

SECOND EDITION FRIDAY EVENING FEB. 2, 1883. SOUTH AMERICA.

TERMINATION OF A LONG CONTEST The Equatorian Revolutionists at Last Successful—Another Government Nominated—Restrictions to Be Placed on the Clergy.

PANAMA, Jan. 24.—Advices from Ecuador give particulars of the capture of Esmeraldas, the leading port on the coast, by the revolutionists. The attacking party had 13 killed and 30 wounded and the dictator lost forty killed and an equal number wounded. The defeated government troops have landed at Guayaquil. The people generally are highly elated at the success of the revolution. A government has already been nominated with a supreme director, Antonio Flores, as president. The new dictator will at once expect the Jesuits and establish restrictions upon the clergy. Prior to abandoning Esmeraldas, the dictator's troops plundered the port and set fire to it in three places. An American named Feros, was among the killed. In Guayaquil a panic prevails, and the people are fleeing from the town. It is the last stronghold of the old dictator. He was impressing men, horses and everything available to military service.

AT THE NATIONAL CAPITAL. A Bill of Excitement in the House Caused by a Misunderstanding. WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The House resumed consideration of the tariff bill and the pending amendment offered by Mr. Clegg (D.) to increase the duty on tanning bark from 20 to twenty per cent. After some discussion agreed to by a vote of 98 to 74. This was the first vote on which there was a considerable division on both sides of the House. In the course of discussion on the tariff clause Mr. Miller, of New York, understanding a remark of Mr. Aldrich (R.) to be a personal one, charged him of falsehood and some confusion. He, however, subsequently retracted the remark, stating that it was made under misapprehension. The Senate has also under consideration of the tariff bill. The duty on different kinds of starch was fixed at two to two and one-half cents per pound, and the cotton and cotton goods schedule was then proceeded with.

THE PHILADELPHIA TRAGEDY. An Inquest Held on the Body of the Murdered School Girl. PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 2.—An inquest was held to-day on the body of Maggie Curlett, aged 11 years and 6 months, who was shot and killed on Wednesday evening by Miss Catherine Burston. It showed that Maggie, in company with other little girls, were jumping rope near Miss Burston's window when the latter raised the gun and fired a revolver among the children. The ball entered Maggie Curlett's brain and she died soon afterwards. The woman claims that she thought the weapon was empty and that she pointed it only to frighten the children. The jury found that the child came to her death at the hands of Catherine Burston, and that she was guilty of manslaughter. A bill for the hearing of the district attorney.

ALABAMA'S TREASURER. A Request to be Granted for His Capture. MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 2.—The examination of the book of State Treasurer Vincent shows no change in the statements heretofore published, the deficit being about $223,000. The Governor has sent the statement to the Legislature stating that under the law he is offered a reward of $400 for Vincent's capture and asks that a bill be passed allowing him to offer $5,000 reward. It is thought this will be done.

THE HONGKONG TURN THE TABLES. HONGKONG, Feb. 2.—Forty-seven of the Hongkongers, who were recently arrested for alleged complicity in the railroad war at Hangar, brought suit to-day against Superintendent Fish, of the Lehigh and Lackawanna railroad, who made the complaint against them "Squire Jackson," who has been arrested and confined in jail, who served them. Their charge is false imprisonment, and each claimant claims $5,000 damages.

Weather Forecasts. BOSTON, Feb. 2.—The panic in the wool industry here yesterday was caused by an inquiry of the 23 persons killed were women who were crushed to death in struggling to escape. WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—For the Middle Atlantic States fair weather to-day, followed by cloudy threatening weather, and occasional snow; on Saturday followed by easterly winds, or slight rise in temperature. NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS. Events Across the County Line. Postmaster Nebinger, of Steelton, has secured a postponement of his case for ten days. The ice in the Schuylkill river at Pottsville began moving yesterday. A large ice jam was formed at Hanover street bridge.

Reading last week there were 13 deaths and several ministers have been proscribed by the board of health for not reporting marriages, the fine being less than $5 nor more than $20 for each offence. Frank Shaffer and Joseph Weirich, of Harrisburg, aged 13 years each, started up a locomotive in that city, and succeeded in running into another locomotive, doing considerable damage. They are now in jail.

The employees of the machine shop at the Scott foundry, Reading, have been notified of a reduction of 10 per cent. The laborers have also been reduced in the rolling mill of the Reading iron works, as have also those of the Keystone iron works. The Young Men's Republican club of West Chester, the largest political organization in Chester county, will have a formal opening of its rooms on Saturday evening. Mariott Bros. of Lancaster, will deliver an address on the political needs and necessities of the hour. Other speakers will be present.

At Phoenixville, Constantine Kremer, land tender for Fred, W. Bechtel, was killed by his room mate, E. W. Moringstatter, an old gardener, on Tuesday. The latter drank heavily, and always had considerable cash on his person. After they had retired for the night, Kremer, it is said, undertook to put Moringstatter to bed, who so strongly that Kremer took a knife and stabbed him about the head. Moringstatter is in a bad condition, but will recover. Kremer was captured and sent to jail. The state armament of the Grand Army of the Republic in Wilkeshare elected General E. S. O. Borne, of that city, commander. The other officers elected are: Senior Vice Commander, A. J. Sellers, of Philadelphia; Junior Vice Commander, Geo. F. Handolph, of Johnstown; Chairman, John W. Sayre, of Franklin; Council of Administration, E. G. Sellers, J. H. Miesner, A. H. Shaeffer and L. W. Shengle, of Philadelphia, and F. W. Hunter, of Pittsburgh.

Robbing a Salade's Grave. Considerable excitement prevails in the vicinity of Remhold's station, on the Reading & Columbia railroad, owing to a case of body snatching. Jacob Garner, a young farmer, committed suicide recently by hanging himself, and his remains were interred at the Muddy Creek church, near Adamstown. Several nights afterwards a light was observed in the graveyard, and the friends of the family becoming suspicious that body snatchers were about the grave, subsequently opened the same, to their horror, it was discovered that the coffin contained nothing but the shroud in which the man was buried. It is supposed that the body was stolen to be sent to some medical institution. An investigation is now in progress. It is feared that more graves have been robbed.
