was nothing on his person by which he can be identified, unless it be a German prayer-book printed by John Baer's Sons. Coroner Shiffer hel I an inquest on the body this afternoon, and his jury rendered a verdict of death from apoplexy.

His family physician, Dr. M. L. Herr, was also summoned, and remedies were promptly applied for the patient's relief. Mr. Dinkleberg was much better bed his case is not considered serious.

Change in a Dry Goods House

will be noticed in our advertising columns, the old and popular Dry Goods House, at No. 46 West King street, and of which Mr. Jacob Harnish has for a long time been the head, made a change in proprietors yesterday, by the introduction of Mr. Witmer Hess as an equal partner with Mr. Jacob Harnish the tatter having disposed of the equal half interest in the establishment to Mr. Hess, and the firm's name hereafter will be liarnish &

The long business training, activity and popularity of Mr. Hess are all well-ca'cul ted to preserve, unabated, the confidence which the public has so long reposed in the sterling integrity of the house, and the new firm cannot fall to merit a continuance of that confidence in the future which it has so well merited and enjoyed in the past.

Amusements.

" Iolanthe " To-Night .- Snyder & Grau's comic opera company will to-night produce for the first time in Lancaster Gilbert & Sullivan's new and delightful comic opera of "Iolanthe : or, the Peer and the Pert." Judged by the material of the organization, which indudes such well known favorites as Louis DeLange, Eugene Clark, Helen Dayne, Elma Delaro, fiessie Gray and others who have on previous casions established themselves in the good graces of the community, there cannot be any doubt of a capital performance of the opera. The Harrisburg and Easton papers speak very highly of the company.

" Iolanthe" by the Rice Company.—Popular interest seems to be pretty thoroughly centred around Gilbert & Sullivan's new creation, as second performance of " Iolanthe " will be given next Wednesday evening by Chas. E. Rice's company, which claims to be one of the two organizations authorized to produce the work in this country. The commendatory oress notices which the troupe carry indicate that no pains have been spared to make the presentation first-class in every respect, a special feature of the performance being the introduction of the Grenadier band, while the costumes and scenic effects are said to be ex tremely beautiful.

The Northcott Concert Company - The concet which is to be given in Trinity Lutheran chapel, under the auspices of the Junior Missionary society of that congregation, on Mon day evening next, Jan. 22, promises to be a very enjoyable musical event. The Northcott concert company, of Philadelphia, which will provide the entertainment for the occasion, is a very talente i organization, and a programme of exceptional merit will be presented. There will be vocal solos and duets by Miss Stevenson and Mr. Johnston : cornet solos by Mr. Northcott ; readings by Miss Bigger; an i a unique feature of the programme will be a descriptive plane and organ sole by Mr. Baker, in which there will be introduced a thunder storm, a shepherd playing on his pipe, interrupted by thunder in the distance : ringing of bells, crashing of trees, rushing of water, &c.; gradual subsiding of the storm choir singing the Old Hundred; chime of church ells heard at the end of the storm. The selections are mainly of a popular character, though by the best known composers and are certain to please an audience having an ear for pretty us asic veil rendered.

The reasons for the increased patronage received by the Society during the past five years

1st. The fact that the percentage and amount of its surplus over its liabilities, according to the State Insurance Reports (four per cent. valuation) are larger than in any other one of the five largest life insurance

2d. The percentage of dividends earned for policy-holders, according to the same Reports, is now, and has been for the last five years, greater than in any other one of these companies.

3d. The Society issues a plain and simple contract of insurance,

4th. In the event of death, a Cakes. Can be used for all purposes, the same policy which has become incontestable, is paid immediately upon the receipt of the proofs of death with a legal release of the claim, thus affording pecuniary relief to the family as quickly as if the amount were in a Government bond, and avoiding the annoying delay of weeks and months, and sometimes years of vexatious litigation, which many have experienced in other cempanies.

5th. The Society has no contested claims on its books.

6th. The popularity of the Society's tontine system of insurance; - which provides full insurance in case of death, and gives the greatest return for the money paid by the policy-holder if he lives, with more advantageous options to meet an insurer's need at the end of the term, than any other form of policy ever devised.

Persons desiring life insurance will consult their own interests by communicating with the officers of the Society or any of its agents.

As fast as visitors arrived they were marshalled four abreast, in a long line, and admitted in small numbers to the bed chamber. The scene was a striking one, and Gambetta himself could have desired no better contradiction of all the stories told of his luxuries and profligate habits than that furnished by his surroundings. We had been told so many times that we had almost begun to believe it, that he held high festival behind the trellises of his portico; that his dining room was the seene of great banquets, and that he held wassail with the other Republican leaders when he should have been at work for the public benefit. But the little modest dining room, with its shabby sideboard, its ordinary table, and its few shaky chairs, the white dimity curtains at the window, the bare floor, and the commenplace cutlery and glass, all showed that Gambetta had thought little of the table, and that he could not, had he wished, have entertained upon a large scale. The little pavillion was, in short, the home of a man entirely devoted to the public interest, and of one who thought but little of himself. There were no objects of art, none of the costly and beautiful bibelots with which a celebrated man usually likes to surround himself. There were only books, a few engravings representing events in Gambetta's career, and a portrait of Victor Hugo with the autograph of the master who had given it "to his dear Gambetta." This humble spectacle caused a stupefaction among the reactionists who had gone out to Ville d'Avray to get maand ridiculed the house as the home of a miser, a bourgeois without taste, &c.
