SOCIAL SIGNS.

SOME OF THE WORLD'S AMENITIES. The Ex-Vice President and His Bride Cordially Received in Atlanta-A Love of an Easter Bonnet.

Atlanta Dispatch to the Press. The route of Judge Davis and his bride from Augusta to Atlanta was a perfect ovation. At Madison, Covington and other towns large crowds of people pressed into the car and shook hands. Mrs. Davis was the recipient of numberless bouquets from ladies who were among those who called in at the various stations along the line. Arriving at Atlanta, Mr. and Mrs. Davis were met by Senator Brown, Major Mills and other prominent citizens and escorted to the Kimball house, where an elegant suite of rooms had been prepared for them. The squares in the vicinity of the hotel were thronged with people eager to catch a glimpse of the bride and groom. In the afternoon the party went out riding with Senator Brown, visiting the spot where McPherson fell and the old lines of the fortification. Judge Davis inquires especially for the houses which were occupied by General Sherman during his stay in the city in 1864. At six o'cleck the party returned to the hotel and dined. Until half past 8 o'clock a perfect stream of people poured through the corridors and parlors of the house. Mr. Davis was very communica tive. To a lady who conversed with Mrs. Davis the bride explained the postpone ment of her marriage in the following manner: Mr. Arthur is a widower, and Judge Davis was vice president. If he had married while in office, his wife would have been the first lady in the land, and to this position Miss Burr positively objected. Thus the nuptials did not take place until Davis was out of office. Judge Davis is highly gratified with his reception in the South. Major Mills will give a diener to the couple tomorrow afternoon, to which a large num-ber of gentlemen and ladies have been in-

Fashions and Flowers. All wild flowers bid fair to be vastly popular, so much so, in fact, that Philadelphia's most enterprising florists have begun to cultivate our old favorites of the tield and woodland; and, out of sympathy with the growing taste, a Philadelphia artist has designed a "wildwood bonnet," one of the airiest, most poetical creations of modern millinery. The foundation of the bonnet is a tender, suggestive greena shade "too delicate to be enlarged upon," as Charles Dudley Warner puts it The lining is of shirred Surah silk, finished with plaitings of lace. The brim of the bounet is cut out so as to represent the petals of a flower, and the whole frame suggests some pretty nameless blossom. The garniture one side of flowers-a concealing a tiny nest of bird's eggs. The beautiful humming-birds, whose lustrous plamage enriches the whole effect. This never developed. But we are told that millinery has begun to claim kinship with the fine arts. The "artists" in bats and bonnets have a technique of their own. Like the best designers in ceramles and mural decorations, they take their ideas from nature, and many a misty, mysterious structure that covers the empty little head of a modern Psyche is a real flower study, if it isn't something like a symphony in grey or fugal in dregs-of wine. A few years ago only those wonderful and my thical modistes who dwell in the American heaven (which is Paris, of course) ever presumed to advocate high art in bonnets. But now there are disciples of the new system everywhyre.

$500,000 WORTH OF CHICKENS.

A Half Bushel of Money Paid for a Half Eushel of Hens. Army and Navy Journal Governor Eli Murray, of Utah, tells this excellent story : I never shall forget the amount of money it cost us to keep an old woman from crying herself to death. Of course we were obliged to subsist off the country as we went along, and we naturally took about the best in sight. One day we took possession of a chicken ranch kept by an old lady, who stood at the gate with a broom and threatened to lick all ot Sherman's forces it they did not move on. Now chickens were considered officers' meat, and as we were infernally hungry we went for those hens pretty lively. When she saw that her favorite fowls were being caught and killed she and they might suppose somebody was torturing the woman. Finally Sherman rode up and asked what it was all about. When we told him he said : "Give her a bushel of Confederate bonds for her hens HE and see if that won't stop her." Acting on this hint, I proceeded to business. We had captured a Confederate train the day before with $4,000,000 of Confederate money and I hunted up the train at once. The money was worth about two cents on the dollar. Well, I stuffed about half a million dollars into an old carpetsack and marched into the house.

"Madam," said I, opening the sack, I'll give you $500,000 to quit this It was as still as death in a min. ute and then her face expanded in a broad smile. I laid the package of notes on the table, and I never saw so delighted

About 8 o'clock Saturday night two gentlemen, accompanied by two welldressed ladies, took seats at a table in an up-town restaurant. After looking over the bill of fare and giving their orders the party began talking gayly, although in a low tone, and were evidently enjoying themselves very much. One gentleman, however, was extremely nervous, and kept constantly watching the door. The dinner was just served as a richly attired lady made her appearance in the restaurant, Hastily glancing around she saw the social four, and swiftly crossing the room coufronted the nervous man: He was speechmar 23-1wdeod&w less with affright, and she opened the attack; "So you're here, are you? Philadelphia Times. Now if the American people want to do honor to a song writer who really deserved honor, let them erect a monument to Stephen C. Foster, the one really original and inspired musical composer that America has produced. Payne's song never would have been remembered but for the music Bishop set to it, but Foster was a true singer, composing both the words and the music of his songs with a real feeling, a sweetness, grace and tenderness peculiarly his own that raise the best of them to the highest rank of popular ballads. Think of "Old Folks at Home," the "Old Kentucky Home," or 'Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground : hese are not a mere rehash of what has been done before, but a genuine creation that has been initiated and copied but that will not be superceded. And those are only a few out of a hundred songs, ranging from "Uncle Ned" and "Susannah" and "Camptown Races" to "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" or "Old Dog Tray," that have been the delight of millions all over the world and that are a part of our possession as a people. Their range is not the highest, but within that range they are complete, and all the music thus far produced in America-operas, cantatas and all the rest-will not weigh, in genuine artistic achievement, against one of Stephen C. Foster's songs.

Three weeks ago Enoch and Edward Noble, father and son respectively, were tried for the murder of Jonathan Wolgamot, near Glasford, Ill., in September. The trial resulted in the acquittal of the accused. Much surprise and indignation were felt at the verdict, and an indignation meeting was held at Glasford, at which resolutions denouncing the jury were passed and the defendants were hanged in offigy. Threats were freely made that if the Nobles returned to Glasford they would be lynched. The Nobles, after their release, rented a farm in Tazewell county. Friday Ed. Noble, accompanied by a younger brother returned to their former home after some cattle, which they gathered up and started for Tazewell county. After they had proceeded about five miles along the public highway a shot was fired from ambush, and Ed. Noble feil from his horse dead. The assassin escaped, and has not been captured. Howard's Leiter to Philadelphia Times From the hour William H. Vanderbilt paid a society reporter $150 to describe his daughter's dress down to this hour, when all noodledum is cracked because one of Vanderbilt's son's wives is to give a ball, that family has been conspicuous in shod hawthorn and crab apple blossoms, half dydom. Who tells the reporter that Mrs. Vanderbilt pays her chief cook $7,000 a other side is trimmed with lace and five year? Who told that the wine to be provided at the ball would cost $2,000? Why, obviously, the same cheerful scion of the house of Vanderbilt who wrote out fer match it. A prettier idea for Easter was publication the details of Miss Vanderbilt's wedding trousseau. What would a man ot wealth in Europe think of such insufferable bosh as our men of wealth here pay for? Every item you see in the newspapers about the Vanderbilt ball is paid for with Vanderbilt money.

Our Reporter's Vacation Notes. During his rambles this secson, our Mr. M. has taken upon himself the task of satisfying our numerous readers that whatever goo are manufactured in our goodly city of Roger Williams, are of as high a grade and as fine in quality as can be produced in any spot on the globe. Especially is this so when the skilled Pharmacist of many years experience resolves to extract from the finest botanical specimens of the vegetable world the potent cure for some special disease. In proof of his asset-tion that Providence, B. I., affords the best, he relates an interview with an acquaintance given him while sojourning temporarily at her residence. She says. "About a year l suffered severely from Rheumatism in my limbs, and Nouralgia to the head, which I en dured two or three months with as much paience as possible, being under the treatmen of an excellent doctor, and trying many kinds ot medicine without any marked effect. At last a medical triend advised me to try Hunt's Remedy, because he attributed my severe suf fering to the bad condition of my kidneys, which were not performing their proper functions, and I commenced taking it, and in a new days the new ralgia had departed, my headache had entirely disappeared, the swelling in my limb and joints had gone, and I have not had s touch of it since, More recently I was troubled with impurity of the blood, which showed itself in severe eruptions on my face again resorted to Hunt's Remedy and atte aking it a short time was completely cured of that complaint. Huat's Remedy has proved very beneficial to me in attacks of sick head che, which it always alleviates, and I notice the improvement as soon as I take the Remedy This Remedy has strengthening elements, fo it has made me teel much stronger and has been very beneficial to my general health. I most heartily recommend it to all sufferers like myself. Mrs. L. G. TANNER, No. 135 Pearl
