one exception—one boy being on the sick list. On entering the school department we were very favorably impressed with the educational training being imparted to the children by the efficient teachers in charge. We regard this justitution as one of which Lancaster county may well feel proud and should be visited frequently by our citizens. We next visited the hospital and asylum, in charge of Dr. McCreary, who con-ducted us through the same. We found both buildings in perfect order, everything being neat and clean. Many inquiries among the inmates in the absence of the officer in charge elicited the fact that they are well treated and comfortable. An important feature introduced by the doctor is the changing of the locks of the doors to the different wards, now having one key to unlock all doors in the male department, and another for all the doors in female department, thus being able to open all the doors quickly in case of fire, instead of separate keys to each door as formerly. The number of inmates are as follows : hospital, 44 men, 28 women, 9 children-total, 81; insane department, 44 men, 36 women-total, 80.

We then visited the almshouse, through which we were kindly conducted by Steward John Brock, and found the management beyond criticism.

The late fatal accident at the elevator we find was caused by a defective hemp rope, and therefore we recommend a wire cable instead. At certain stages of the water in the reservoir the fourth-story is without a supply of water. To remedy this we suggest the erection of a tank on the attic, and hose on the fourth floor to be used in case of fire. After examining everything thoroughly on the inside of the building, we visited the stables and found the live stock all in good condition, and the management of the farm fully up to the standard of first class farming. Number of inmates in the institution, 200 men, 62 women and 13 children. Total, 275. Next we visited the county prison, where we were met by Keeper Burkholder, who kindly conducted us through the buildings. We found 119 persons con-fined in this institution. Of these, 58 are convicts, 2 awaiting trial, 41 for drunkenness and disorderly conduct and 18 for hearings. In addition to the above "Bummers Hali" contained 17 persons. The cells instead of having one convict in each, have in many cases two and three occupants, showing the necessity of more room. The walls of the building are in very bad condition and insecure. The drainage we also find to be very defective, and the light and ventilation both poor and insufficient. The department known as "Bummers' Hall" is a disgrace to civilization, and comes far short of its requirements. Taking all these matters into consideration, we deem it a waste of money to repair or improve the present buildings and unanimously recommend the erection of a new prison, on some suitable site on grounds belonging to the

We find in many cases brought before us a multiplication of indictments against the same party involving really the same offense. This practice has become chronic, but it is nevertheless an evil that calls loudly for reform. We condemn it in the strongest terms and call attention of all parties instrumental in maintaining the evil to its speedy abolition.

In submitting our report, we return our thanks to the honorable court, the district attorney and the sheriff for the kind attention given us.

The Fire Bugs Sentenced this Afternoon.

This afternoon court met at two o'clock, when George Brimmer, Alex. Leaman and John Wertz, the men who have been convicted of arson, were brought in for sentence by Judge Patterson. Brimmer was the first called. He was convicted of setting fire to the Ranck barn and plead guilty to firing the one at the almshouse. Before passing sentence the counsel for the commonwealth stated that Brimmer had been of great service to the commonwealth in breaking up this gang of incendiaries, but they had never promised or even intimated to him that they would ask for leniency in his sentence. They, however, would ask the court to take into consideration, in passing sentence, the services rendered by him. Judge Pat terson spoke to the prisoner for some time in regard to the enormity of his crime and of the sorrow he felt at being compelled to pass sentence on one so young. The sentence was then passed as follows: For firing Ranck's barn, $500 fine and an imprisonment of ten years; for setting fire to the poor house barn, $500 fine and six years' im prisonment, making in all sixteen years.

Wertz was the next man called. He had been convicted of setting fire to the Conestoga cork works. His counsel also asked that his sentence be made as light as possible, as there seemed have been considerable doubt in the case. The court thought that he had a fair trial and had been given the benefit of everything; they were also sorry to pass sentence upon him. The court then sentenced him to pay a fine of $500 and undergo an imprisonment of ten year.

The third man called was Alexander Leaman, who plead guilty to setting fire to a tobacco shed of Marks & Zimmerman. in the Seventh ward, this city. Mr. Eshel. man, counsel for the prisoner, then pro ceeded to make a statement for his client : he said that on this night Michael Schaller. the detective, got Leaman very drunk and took him to the shed, which was to be set on fire ; he then found that Leaman was not as drunk as he desired him to be, so he went after more whisky, and gave it to him; he gave Leaman matches and told him to fire the building; Leaman did this and Schaller at once arrested him. Judge Patterson said they had read something in the newspapers about the affair, although he had never heard it in court before. He thinks if the story concerning Schaller's conduct is true it was very bad; he would make the sentence as light as possible and it would date from November, 1882, when the plea was entered. Leaman was then sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

The prisoners were taken back to the dock and were removed to prison soon afterwards. Westz and Brimmer were very cool and did not display much nervousness. Leaman seemed to be affected the most before sentence had been passed. Although Brimmer has admitted that he fired a number of buildings, the two cases on which he was convicted were all that were pressed against him, as the sentence for arson is so severe.

The Lancaster Military Company. A meeting of the proposed military company was held in Excelsior hall last evering, W. W. Franklin, esq., in the chair. The roll now numbers over sixty men, raging in age from 20 to 85, and there are a great many applicants for membership.
It was resolved that hereafter all applieants for membership shall be ballotted for. The company proceeded to elect officers and the following were chosen Captain, B. F. Eshleman; 1st lieut. W. W. Franklin ; 2d lieut. Benjamin McCue. There is no doubt the company will be received by the state authorities and assigned to one of the regiments of the

Mr. Morris failed to appear at the inquest.

The End of a Libel Suit. LEBANON, Pa., April 21 .- After a three days' trial, the jury in the Funck-Derr libel case this morning returned a verdict of not guilty and Funck was ordered to pay the costs. The case grew out of the late contest for the additional judgeship of this district, in which Funck was a candidate. The suit was brought against Derr as editor of a local paper, the Independent.
Judge Albright, of Lehigh county, presided and Daniel Dougherty, of Philadelphia, represented Funck.
