

Lancaster Intelligencer.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 4, 1883.

Vanderbilt's Roads.

The report is that the Vanderbilt family have unloaded the main part of their holding or New York Central railroad stock, which was their inheritance from the commodore, who watered the stock up to a point which makes the corporation too unwieldy to conduct with the young and lightly equipped rival roads that are projected and in course of construction.

Leader to the development of the independent newspaper.

The Erie Evening Herald vindicates Eider Weishaupt from the misapprehension that he went to hear Beecher lecture, when, as he writes to it, he would not go within half a mile of the sinful audience gathered to listen to this "erratic and bad man."
