the congregation, besides some of the local clergy of Reformed and other denominations. Rev. Dr. Nevin occupied the pulpit with Dr. Briggs, the preacher of the evening, and Rev. Dr. Gerhart and Rev. J. A. Peters, the pastor of the church, had seats in the chancel and conthe advertisement ; but Capt. Boynton toki the other day the whole story. He is considerable of a wit, and the rich humon ducted the preliminary services. After they had concluded, Dr. Nevin introduced Rev. Dr. Briggs, who is a middle aged man, and as incumbent of the chair of Hebrew and Old Testament criticism in the Union theological seminary of the Presbyterian church, in New York city, has attained high rank as a progressive thinker and vigorous reviewer and critic, The Sermen.

He announced as his theme, "The Scriptures as a means of grace," and pointed out that the essential principle of the Calvanistic Reformation was redemption by divine grace alone. This had sometimes been hardened into an emphasis of the divine sovereignty and sometimes softened by undue stress upon the Fatherhood of of him we put on a fine linen cover

God, but the essential principal always very strong, not sewed, but pasted was rejection of human institutions as a and when this was done we had a means of redemption and that there was no inherent efficacy to salvation in human nature. Between the Calvinistic principle of grace alone and the Lutheran principle of faith alone was the principle of the English reformation, the Divine Word alone as a means of grace. The shadow of the Smithsonian institute, and different churches of the reformation had emphasized all three of these against the heresies of Rome, but had differed in the relative rank assigned to each

By the Word as a means of grace was not to be understood the Scriptures themwent down to the newspaper offices and selves, but the gospel in them, at declared to the first parents in Paradise, to the pa rule to get very much offended. Not triarchs, in the Law and finally in Christ himself. It is faith that determines what is scripture and what does not teach Christ is not apostolic. It was the merit of the British reformation and the Puritan faith that they laid so much stress on the scriptures, and the characteristic of mod ern theology is the exaltation of Christ, as revealed in the Word, as the centre of the science. The Holy Ghost works grace in our hearts by the teaching of the Holy gospel. This gospel is represented to us as a sword, a lamp, and as seed, J. H. ZEILIN & CO. which typily a divine power, inspiration-a power working redemption. The Scriptures are not only a history of Israel, but of redemption ; uct only a collection of biographies, but the lives, and struggles and triumphs of redeemed men; not only a repository of sublime poetry, but of the songs of the redeemed; not only a collection of moral precepts, but the rules of those who were wise in the fear of the Lord ; its allegories are the gospel of the risen Redeemer ; its essays and epistles are not to enlighten us in philosophy and commerce, but to show the way of life. They are to be effectual to salvation by the reading and preaching of the Word which have power to subdue and to strengthen sinners. By this means they become a dynamic force and attended with diligence, preparation and prayer, laid up and practiced, they have saving efficacy. The attention given to the scriptures must be prayerful and the student who would realize on him." " make them a means of grace must be bathed in prayer. The first means of ap. proach to them is textual criticism. The minister must know the text in the original and be able to expound the Word so as to relieve the mind of doubts, but a thorough knowledge of this branch would leave the student far off from the true end of the Scriptures. He would be as one who entering the King's garden would stop with the contemplation of its gates and walls. The higher form is literary criticism, but he who would stop with an appreciation simply of the peotry and prose, the history and story, the prophecy and parable of the Scriptures would be as one in the King's garden who looked only at the beauty of the trees and flowers and went not into the King's presence. Exigesis relates to the true meaning of the Scriptures and runs to absorption in details, scholarly accuracy, scientific examination and classification. Biblical history is full of importance and interest, but to stop with it would be . as one who examines the portraits and arch ives in the King's palace. Biblical theol-ogy relates to morals and has high importance, but to go no further would be as one who inquires of the principles and maxims which mark the administration of the King's household. All of these have
