A WORD TO MY FRIENDS AND PATRONS

J. K. SSI ALING'S CARD.

Since our great reduction in the prices of our heavy weight goods we have closed out some of our best styles. We have left a few very choice patterns of overcoating, to which we direct especial attention. We are selling daily to persons who never pattonized us before; an evidence of our sincerity. Many no doubt called to see whether we are in earnest and mean what we say, or whether it is all humbuck. All who thus far called on us are and mean what we say, or whether it is an huminick. All who thus far called on us are convinced we mean business and are determined to sell off our heavy weights at any sacrifice to make room for our new soring stock. Last week a friend of mine called to pay me a friendly visit. He remarked he read my card in our daily papers and concluded to take a look through the stock to see whether he could find anything to please him for a suit. It didn't take him long to decide. After offering hum a fine French Casimere suit worth $45. ing hum a fine French Casimere suit worth #4 ing him a line French Casherle state works.

IRELAND'S TROUBLE.

SUPPOSED PHŒNIX PARK MURDEREKS Eight Men Charged With the Murders o Lord Cavendish and Mr. Burke-Thrilling Scene and Interesting Testimony in Court. Dublin, Feb. 3.-12 o'clock M.-T. C. Carr, of the corporation, Joseph Brady, a stone cutter, Edward O'Brien, a shoemaker, Edward McCaffery, a car driver Peter Carey, a mason, Lawrence Hanlon, a carpenter, Peter Doyle, a coach builder, eight of the men recently arrested here, were charged, at the investigation to-day with the murder of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Mr. Burke in Phonix Park. A witness named Fitz Simmon, identified Councillor Carey as being connected with the conspiracy. Mr. Fitz Simmons deposed that he rented a room in South Cumberland street from James Carey. He discovered in the left of the house two knives and a rifle which were produced soon after Carey's arrest.

1 P. M.-Great excitement was visible among the occupants of the densely crowded court room when the eight prisopers were placed in the dock. There was a painful pause when the witness. Fitz Simmons, was called. The prisoners in the meantime shook hands with each other and joked among them-selves and nodded to their friends. The clerk of the court read the charge against the prisoners "that they did, on the sixth of May last, feloniously kill and slay Lord Frederick Cavendish and Thomas Henry Burke, Te reading of the charge was greeted by the prisoners with a burst of loud laughter, which created a painful scene in the court. Mr. Fitz Simmon continued his testimony as follows: The ritle and the two knives were found among a lot of rubbish; they were not much concealed. A fortnight afterwards he went to the police and delivered the knives and rifle. Amid intense excitement Inspector Smith produced two long bladed dissecting knives evidently as sharp as razors, and a Snider rifle, which is quite new. The knives were eagerly examined by the magistrates. While this was proceeding there was just a shade of uneasiness visible among the prisoners. A chairmaker, named Hands, identified O'Brien as one of the four men lying near to the scene of the murder, and Brady as being close by shortly before it was perpetrated.
