A BOLD TRIEF. anger Hobbed et a Value Containing

nia Ledger. Early last evening complaint was made y a stranger at the Twentieth district lation house, Filbert street, above Fif-cents, that he had been robbed at the good street station of a value containing 77,000 in gold. The man, who was par-tally intoxicated, told the following story: He mid that he had arrived from Canada, New York and Jersey City, in the next train for Smyrna, Delaware, g that he was a couple of hours head of time, he took a walk around the neighborhood of the station, stor-the at a saloon for refreshments. his walk he had his valise with him. Returning to the depot he took a seat, and, while there, was a socted by a man sitting near him, who maked which way he was going. Being told, the man said he was also going in the same direction, and the two became so friendly that the new found acquaintce saked the owner of the valise to join him in some refreshments in the restau rant. The latter was not unwilling, but ssed some anxiety as to the safety of his value, which was lying on a seat te-tween the two. The former then called to a young man who made his appearance near them, to "keep an eye on the valise until their return," which the young man promised to do. The two men then entered the restaurant, and while the valise owner was taking a drink the other man slipped out, and with him disappeared the young man who was no doubt an accomplice, and the value. They left behind them a couple of paper packages, one containing a pair of old rubbers shoes and the other articles of equally trifling value. The loser of the money said that he had been engaged in speculations in different parts of the country, and was returning home with the fruits, baving three weeks ago exchanged Canadian paper money for gold, under belief that the latter commanded the premium here. He said the valise which was of red leather, also contained a gold watch and clothing, marked "J. W." Information of the robbery was immediately telegraphed to New York, it being supposed that the thieves left for that city on the 5 p. m. train, half an hour before the robpery was reported to the police authori ties. The stranger, from whom the details could only be extracted with difficulty, took up his quarters last night at a lodging house in the neighborhood of the station
