 Returning to China.

Rev. Charles Leaman, accompanied by his wife and two children, left Lancaster to return to China, via San Francisco, to resume his labors as a missionary to China. Rev. Leaman is a native of this county, a brother of Wm. Leaman, esq , of this city, and went to China as a missionary in 1874. A year ago he came home via the Red Sea, Suez Canal and Mediterranean, to visit America. Since his arrival he has been spending the most of his time with friends and relatives in this county. He is an earnest and able minister, about 38 years of age, and returns to his field of labor in recuperated health. His many friends in Lancaster county wish him and his family a safe voyage to the land of the Celestials.

AN ARCIENT STEED.

The Creature Which Was Fixed Up and Philadelphia Times. Edward Partridge who has a restaurant at 15 North Eighth street, wanted to buy a horse. He saw the advertisement on April 17, of an animal which was offered for sale for $500, at a private stable at 531 China want of mony. Not at all. In fact, McKnight seemed cast down by the want of mony. Not at all. In lact, McKnight seemed cast down by the throught of parting with the steed, which he represented to be only seven years old. Mr. Partridge who confessed himself no judge of horseflesh, bought the beast for $350 and received a written guarantee from McKnight that he would refund the money if the horse proved unsatisfactory. Mr. Partridge's first discovery was that the animal could not eat. He sent him to the animal could not eat. He sent him to John Larzalere, at Broad and Wood streets, with orders to sell him at any price. A visitor examined the horse and roared with laughter.

"What! that there hoss seven years old!" he shouted. "Why, he's just twenty seven." He explained that it had been owned by Charles Smith, near Haddonfield, N J., for twenty years and he had sent it to the bazaar, where it was sold on Saturday, April 14, for $68. It the Nationalist party, named Murphy, has been remanded for trial for refusing to hoof, and was sold again on hoof, and was sold again on the next Monday for $70. It was discovered that McKnight was the purchaser, and, after having the horse clipped and dosed up with medicine to make him spirited, he sold him the the next day to Mr. Partridge. Mr. Lar-zelere obtained $61 for the deceptive steed. Mr. Partridge got a warrant yesterday from Magistrate Lardner, and Detectives Kingston and Whiteman arrested Mc-Knight and his hostler, Philip Connelly. Mr. Partridge testified how he had been "bitten" in the transaction.
Mr. Larzalero provoked a laugh by the declaration of the great age of the horse, and Detective Kingston said he had evidence that McKnight had swindled others and was fresh from New York and Boston, McKnight's accoun plice had fled. The prisoner offered to refund Mr. Partridge's $350 to have the suit withdrawn, but was put under $1,000 bail for a further hearing. Councily was
