An Explanation. Mr. Edwin Barnitz, 328 West James street, wishes us to say that Mrs. Mary Ream, who was reported yesterday as baving varioloid, is not his wife's sister inlaw, and was not stopping with his family, as was reported. She is a sister in law of Mrs. Gormley, who occupies rooms in the same house, and was on a visit to her when she was taken ill. As soon as Mrs. Ream was attacked with varioloid she left Lancaster for her home near Oxford, taking her three children with her. There is no smallpox in Mr. Barnitz's family. His house was closed yesterday because his wife was attending a funeral.

The German Porter.

A traveller describes the average porter of the hotels in Germany as a remarkable being. He is asked more questions in one day than ordinary man can answer in two days. He must reply to one question in Spanish, another in English, a third in dulcet Italian; the next second he must assume all the suave politeness of the mercurial Gaul; and before the taste of the last French nasal tongue willing to answer any and all questions in almost any languages. They consist of bowls, flagons, tankards, etc., of varied styles, the covers or knobs, as the case may be, rising in open work as the imperial crown of Austria. The decoration is in raised topaz throughout. The glasses surround the above, on the tray, which also bears the topaz ornamentation, but is in brass, highly polished to correspond in tint to the topaz. Some are of aqua marine hue, giving a tint some-what on the emerald. Others are decorated in delicate tracery of trailing vines and buds. They are pronounced exquisite, and if the aciduous beverage is not more refreshing from such serving, the thirsty one must be blind or in the dark.
