GATHERING ARBUTUS. For the Intelligences. We had found the hiding place

Of the rich arbutus, And the scolding jay anear, Seemed determined to dispute us Every advance step we took In his jealous-guarded nook.

In the sun came hunting, too, Mary, to assist it, Took away the old brown leaves-" See, the sun has kissed it!

How much brighter it has grown !" Said she in her sweet, arch tone. And she didn't fry to shrink My strong arm's enfolding, smiling brighter when I kissed,

And the jay kept scolding, As I laughing said, " A kiss Comes to beauty ne'er amiss." - Will F. McSparran.

COAL REPORT.

The Bituminous Coal Fields of Pennsyl-

The reports of the mine inspectors of the bituminous coal fields of Pennsylvania, now in the hards of the printer, contain a large amount of interesting information. The coal field is divided into four districts -the first being that part of Allegheny county lying south of the Ohio and Mo nongahela rivers, together with the coun ties of Bedford, Fayette, Greene, Somerset and Washington. During 1882 there was mined in this district from 121 mines 6,554,080 tons of coal. There are 189 mines, and the estimated production for the whole district is 10,237,458 tons. Tie estimated total number of persons employed inside and outside the mines is 15,675. The number of lives lest during the year was 31.

The second district comprises that por tion of Allegheny, county, north of the Ohio and Monongabela rivers, and the counties of Armstrong, Beaver, Butler, Indiana and Westmoreland. In this dis trict there are 130 mines, employing 13,650 persons. The number of tons of coal mined during the year was 7,307,580; the average output per mine being 69,596 tons, showing an increase over 1881 of 824,380 tons. There were 34 fatal accidents during the year, of these 16 were caused by the fall of slate and roof; three by falls of coal; one by explosion of gas; ten by cars and machinery, and four by miscellaneous

The third district includes the counties of Cameron, Clariou, Clearfield, Craw. ford, Elk, Eric, Forest, Jefferson, Lawrence, McKeau, Mercer, Venango and Warren. The report from this district is from 80 mines, and the amount of coal mined during 1882 was 3,679,246 tons; 6,646 persons and 533 mules and horses employed. The average price paid for mining a ton of coal was 61 cents There are also 247 coke ovens in this district. There were 61 accidents, the fatal enes numbering 17. Six mines were exhausted during the year.

The fourth district, which takes in Blair, Bradford, Cambria, Centre, Clinton, Huntingdon, Lycoming, Potter, Sullivan and Tioga, reports that there are 90 mines employing 7,157 persons, and the fatal accidents during the past year only numbered 12, and none fatal 32.
