

innings. The audience would have been better able to judge of his skill field in receiving good support in the field. Beyer filled the position in the latter part of the game to advantage. Nearly all of the runs made by the visitors were through errors of the home team, the fielding of the latter being very loose. The pitchers played some hard hitting but it was not their work at the bat which won the game. Hardy failed to stop several balls in the second inning and that gave the visitors a start, they scoring three runs in the second inning. The errors on his part were excusable as he was quite sick and was compelled to leave the grounds on that account. King was then placed at short and Myers took first base. Several flies were muffed by our players and there was some bad throwing. Schiller, of the visitors, played a fine game and assisted his team greatly in putting out men and was seen to advantage at the bat. Of the 7 runs by the home team Zacher made three. Towards the end of the game the home team began to do heavy batting but was too late to recover. The score is given below. The name of Myers appears in place of Hardy, the former having played the greater part of the game and the errors made by both follow in the column of Myers.

Table with columns: Name, R, H, E, A, M, Y. Rows include Schiller, Foster, Miller, Ellis, Earnest, Fenney, Riler, Dell, Zacher, King, Arnold, Hoffman, Miles, Myers, Beyer, Total.

Others named in trial.
Yesterday morning the employees of the hardware stores of George M. Steinman & Co. and A. C. Kepler played a match game of ball on the grounds of the college club. There was a good sized crowd in attendance and the game was exciting. Up to the sixth inning the game was a tie, but after that the Steinman party took the lead and kept it to the end, winning by the score of 21 to 11, in seven innings. Jacob L. Porter was umpire.

The Married and Single nines of the watch factory play a match game on the grounds of the forenoon, the single men winning by the score of 36 to 25. This morning nines from Meade camp, near of V. Adams, of Reading, and George H. Thomas camp, of this city, played a match game on the grounds of the forenoon. The Reading team was victorious by the score of 21 to 3.

Parade of the Knights of Pythias.
The parade of the Knights of Pythias in Marietta yesterday drew large crowds of spectators to the town. The parade began about 2 o'clock p. m. in the park in front of the town hall, and moved off in the following order: The Grand Marshal, City court band of Lancaster, 20 pieces, Lancaster division No. 6, of Lancaster, 22 men. Members of other Lancaster lodges, 18 men. Star band of Washington borough, 15 pieces. Conestoga lodge No. 463, of Columbia, 40 men. Spring Garden band, 15 pieces. Cave lodge No. 301, of Mt. Joy, 45 men. Marietta band, 20 pieces. Donegal lodge No. 108, of Marietta, 50 men. Three carriages with officers of the grand lodge.

The parade was made on Market street only on account of the narrow street. The uniformed Lancaster division attracted special attention, their bright helmets and swords giving a touch of the chivalry to the body. The procession was dismissed at the place from where it had started and the Knights returned to the new hall of the Marietta lodge where the dedication ceremonies were conducted by the following officers of the grand lodge: Grand vice chancellor, Austin Long; grand secretary, J. M. Mallon; grand master at arms, Jos. F. Williams; master of the exercises, Julius Montanary. By 4 o'clock p. m. the exercises had ended and the dedicatory services of the new Donegal hall were over.

The lodge was organized September 12, 1868, and bought its present headquarters on October 7, 1882, for $500, altering, remodeling and refurnishing it at a cost of $500 more. The dimensions of the hall, which was formerly known as "sons of Temperance hall," are 29 feet by 100 feet, and is not only free from debt, but has a surplus of $2,100 in the treasury. It has a membership of 91, in good standing, and is growing rapidly. Twenty members have been admitted within the last two months. They meet weekly on Monday evenings.

Presented with a boat.
About 5 p. m. a novel procession formed in Market square, consisting of a wagon containing an elegant and well equipped fishing boat, now a complete outfit, the parts drawn by a fine team employed by the Marietta lodge, and a boat, headed by the Marietta lodge. They proceeded westward to the residence of G. F. Stibben, manager of the works, who was aroused from his morning nap by the sight of the apparatus. Mr. John Peck, on behalf of his fellow workmen, presented the boat to Mr. Stibben, who responded feelingly. The procession then moved to the river where the "Eise," named after Mr. Stibben's wife, was launched and Mr. Stibben and wife parted with their friends. The latter to return to town, the former to take a row.

The Bicycle Parade.
At 9 a. m. a dozen members of the Bicycle club met in the square at the call of Hagler J. Libhart, arrayed in their new uniforms. The club paraded through the town, the following members participating: C. Musser, S. Gramm, B. Hipple, J. Witter, G. Rudisill, V. M. Haldean, E. Lindenuth, C. S. Spangler, H. S. Haldean and D. W. Mohaffy, whose names were given in good management, most conducted the affair, which was greatly enjoyed by the participants from home and abroad.

AT LITIZ.
A Big Crowd Present-Very Fine Illumination.
With the old time enthusiasm the Fourth was observed in pleasant little Lititz. Very early in the morning the town began filling up with people and soon assumed a most animated appearance. In spite of the most persistent efforts of old Sol to do honor the day with his exceedingly warm expressions, the country folk from the vicinity came to town in all sorts of vehicles, and the trains from Lancaster and Reading, having taken away many visitors from these places, were packed full with others from the intermediate towns, brought a throng of persons, who sought diversion at the several hotels and on the Springs grounds. The hotels were early crowded, and private families were visited by all near relatives and friends. Besides the regular trains from Lancaster and Reading there were several excursion trains which came loaded with passengers. There were three bands in the town - the Frontville, with headquarters at the Springs house, the Womelandor, at the Springs house, and the Shefferstown, who were engaged by the proprietor of the Warwick house, where in the evening a most enjoyable hop was held and splendidly enjoyed. During the forenoon the several bands made short parades around the town and surrounded many citizens and the hotels, where the proverbial generosity of the town was displayed in unstinted "treats." It was rather late in the afternoon when the parade began to gather on the Springs grounds on account of the excessive heat, but before it was time for the orators to speak of the "glorious Fourth" there was a big crowd there. All the appurtenances for the illumination were placed in order long before and they promised to present a fine scene. At 5 o'clock the speakers, Messrs. W. F. Beyer, and William A. Wilson, esqs., entertained the crowd with eloquent speeches full of fervor and admonitions to guard well the safety and honor of the country. The certain and very enjoyable one there were fun and attractions, but order everywhere predominated; the houses were decorated and the whole occasion was one which in no way could detract from the well known proceedings of other like holidays, so well observed in Lititz.

There was no display on the grounds or in the town, and good cheer reigning everywhere among the thousands of visitors and the citizens. But one accident occurred. While the six year old son of "Squire Reidenbach, of the Springs, was playing with a striking machine used to test the strength of a blow with a mallet, and placed near the entrance to the spring grounds, he was struck by a back stroke of the hammer and had his mouth cut, five or six teeth knocked loose and his lower jaw split. Between five and six thousand people were on the spring grounds in the evening.

The Fourth at Manheim.
The Fourth was appropriately celebrated at this place; business was entirely suspended and the streets were gratefully leaving from many buildings. Gen. Heintzelman post, No. 300, formed on South Prussian street at 8:30 a. m., headed by Prof. Young's Liberty cornet band, and after making a short street parade, proceeded to the Cannon park, where the fair and encampment is being held. In the afternoon the Citizens and Liberty bands were at the encampment and rendered some fine selections. Maj. A. C. Reiblich was introduced by Dr. G. S. Snavely and then addressed the audience. The evening the town was crowded and a fine display of fireworks was had.

At West Willow.
There was a very fine display of fireworks at West Willow last evening, the citizens having elaborated and raised a handsome sum of money for the purpose. The display of rockets and fireworks was especially fine and was seen by persons many miles away.

A German Trap.
The proprietor of the Rock Hill hotel had a German carp weighing ten pounds, caught in a tank at his hotel. It was the first German carp taken from this stream, and it is thought it escaped from some stock pond on the river, or from the remains of a tank on the other side of the back and an adjoining part without scales resembles the skin of a catfish.

Small Fox on the Increase.
Dr. Fitzpatrick has taken down the traps from the Carr house on West King street, from that of Boush on North Street and St. Clair on High street, as there are no longer any cases of small fox in them. The houses are also being disinfected. No new cases are reported today.

Surgical Aid in a Brand.
On Monday night of this week the residence of Dr. Miller of Bird in Hand was entered by burglars, and a lot of silver was stolen all of which was marked with initials "J. C. and S. J. M." The offer of the above reward for sale may lead to the identification of the thief.

The exercises of the graduating class.
The exercises of the graduating class were held in the large hall of the school to-day at the Millersville normal school to witness the annual commencement exercises. At nine o'clock the graduates with the school officers entered the chapel and took their seats.
