AN OLD MAN'S SUICIDE UN A TRAIN. Story of the Floods-The Startling Crimical Record of the End of the Last Week. The attention of the passengers on the West Jersey train due at Camdem at half past 4 o'olock Saturday was attracted to an old man who seemed fall of trouble.

He had been pacing to and fro the length of the car for some time, his face pale and his eyes gleaming with the light of a des-perate resolve, when he suddenly entered a compartment. This was near Wood bury. Although it was noticed by some that he did not come out again nothing serious was suspected. After the train had pulled into Camden station and the car cleaners were about to commence work the door of the compartment hap-pened to be opened. Then the reason for his prolonged stay was developed. There in a semi-recumbent attitude lay his almost lifeless body. His throat was cut from ear to ear, and from the terrible gash flowed a stream of blood that had completely saturated his clothes and formed a pool upon the floor. Still sticking under his right ear was the weapon of self destruc tion. It was a small penknife, having a broken blade but little over an inch in length. He had apparently, while stand-ing, thrown back his head and with one stroke struck himself first under the left car and then fairly tore his throat open all the way round until the right jugular vein was also severed, when his fingers released their grasp upon the knife and he fell senscless upon the floor into the position in which he was found. Although still alive when first discovered, his heart ceased to pulsate before any assistance could be rendered. The police and the coroner were notified and the body was removed to an undertaking establishment on Taylor avenue. Papers found upon his person showed that the suicide was Charles W. Green, 4521 Mitchell street, Roxborough, and a member of I. O. O. F. lodge No. 56. In appearance Mr. Green was about sixty-five years old. Information concerning what had led him to do the deed was very meagre. One person who had a slight acquaintance with him ad-vanced the opinion that the suicide was the result of despondency over an unsuc-cessful business transaction in which he had recently been engaged in the neigh-borhood of Atlanta city.

A TRAGEDY OF THE FLOUD.

A Touching Story of the Beath of W. H. Burdics, of Cincianati.

The laborious search for the human bodies buried in the debris of the Southern railway depot at Cincinnati, which was wrecked and buried in twenty feet of water and mud during the great flood, was rewarded by the finding of the body of W. H. Burdick. The wreck occurred so unexpectedly that nothing definite was known as to how many were drowned or who they were. Burdick had into the vault alive. She is supposed to that morning accompanied his young wife to the Lebanon depot to see her off for a being made to find her. She is described Has been proved the surest cure for visit to friends. She alighted on her feet, but immediately staggared to the ground, and a faint stream of blood poured from her nostrils, tinging the melting snow upon 'the stone pavement of the prison yard into which she fell. The war-den of the prison immediately brought her into the office. She moaned faintly and in a faw minutes her under inw dropped. She a few minutes her under jaw dropped. She was dead. It was learned that she was arrested the previous evening at the re-quest of a well-to-do sister, who made a complaint that she was a vagrant and a lunatic, and that she was afraid of her.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Two Little Children Perish in a Confiagra-tion-The Mother's Grief.

At Pittsburgh, Saturday morning, fire was discovered in a row of frame houses in the Twenty-third ward, one of which were occupied by a laborer named John Crawford. When the fire broke out Mrs. Crawford and two children, a boy and girl, aged respectively three and five years, were in the house, the mother in the kitchen and the children in a room upstairs. Mrs Crawford managed to escape, but although several attempts were made to rescue the children the little ones perished. When their charred remains were found the mother became almost wild with grief, and was with difficulty restrained from taking her own life.

EFFECTS OF THE STORM.

A Schooner Wrecked of Sandy Hook. The two-masted schooner Annie Eloore, 126 tons register, Captain Cordrey, with a cargo of corn, bound from Norfolk a., to New York, struck on the wreck ot the steamer Nankin, off Sandy Hook, N. J., at 3 o'clock Saturday morning. The captain, finding her leaking fast, ran her aground off Port Monmouth, eight and one-half miles west of Sandy Hook. The captain and the crew of four men were saved by taking their yawl and boarding a schooner. Both the vessel and the cargo stores the invalid to health. m9-M, W&F&w will probably prove a total loss. High easterly winds prevailed at the time of the wreck. A Horrible Case of Infantcide in a Chicago Hotel.

In Dubuque, Iowa, a horrible case of nfanticide occurred on Saturday morning. At about 6 o'clock one of the employees of the Jefferson house, while passing near a vault heard the cries of an infant. He gave an alarm, when a search was insti-tuted, and a child was found lying at the bottom of the vault. As soon as possible the body was raised, but life was found to be extinct. Friday night a strange woman arrived at the Jefferson house and engaged a room. Next morning at an early hour she asked for the key to the ladies' retiring room, and shortly after the discovery was made. On going to her room it was found to be vacant, and but little doubt exists that the inhuman mother on the birth of her child threw it

DRAR SIR,-Feeling deeply grateful for the great benefits which I have received from the use of a very valuable article which has its origin and home in our beautiful city, and hoping that others who are afflicted as I have an may find like relief from its use, I beg the indulgence of a few lines in your valuable paper for the privilege of communicating to you a brief statement of facts, for the benefit of the multitude of sufferers to be met with on every side. Many of my friends well know that I have been very severely afflicted with heart disease for a number of years, and have suffered from it as only those can suffer who have that disease; it reduced my strength so low that I could scarcely walk across my room, and the least exertion rendered me so short-breathed that I dared scarcely move, and life seemed very burdensome. I was treated for my malady by the best physicians, and derived no benefit from their treatment or prescrip until I was advised by my family physician to use Hunt's Remedy, as my trouble was caused by inaction of my kidneys, which affected very seriously the action of my heart. I com-menced taking it (having little faith in it or any other medicine), and it has helped me wonderfully, and I am now a great deal better, and have been ever since I began its use In fact I have taken no medicine that has benfited me so greatly. My breathing is easy, and I have gained in strength so much that I am able to do my housework. I cheerfully recommend Hunt's Remedy to all who may be afflicted as I have been, or who are suffering from general debility and nervous prostra-
