THE WEXFORD

In the name of MESSRS. F. M. WALTON & CO.'s latest production in STYLISH NECKWEAR for GENTLEMEN. This NEAT and GRACEFUL PUFF SCARF after a sharp contest for supremacy has been successful in gaining the preference over the Flat Scarf. Therefore, all manufacturers of Fine Neckwear have devoted their energies in the hope of producing the most acceptable shape.

In HALF-HOSE it is almost impossible to form an idea what is to be the style. The variety is bewildering. The prominent colors seem to be CANARY, PEARL and FLESH in choice goods.

SOME SPECIMENS OF THEIR SPLENDOR.

The Last New Dining Room—Unsurpassed Magnificence in the House of Cornelia Vanderbilt.

The dining room of the new house of Cornelia Vanderbilt will be a marvel of art and handiwork. A correspondent writing of it says: "We must enter the front door and cross the hall before looking at the dining room, and there the best of the effects of color and light to the sense of sight will make us linger a moment. The door which has closed behind us is a glory of glass jewels, studded together with the network of lead which holds them, forming in arabesque pattern, one of Lafarge's triumphs in stained glass. On the right is a small reception room, the woodwork of unpolished ebony, pannelled eight feet with a mosaic frieze above. A small window in this room cuts a fabulous sun, though it measures only nine inches by twelve.

We ascend three caken steps in the hall and find ourselves in the main hall. Opposite the right is a small reception room, the woodwork of unpolished ebony, pannelled eight feet with a mosaic frieze above.
