FESTIVITIES AT THE NEW HALL Music, Dancing, Feasting, Fraternal Visita.

No Picnic Yesterday-Serenades this Morning-The Ball To-night. Although the wet weather of Wednesdampen the aidor of the jolly men and women who are taking part in the dedication festival of the Lancaster Mænnerchor. coursed excellent music. Taylor's orches-tra was also on hand and furnished music for the dancers. Late in the afternoon the Ironville and Mountville bands left for about Mænnerchor hall. The festivities were kept up until about midnight. The large hall up-stairs was eight o'clock as Sergeant Flick, of Com devoted exclusively to dancing. The several rooms down stairs were occupied by singing, drinking and feasting parties. There was not the slightest disorder during the festivities, and not an oath or profane word was uttered to shock the and struck Levan a violent over the head propriety of the guests, many of whom felling him to the earth and knocking him confections.

It was intended to have the picnic at Rocky Springs to day, but the weather again interfered, rain falling from early dawn until noon, and the committee of arrangements were reluctantly compelled to postpone the picnic until Monday This morning the several societies met at Mænnerchor hall, and with the Buckalew band at the head of the column, marched to Liederkranz hall, to accept of the invitation to lunch extended them by that society. Bountifully laden tables were spread in the second-story hall, and the bar in the third-story was well supplied with beer. The visitors were welcomed to the Liederkranz in a brief speech by Prof. F. W. Haas. After spending a plea aut hour in lessing and drinking, Mr. Herman C. kee , president of the Harmonie-Maen nerchor, of Reading, made a brief speech inviting all the societies to meet at Mærsample an inveice of Reading beer sent there for that special occasion.

At the close of the lunch three hearty cheers were given for the Liederkranz and the societies, with the band at their head of the column, left the hall and paid their respects to a number of their friends and favored them with some choice music, and at several places, including Woehrle's, Soyder's, Schoenberger's, Knapp's, Bauer's and other saloons they were made the recipients of handsome set outs.

This afternoon there were no formal ceremonies, the visitors being free to come at 2:20, where they play to morrow and and go as they saw fit. This evening the Saturday. The nine included Yarnell, grand ball in Mænnercher hall takes place, late of the Anthracites, and Ardner, of the of the dedication festival.

PLEASED WITH LANCASTER.

A Solid Town and mospitable People. The correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, who is attending the Sangerfest in his wife and had come to the city with his this city, sends to his paper glowing accounts of Lancaster and its people. In his dispatch printed to-day he says: "All are full of praise and gratitude for the hearty welcome given them every- Mr. Tomlinson. Not wishing to have where. The more one sees of Lancaster the more pleasing is the impression left. It is a city of some 28,500 inhabitants, take him away, but Overly refused to do largely Germans; in politics it is just now Democratic, though there is always a struck him with his open hand and stubborn fight for the ascendancy. As in knocked him down. Kline and Overly Baltimore, the Eighth ward is the then left the place, but not long after Gibraltar of the old Democracy. It wards Kline returned and seeing Tomlinhas a fire department of four son standing in front of the County house, and also has the call system. The department displayed its ability early yesterday morning. A large tobacco warehouse near Woodward Hill cemetery caught fire, and while it was entirely destroyed the firemen showed their visitors, crowds of whom flocked to the fire, that he ran off, leaving the pistol in Tomlin they knew their duty and performed it. The police force consists of eighteen uni formed men, who seem to be fully able to take care of the town. In the way of public buildings Lancasterhas a fair court house, and a very commonplace postoffice and city hall in one building. A handsome structure is being put upon North Queen street by private parties, who will rent the lower story to the government for a posoffice. There is an opera house, several banks and a large number of churches, among one of the Moravian, and one each of the New and Old Mennonites or Dankers. This region is escentially the home of the last named faith, and very many women can be seen on the streets clad in the severely plain dress, cape and bonnet of black or gray, according as they belong to the old orthodox or the new and more iberal Dunkers. 'The streets of the city are, as a rule, broad and straight; some few of the most important are paved with Belgian blocks. others are macadamized, and too many are yet in that state of nature which ren ders them unpleasantly dusty in dry weather and horribly muddy in wet. In deed, this morning's parade suffered not a little on that account. To lay all possible dust, the authorities sprinkled the streets very generally. Their efforts were far surpassed by a light but steady rain, which converted the unpaved streets into beds of mud, and not a few of thore in line at the outset gave up in despair and disgust before the end was reached. The entire city will soon be lighted by electrici ty. The poles are already up, but owing to the many shade trees all along the pavements the success of the scheme is rather problematical.

Commercially, the city ranks very high. It is one of the largest tobacco markets in the country. For miles around town fields of growing tobacco are seen, a novel sight to many of the party. It has also many and well-known whisky distilleries. Indeed, it is said that Lancaster pays more internal revenue than any other city in the state, Philadelphia not excepted. The celebrated Lancaster watch factory, a practical but very ugly building, started running again this morning, after a close of several days, the neccessary capital to continue having been obtained. There are also several very large cotton mills here. And yet, despite a I this wealth and industry, Lancaster, strange to say, has not a single morning

Resignation of Manager Speece. Alfred Speece, who has been manager of the Ironsides club since it has been a paid nine, resigned that position last night. His resignation was accepted by the board of directors, and no one has yet been elected to fill bis position. Pulling a Pistol on the Wrong Man. Wednesday afternoon about 5 o'clock. George Tomlinson, who was engaged in conversation at the Lancaster County house with a country friend who had lost daughter to make some necessary purchases for the funeral, was approached by George Kline, who was intoxicated and a scene. Mr. Tomlinson whispered to Henry Overly, a friend of Kline, to so, and b came so abusive that Tomlinson engines and two trucks, used the most insulting language to him and drew a small six shooting revolver on him. Tomlinson saized Kline's arm before he had time to discharge the weapon, and a gentleman who was near by wrestled the pistol from his g.asp. Tomlinson then gave Kline a pretty good drubbing, and son's possession. Soon afterwards the parties met in rear of Knapp's saloon, and Tomlinson gave Kline a terrible threshing. Mr. Tomlinson is well known as an up right, peaceable citizen, who would not engage in a brawl unless it is forced upon him, but "being in" he is amply able to take care of himself.
