TO PROPERTY OWNERS AND PAINTERS.

As a business transaction would you be willing to pay one dollar for an article you could purchase for ninety cents? We are the agents for Lancaster and vicinity for Wadsworth, Martinez & Longman's Pure Prepared Paints.

And we claim that they are the best and cheape t paints in America. And we don't make this assertion and leave it unsupported. Paint one-half of any surface or one-half of any building with this paint and the other half with strictly pure White Lead and Linseed Qil, or any other mixed paints in this country, and if the part painted with this paint does not cost ten per cent. less than for paint used, we will make no charge for our paint. And further any building that has been painted with this paint that is not satisfactory to the owner, and not remaining so for a proper term of years, we will repaint at our own expense with White Lead and Linseed Oil or any other paint he may select. As many of the prepared paints are adulterated with benzine and water we make this liberal offer. We will pay one thousand dollars for any benzine or water found in any original package of WADSWORTH, MARTI-

SIGNIFICANT SPRING.

Everybody recognizes spring, when it is once upon us, but many persons are not fami far with the exact date of its appearance Webster, the world renowned lexicographer, gives us a definition, which may not be inap-propriate here. 'Spring," says he, "is the season of the year when plants begin to vegeing the months of March, April and May, in the middle latitudes north of the equator." Thompson, in his "Seasons," and Shakspeare in many of his works, have, perhaps, no peers in describing it, and yet "etherial spring " is freighted with malaria, " that inskilous foe, lurking in the very air we and yet it is considered to be fully equal to breathe" It spreads over the fairest portions the widely known and widely grown of our land; brings death and diseas: to thousands; cuts off scores and scores of our children and youth, as well as those in advanced life. A pestilence is regarded with

A PHYSICIAN'S EXPERIENCE. Dr. R. K. Clark, a regular physician of ex-tensive practice in Grand Isle County, and a worthy descon of the Congregational Church, at South Hero, Vt., has used Kidney-Wort for several years in his practice, and before the writes: " I do not recollect an instance where the patient to whom I have given it has failed to receive benefit from its use, and in some evere cases most decidedly so." These are strong words. They are from a representative, conscientious, ever-approachable public citizen, however, and-better still-they are Kidney Wort will bear all the encomiums lavished upon it by its friends-and their name is legion. "I will swear by Kidney-Wort all the time," writes Mr. J. R. Kauffman, of Lancaster, Pa. We will supplement this by asserting, as a matter of fact, and one capable of demonstration, that all honest patrons of this remedy are its friends and advocates.

The other day eighty-four were found in a Guinea's nest on the farm of Joseph Bell, near Bridgeton, N. J. The fowl is a prolitic layer. An immense quantity of blackberries and raspberries are raised in the vicinity of Hamonton, N. J. Over one hundred thousand quarts were lately forwarded in one day from that place, for which the shippers received about $7,000. Now is the time for gardeners to stir the soil frequently. There is nothing, not even watering at this season, does more to promote the health of vegetables than the stirring of the ground about them. Young trees of all kinds, trausplanted last spring, will be particularly benefitted. Crops and Exports.

We are pleased to notice by the publish ed reports of the national bureau of sta tistics at Washington, that all the exports of domestic breadstuffs, provisions, butter and lard for the fiscal year closing on the first of July, 1883, exhibit a handsome increase as compared with the corresponding figures for the previous fiscal year Of course this improvement results from the fact that the crops generally during the first six months of the present calendar year have been large, flourishing and pro fitable, while those of the year 1882 were generally short. We need scarcely say that these fac s and figures serve to show to how very large extent the whole foreign commerce and internal trade of the country are shaped and governed by our national agriculture, for that fact ought by this time to be well known to every school boy in the land. Nevertheless, it seems necessary to keep the fact constantly before the public, in order to prevent undue importance being given to the mere trading interests at the expense of the farmers. In point of fact, it is no exaggeration to say that the present favorable balance of trade as between this republic and the rest of the commercial world is mainly the work of our national agricul-

Smith's tider Apple. It is a very remarkable fact that though Pennsylvania has native apples of superior quality in every respect, most of the kinds grown in our orchards are varieties that have obtained a name in other localities the state, it seldom becomes known to any great extent anywhere else. We have heard this attributed to jealousy on the part of fruit propagators in other states, but this is nonsense. A fruit grower wants the best, and so that it is the best it makes no difference to him whether it comes from New York, Pennsylvania or Timbuctoo. Smith's cider apple is one of those do nesticated fruits waich has developed very little disposition to go abroad. It is very little met with elsewhere, and yet it is one no Penusylvanian who knows what's what would willingly be without.

That depends to what purpose the ten acres are to be applied. Hundreds of men are drawn every year from pursuits which afford them a fair living, to farms and colonies, and settlements of various kinds, only to meet with untold privations and present proprietors purchased an interest in discomforts for years and years, if not end its favor. This opinion has not changed. It in absolute ruin. We all remember how has done better than any other remedy I have some twenty years ago, thousands were ever used," says the doctor, and, further on he unsettled in their scenes and their homes, by the appearance of a little book entitled, Ten Acres Enough." Any one who read it attentively might see that in the fictitious stretch given of the one who succeeded as well, most of the success was to depend on the sale of high prices of a new blackberry root. A man could do this as well on one acre as ten, but the chance of a new root of this character will not come to one man in a thousand, or one man in a lifetime, and to take such very rare instances into account in the general product of ten acres is an absurd. ity. Still, the public generally do not dwell long enough on these things as they read them, but, taking in the general phrase, "Ten Acres Enough," madly ushed on to destruction. mode of "making money" was too slow for people advancing in years and saving so little, they sold out their store, and the husband quit his work in the shop, and buying a farm in a neighboring county, and stocking it with every thing of the best and newest, set to work to realize a hasty fortune. But unfortunately they left the business that they well understood for another which they knew nothing about, and in a few years their little savings had all disappeared; at least leaving them but a few hundred dollars, after selling off everything, with which they went back again, making their home with their children until there should appear an opening in their old line of business, in which, if they were not doing as well as they would like, they were making a certain living and steadily laying something

This is not merely the history of this family, or of a family here and there, but of hundreds. They forget that farming has to be learned like any other business, and to succeed it must be prosecuted gradually, and requires, as other business, constant watchfulness, care and hard work, and is subjected to many risks. Farming will only pay in this way whether the farm be large or small. And ten acres may be enough for fruit and vegetables within easy reach of a ready cash market. But then you must know thoroughly how all these things can be produced at the earliest date, in the greatest abundance, and of the finest varieties and best quality.

Honored Where He is Best Known Towards Daily Review. On Saturday evening a large number of our citizens joined in an impromptu serenade to Hon. Joseph Powell, candidate for state treasurer. The Germania band enlivened the occasion with some of its choicest selections, maintaining its high reputation as a body of excellent musicians. A procession was formed on lower Main street and marched, to the music of the band, up town to the residence of Mr. Powell, on York avenue. The spacious and beautiful grounds in front of the house were soon occupied by the throng of friends and neighbors. After the band had discoursed an appropriate piece, Mr. Powell appeared on the porch and was received with hearty demonstrations of favor and respect. When this had subsided, S. R. Payne, esq, candidate for district attorney, stepped out from the crowd, and addressing Mr. Powell, said:

Mr. Payne's Speech. MR POWELL - Your tow and are not near as good as many of the bors and friends, without distinction of state's seedlings before referred to. An- party, have come to your house this even other curious point is that when by dint of sheer traveling from farm to farm a which you have lived in their midst; the first class variety is grown generally in great aid and encouragement which you have given to various interests of trade and industry, during so many years, to the common advantage of the people; the prosperity which has attended vast business enterprises under your personal guidance-these, no less than your honored course as a national legislator, have all received a wide and merited recognition, and have contributed to bring upon yourself and upon your town and county the deserved distinction which has been conferred by a great party in our commonwealth. "If the political wisdom which prevailed at the convention, and made you a candidate, shall bear sway at the polls and make you an officer, your neighbors here well know, and the people every-where may be fully assured, that their public interests will never suffer under your management. Your fellow citizens congratulate you upon your nomination

Mr. rowell's Speech. Mr. Powell responded as follows:

" NEIGHBORS AND FELLOW CITIZENS.-In response to this friendly demonstration I present myself to thank you and express my warm appreciation of your kindness. This is the third occasion upon which I have appeared before you in the capacity of a candidate, asking your suffrages. On each, the position has been unsolicited by myself, and has been offered me by your free and spontaneous action. On the present occasion, after I had consented to the use of my name as a candidate, I did not feel the weight of the responsibility until the excitement of the convention had died away. I now find myself the nominee of a great party for one of the most important and responsible positions within the gift of the people of this great common-wealth. I already feel the burdens of the coming contest pressing heavily upon me, and I ask you, one and all, for your active and earnest cooperation and support. Should our efforts be crowned with success, as I hope and believe they will be, am confident that you know me well enough to believe that no act of mine in the discharge of my duties will bring reproach upon you." The speech was warmly applauded; music again filled the air, then followed a speech from Prof. A. D. A bert, giving an able and interesting account of the pro-cedings of the state convention, of which body he was a member from this county. He was followed by S. W. Little, esq, another delegate, who entertained the company in his usual dignified and attrac tive style. After more music by the band the people listened to a short but carnest address from Captain Daniel Meegan, of Wysox. At the conclusion of the speech making, Mr. Powell mingled with the crowd, when hand shaking and congratu lations were in order. The whole affair was very enjoyable and was participated in by our best citizens, regardless of political faith; all classes uniting to do honor to a distinguished and esteemed townsman.
