LINCOLN ON MCCLELLAN. A Reminiscence Related by Ex-Gov, Austin plair, of michigan.

In a recent address at Bellevue, Mich. ex Gov. Austin Blair gave an account of the convention of governors of Northern states that met at Altoona, Pa., at the time of the issuing of the emaucipa-tion proclamation by President Lincoln, in 1862. The convention was called to bring an influence to bear upon President Lincoln to induce him to issue a proclamation or do some act that would set at liberty the 4,000,000 slaves ; but the presi dent outwitted them by issuing a procla-mation on the same day their convention met. The governors then decided to go on to Washington and present to the president, not the urgent resolutions they had intended, but an ad dress complimenting him upon the step he had taken. This address was prepared in an able manner by Governor Andrew, of Massachusetts, who read it to President Lincoln as he sat at his desk, while the governors were seated around the room. After that an incident happened that Gov. Blair said he had never before related to any one. Gov. Kirkwood, of Iowa, since a United States senator and secretary of the interior, rose and said :

"Mr. President—I should be delighted could I return to my home and say to the people of lowa that the president of the United States believes Gen. George B McClellen is a royal man." He branched off upon other subjects connected with the war, and then closed by repeating with more emphasis: "I should be glad, Mr. President, to tell the people of I wa that you believe in the loyalty and patriotism of George B. McClellan.

Taking his feet down from the desk upon which they had been resting, Mr. Lincoln sprang to his feet and straightened up apparently two inches taller than usual, and said, with much force and apparent excitability: "Loyal! George B. McClelian is as loyal as any one of Then stopping a moment the president's face assumed its natural pleasant look, and he continued in a natural and pleasing tone : "I'll tell you, gentlemen, Gen. McClellan is an exceedingly well informed general, and is very careful, in fact, too careful, and the great trouble with him is that when he wins a victory he doesn't know what to do with it."

"Why not try somebody else?" mildly suggested Gov. Blair.
"We might do that and might lose an army by it," was the quick response of the president, which Gov. Blair admitted "completely unhorsed him."
