TO PROPERTY OWNERS AND PAINTERS.

As a business transaction would you be willing to pay one dollar for an article you could purchase for ninety cents ? We are the agents for Lancaster and vicinity for Wadsworth, Martinez & Longman's Pure Prepared Paints.

And we claim that they are the best and cheapest paints in America. And we don't make this assertion and leave it unsupported. Paint one-half of any surface or one-half of any building with this paint and the other half with strictly pure White Lead and Linseed Oil, or any other mixe i paints in this country, and if the part painted with this paint does not cost ten per cent. Is st than for paint used, we will make no charge for our paint. And further, any building that has been painted with this paint that is not satisfactory to the owner, and not remaining so for a proper term of years, we will repaint at our own expense with White Lead and Linseed Oil or any other paint he may select. As many of the prepared paints are adulterated with benzine and water we make this liberal offer. We will pay one thousand dollars for any senzine or water found in any original package of WADSWORTH, MARTI-NE & LONGMAN'S PURE PREPARED PAINTS.

MEDICAL.

UTICURA

My son, a lad twelve years of age, was af-flicted with the worst form of Eczema for a period of eight years. So virulent was it that from the top of his head to within a few inches of his ankles he was one mass of scabs, which refused to yield to any treatment that was suggested by friends or physicians was tried in vain. Allopathy, homeopathy, herbs, roots, salt water baths, flaxseed poultices, soaps, ointments, and in short everything that could be done to eradicate the disorder seemed only to aggravate it and the child's life became a burden to him, and the expense of the various burden to him, and the expense of the various experiments was a constant drain upon our ources. My wife, reading the advertisement of the CUTICURA REMEDIES in one of the daily papers, resolved to make one more attempt at a cure. (The disease was now encroaching upon his LANOASTER, PA face, and seemed incurable.) I gave a reluc-tant consent to the proposal and an interview was sought with a famous lady physician of New York, who made a most thorough exami-nation of the case, an promised a cure with-cut the least hesitation by the use of your Cutthe least hesitation by the use of your Cuticura Remedies. In one week there was a marked change; the raw and angry sores be-gan to grow pale and along the out-r edges scaled off, and as time wore on they began to disappear entirely, until at the present writ-ing the only vestige is one small spot upon the forearm, scarcely visible and fast disap-nearing.

Thus after eight years of expense and anxiety, we have the intense satisfaction of seeing the child's skin as fair and smooth as it was before this dreadful cutaneous disorder ottoated bins Sciences pours attacked him. Sincerely yours, CH AS. EAYKE HINKLE.

A TRUE STORY. "MY NAME'S CAH'LINE."

A Florida Sketch of a Bright Little Topsy and of Her Pathetic Fate.

Hamilton Jay in Philadelphia Times. Who she was and where she came from was always a mystery to us. Her coming was as unexpected as a summer shower, and turned out to be as fully grateful. The circumstances of her arrival among us were out of the usual line, and the result a blessing in disguise. One languid, sultry day in August, we were all sitting on the wide, roomy piazza, eager to catch every flutter of breeze that might arise, when a torn and dusty little figure opened the gate and came down the path. Flinging herself wearily before us she said : " My name's Cah'line, an' I want to stay wid you."

It was a child of about twelve years, small and delicate looking, black as the shadow of midnight, but with a bright, pleasant face, and small features almost Caucasian in their outlines.

The child was half starved and evidently worn out by a long and toilsome journey, and her faculties at first seemed to be in a half benumbed state. All that we could obtain from her in the way of information was that her name was Cah'line. A good bath and a generous meal cre ated such a wonderful transformation in her that the head of affairs decided to keep her, and so Cah'line became the chore girl of our little household. She proved to be very faithful and affectionate.

She knew all the places where the hens were accustomed to lay; would crawl under the barn or other buildings, through high weeds and brambles in shady fence corners, and always with success, mean. while crooning to herself a song, whose burden was: Get ye ready,

Get ye ready. You'll have to take a little more bread, For dar ain't no clabber here !

Even the wisest old hen knew that it was a waste of time to try and hide her nest from the sharp, keen eyes of Cah'line. The family dog, a wise, well bred and gentlemanly terrier, regarded her at first with grave doubts and dignified suspicion. but soon became her sworn ally, and the two had many a happy romp together. Differing strangely from all others of her race whom we had known, the watermelon in the various stages of its growth and beanty had for her no charms ; her palate barely tolerated corn bread and rejected iny altogether. But a slice of cake

How the world, and to enter into serious competition with the United States and Russia -the two leading wheat exporting countries of the world-now shows in sight in Mexico, and appears to be coming to the front as part of the great commercial and industrial reconstruction of that land by the American railways. The physical formation of Mexico is simply an extension southward of the great Colorado mountain base plateau. Wheat grows on the plateau of Mexico at from 6,000 to 0,000 feet above sea level, and between the 18th and 24th parallels of latitude. Corn grows everywhere, except on certain waste districts along the northern frontier, where the soil is the same as the alkali plains of Arizona and New Mexico. The wheat grow-long I would have continued in this way I do not know; in fact I despaired of getting relief, until a neighbor, who had been very much benefited by the use of Hunt's Remedy, advised me to try it ; and, although I had no faith that it would reach my case, yet as he spoke so highly of its great merits I decided t) give it a trial, and its use has been attend-ed with the very best possible results. Twelve hours after taking the first dose I experienced relief. I continued on in its use until I had used five bottles, when all the pains had vanished, my otherwise good health returned, and I am free from all pains, and am a well man. I am confident my cure has resulted from the use of Hunt's Remedy, and that derous two wheeled ox carts, in which the ox pulls about three pounds of cart to one pound of load.

Apart from the 52,000 square miles spoken of above, which is the choice wheat producing area, there is sufficient Dr. J. C. Ayers & Co., Lowell, Mass. outlying wheat, barley and corn land now under actual cultivation to supply the present population of Mexico, ten millions. These people are at present fed on grain raised just where they live, there having been up to this time uo organized machinery for transportation of products from one part of the country to the other. Mexico is substantially a corn-fed nation, seven-eighths or more of the people living habitually on tortillas. Were this wheat area cultivated to its full capacity, namely 17,3331 square miles, it is estimated that it would yield, under present conditions, 20 bushels of wheat and 40 bushels of corn per acre, as follows : First year, wheat crop, 221,866,660 bushels.

First year, cora crop, 433,733,330 bushels.

Second year, cora crop, 433,733,320 bushels. Or say an average of 110,000,000 bushels every year. But under the modern conditions of agriculture, with improved machinery and systematic feeding of the soit, a much larger yield is anticipated. By the end of 1984 Mexico will probably enjoy a reason ably thorough railway system, viz, two trunk lines at least, from the capital to the United States, having also good branch lines to the gulf ports of Vera Cruz, Tampico, Matamoras and Corpus Christi. The land of Mexico is largely held in huge estates, often like those of the great landowners of England. The Bustamente estate, for instance, extends over portions of three states, and the line of the Nation al railway runs through it for fifty miles. These vast estates, with the fact that in the central part of Mexico at least, they are of clearer land, will enable the wheat growing area to be put rapidly under cul tivation when once the railsways open up a market for wheat.

The Mexican wheat raiser, however, is seriously handicapped in one respect, 1. e., by the vicious system of state taxes which provails all over the republic. Some states tax the production of wheat, others the importation of it into or through their borders. This tax is uncertain, varies with every state, and is burdensome. Men who have lived loag in Mexico, and are well acquainted with the country, allege that it is well nigh impossible to codify or keep track of these state imposts which are laid without system or any broad one day we heard an unusual commo-ion on the track, a succession of shrill rhistles and then a sudden stoppage of he train.
