Thursday's Dispatch to the Times.

Dukes' body was laid dut last night in the parlor of the Jemings house, at Uniontown, and James L. Feather, who was one of the principal withesses in the case against Dukes, and W. Elliott, the clerk at the Jennings house, at Uniontown, and James L. Feather, who was one of the principal withesses in the case against Dukes, and W. Elliott, the clerk at the Jennings house, sat up with it. It lay in a walnut casket. This morning at 2 o'clock Asbury Struble, Dukes' stepfather, and his half brother, George Struble, arrived at Uniontown.

They went to see the corpse immediately and then hastened to the telegraph office to notify his relatives in Ohio. About four o'clock Mrs. Struble and her eldest daughter arrived and remained with the Thursday's Dispatch to the Times. daughter arrived and remained with the body until half-past ten, when it was taken to the residence of his stepfather in German township. The cashet was placed in a two horse spring wagon, which went at the head of the funeral cortege. In a two seated phaeton, drawn by two horses. mmediately behind the wagon and driven by a colored man, sat Mrs. Struble and Miss Struble. Following right after the carriage was a buggy driven by a colored boy, and in it sat S. J. Helles, a half-sister to Dukes. Then in the rear on horseback rode Asbury Struble and his son George. The funeral will take place on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, from the Struble residence in German township. The body will be interred in the Church Hill cemetery, which is a Presbyterian burial ground near by. Gread crowds of people gathered by the Jennings house early this morning and waited to see the funeral procession. People from all over the country were present and the morning trains were crowded with persons anxious to get a look at the body, but no one was permitted to see it. When Colonel T. B. Searight heard of the killing of Dukes last night he went home crying and told his family the news and then came back down the street to hear the particulars. The lock box through which the ball passed that missed Dukes is No. 72, and is owned by T. B. Williams. The box is in great demand and many persons have been after it, but Mr. Williams will not part with it. Miss Johns, the postmistress, has the ball in

Messrs. W. H. Playford, A. D. Boyd and R. P. Kennedy have been engaged as counsel for the defense. Telegrams are pouring in to citizens from everywhere congratulating them on the riddance of Dukes. Colonel Vance, of Gallipolis, Ohio, telegraphed Alpheus Beall his congratulations on the riddance of the "scoundrel Dukes." One received by a prominent citizen from a high official in Washington. D. C., says:
"The action of young Nutt meets the unanimous approval of the people heae."

Last evening the friends and relatives of Mrs. Nutt went out to tell her of the ad ditional trouble she would have to bear. W. H. Cook, a relative of the family, went into the house first. He found no one about the lower part of the house and stood at the foot of the stairway and called to Miss Lizzie. She had not yet retired and opened her door and said she would be down in a minute, but she was told not to wait, but come to the stairway. Mrs. Nutt had just retired, but was not asleep, and hearing the talk in the hall opened her door and called: "Lizzie, what is the matter now?" Mr. Cook then went up stairs and found Mrs. Nutt clutching the balustrade and seeming weak from ner-vousness. He then intimated what had happened and at the same time led her to her room, where she reclined on the bed and said: "Tell me all. My cup of sor-row and grief is so full that a drop or two more will make no difference." He then told her about the affair and Miss Lizzie was standing by. Both were affected greatly. Mr. Cook then started to leave the room and tell the others, who were waiting below, to go up, when Miss Lizzie said: "Poor Jim; if he had only waited I would have done it myself." Had her brother not shot him she had made up her mind to do it had Dukes continued to remain here. She remarked to a friend that and a disgrace to the community. She is a very determined little woman and would undoubtedly have carried out her plans.

Many of the friends of the late Captain Nutt called at the jail Thursday morning to see James, but Sheriff Hoover would not permit them to see him without an order from his attorney. In the afternoon Mrs. Nutt, Stephen R. Nutt and Joseph R. Nutt, brother of the late Captain Nutt, lames Wells and Clark Breckenridge, nephew of Mrs Nutt, called at the jail to see the boy. Sheriff Hoover conducted them into the hall and permitted them to stand at the jail doors and talk to him. Mr. Breckenridge said to the sheriff: You permitted Dukes when he shot Captain Nutt to sit in your parlor and re ceive his friends, and now sir, I am going his relatives into the parler. The meet ing of the mother and son was deeply af fecting. They stayed with him for nearly to demand that we have the same treat. ment." This rather got the sheriff, and he went to his attorney's joffice and consulted him about it and on his return took the boy out of jail and conducted him and two hours and on their departure James was led back into prison. His friends wanted to know why he was not treated as Dukes was and Sheriff Hoover vowed to them that he was Every one knows that Dukes was given the best room in the sheriff's house and did not sleep a single night in a cell.

Your correspondent visited James Nutt n jail this noon. He was seated on a bench and had about the same appearance bench and had about the same appearance that he always had, except that he looked a little the worse for loss of sleep, as he said his bed in the cell occupied was not so comfortable as the one he was accustomed to sleep is at home. His breakfast, he said, consisted of a tin of ceffice and a little vices of most and breakfast. coffee and a little piece of meat and bread served on a tin plate. Dukes never knew what such treatment was.

The following telegram was received by gentleman here :

James Nutt is just twenty-one years old, is five feet ten inches in height and weighs one hundred and fixty five pounds. Dukes' keys, which Mass Beeson desired to get in her possession, were given to his mother. Great curiosity is manifested as to whether he made a will, but nothing can be found out about it. Some of his relatives wanted to bury him in the ceme tery at Uniontown. but when Mr. Boyle his counsel, was talked to about it, he advised them to take him to the country. It was reported this morning in many of the papers that Dukes was in Pittsburgh on Wednesday with Mr. Boyle, but that report is not true. It was rumored this morning that Boyle was retained for to whether he made a will, but nothing the prosecution, but he will take no part in the case.

Nutt's trial, it is thought, will take place at the September term of the court, and as his offense is not bailable he will have to remain in prison until that time. In an interview with Mrs. Nutt she said she had entreated her son over and over again to promise that he would never assail Dukes, but while listening patiently he never signified what he intended to do. Public sentiment is strongly in favor of Nutt. Messages have been pouring in all day tendering sympathy to the Nutt family and offering pecuniary assistance for young Nutt's defense. In Pittsburgh a public subscription has been started for the same purpose.

writes on March 15, 1883, as follows: " During the past three years I have been a great sufferer from a complication of diseases which baffled the skill of the most experienced doctors, as I could not obtain permanent relief by their treatment and prescriptions; and I have also tried many so-called cures in the medicine line, but could get no relief. The pains, aches, and weakness increased so rapldly and constantly that I was so reduced in strength as to be unable to leave the best, and the doctors informed me that there was no hope of a recovery. In this exhausted and di couraged condition a dear triend persuaded metouse Hant's Kemedy, and after taking it only thr e days I commenced to get better, and to my great joy an t celighal have emtinued to improve constantly by its use, until now, after having taken the remedy only a few weeks, I am ab'e to be about my house again, an lam now doing my housework.
