THE PROFITS OF ONION CULTURE. Timely Sints for Husbandmen-Where

Plant Orchards-The State Agricultural Society. Germantown Telegraph.

Prize Essay on Onion Culture. Some months ago we printed an announcement that the Messrs. Landreth offered prizes for essays on onion culture. In response, nine essays were presented, two of which came too late to be fucluded in the prize list. These essays were very complete, in fact, would seem to exhaust the subject, and are full of interest to all who are either cultivators of this esculent or propose to become so. They have been prepared by the following growers : Gerrit Donaldson, of Pleasant Valley, Iowa; W H. Bull, Springfield, Mass., (a correspondent of the Telegraph); George L. Trail, Lexington, Mo.; W. H. White, Westborough, Mass.; W. II. Holmes, Davenport, Iowa; David H. Sherwood, Southport, Comp. Lev. B. D. C. Southport, Conu.; Jos. B. Pate, Cataula, Ga.; J. E. Rue, jr, Littleton, N. C.; J. C. Walsh, Kaysville, Utah. The information is full and complete, from the laying out of the ground to the harvesting and marketing of the crop. The idea used to prevail that onions could not be profitably raised outside of New England, but in Mr. Donaldson's paper he states that in 1881 no less than 300,000 bushels were shipped from Davenport, Iowa, alone! He also says that he has planted land i onions for twenty successive years, and have a most useful effect in promoting the last crop was as productive and fine as the first. One of the most successful cultivators has raised an average of 366 bushels per acre on ten acres. In 1881 he cul- and a common interest. tivated in onions thirteen acres, which produced only 180 bushels per acre, the net profit was $1,433. In ten years he planted in the aggregate 75 acres of land shows 284 bushels, and the average price 47 cents per bushel. On a quarter of an acre Mr. Buil exexpense of producing which was $86, and the sales realized $120, at an average of 80 cepts per bushel, leaving a profit of per bushel.

Mr. Trail states that one year he had a yield of seven hundred bushels per acre, the organization to so successful an issue, but that his average was from four to five hundred bushels. A four hundred bushel acre he sold at 75 cents per bushel, which after deducting the expenses, yielding a Mr. White says that be obtained from 200 to 600 bushels per acre, according to received 624 cents per bushel, and that after deducting the cost he had a profit of Mr. Holmes gives the estimated cost of cultivating an acre at $166 45. The yield Mr. Holmes gives the estimated cost of cultivating an acre at $166.45. The yield of an acre of his own raising was 420 bushels, which being sold at $1 per bushel.

Farmers wishing to be successful with sheep should guard them against exposure. But it is sheltering his sheep the farmer exposes himself and categos cold, he must use Dr. Bull's fough Syrup. bushels, which being sold at $1 per bushel gave a profit of about $253. The cost of raising per bushel with him was 39 cents. Mr. Pate sets down the yield of an acre at from 250 to 300 bushels, and the total expense of cultivating at from $80 to $100; the ordinary price in Georgia $1.50 per bushel, and the profit about $200 an acre. From the foregoing it will be seen how variable in results the raising of onions with these cultivators has been; still, taking the chances as we must do in all farming operations, this branch is fully as profitable as most others; and, as Mr. Pate says, if followed as he has described it will "place success beyond contin-cents, we think it would be worth many dollars to all in the business of oniongrowing or contemplating it. The State Horticultural Society. At the recent annual meeting of the Pennsylvania state Horticultural society at Harrisburg, the chairman of the gen eral fruit committee, Mr. Edwin Satterthwaite, read an interesting report on the fruit crop of this state, of which the tolgency." As the pamphlet costs only 25

lowing is a synopsis:

Notwithstanding that there was an abundance of blossoms last year, the yie'd of apples was unusually small. The foliage of the trees presented an unhealthy appearance, and with the exception of the Cider and Ridge Pippin varieties, the fruit generally failed to mature. Reports from different portions of the state say that pears were almost as general a failure as apples, although the crop of Mr. Satterth—the state of the state of wait, comprising many varieties, was exceptionally prolific. Mr. S. says he loses thousands of bushels of Bartletts and other pears annually by rot caused by punctures made by bees, and the loss thus occasioned him he considers greater than the value of all the bees in his county. Last year's peach crop was very variable; in some instances a total failure is recorded, in others there was a bountiful yield. The "yellows" still effect many orchards and greatly reduce the crop. The cherry and plum crops were generally re-ported poor. They did not suffer as much from the curiculio as from the rot. Quinces of late years have done better, being less injured by worms than formerly. fruits produced an average yield. Small rants and gooseberries were much injured by the currant worm. The use of hellebore on the first appearance of the insect, by dusting over the bushes is pronounced an effective remedy. Grapes generally yielded well. In regard to the Kieffer pear Mr. S. says that he had last year over one bushels from trees only two and three years grafted. Saplings only one and a half inches in diameter, grafted over two years, produced over a bushel each of perfect fruit. He considers it the most valuable pear he has ever grown. Certain destructive insects are reported to be on the increase, while others, the curculio for instance, is less numerous than formerly. The tent caterpillar is apparently more numerous, and another variety which makes no web but gathers in clusters on the branches of apple and quince trees, did considerable damage last year. Removal by hand seems to be the most effective means of destroying pests of this kind. The potato beetle and pear slug have almost entirely disappeared. The codling moth is about as numerous and destructive as ever. The injury in flicted by bees is very serious in certain localities, and the only means of reducing their depredations is the troublesome remedy of suspending by tiles of sweetened water to the branches of the trees.

##Our Goods must prove satisfactory of will be exchanged. Apple-Orchards-Where to Plant one. There has been considerable discussion of late as to the best site for setting out an apple orchard-and we may add a peach orchard, also. From our own knowledge of this subject, and from what we have learned from others, and what we have seen in passing through regions where the apple was a crop of much importance, we should undoubtedly select a northern exposure. Leading apple growers, we are assured, agree in this. We do not say that apples will not do well in valleys or southern exposures, but not uniformly so well by any means. Any one who does not know and is desirous to be informed, should understand that uniformity of temperature and retardation in budding, are almost everything in preserving the health and promoting the productiveness of DARGAINS IN WATCHES, CLOCKS well by any means. Any one who does not know and is desirous to be informed, should understand that uniformity of tem perature and retardation in budding, are almost everything in preserving the health and promoting the productiveness of almost any fruit tree. An orchard planted -say in this latitude-on a hillside with a fult northern exposure, always stands the winter and is almost unfailingly productive.

While, on the other hand, that with a southern exposure, planted in valleys or protected by belts of trees, is liable to constant changes of temperature; but early, and are subject to the visitation of late frosts, which generally prevail only in low situations, and to the consequent de structions of the crop. It may be just as well for those who may contemplate the setting out of an orchard the coming spring to bear this in mind. All of us de sire to know the surest way to success in the culcivation of any crop, and this is unquestionably the surest way in apple growing, and in peach growing too. The New Press Club. Philadelphia Evening News. The opening of the club house of the new press club in this city, on Saturday was an interesting and noteworthy event n the history of Philadelphia journalism. It'was honored by the presence of a large company of well-known citizens, who expressed their unbounded gratification at the success of the undertaking. The projectors of the organization had many vexatious discouragements and obstacles to overcome, but the result of their labors has far surpassed the most confident ex-pectations of their friends. We doubt whether any other association of newspaper men has ever been introduced into a more cheerful, comfortable and elegantlyappointed establishment. It cannot but

The new club has been ushered into existence without a single dollar of debt to total expense of which was $1,030, yet the burden it. This "pay as you go " principle, which generally is so sadly neglected in the initial movements of such enter in onions, and the net profit was $3,839 or prises, is the most gratifying feature of 861 per acre. The average yield per acre the organization, and is at the same time the most favorable augury of its continued prosperity. There is, however one debt which the members of the new hibits a yield of 150 bushels, the entire club do owe, and that is the debt of the warmest and most grateful acknowledg ment of the untiring zeal and industry o its president. That gentleman, Mr. Henry $33.38. The cost of raising was 58 cents F. Keenan, of the Press, has labored night and day with the most invincible force and faith and enthusiasm in conducting and his brethren in the guild cannot but feel proud of what he has done for them.
