HIS RETURN TO HIS OLD QUARTERS. How He Looks and What He Has to Say-Glad to be in Lancaster-He Wants Another Cell. John Frankford, the celebrated criminal who has been "visiting" in Chester county for the past few months, was handed over to Prisonkeeper Burkholder, of this county yeterday. That officer arrived in town last evening, at 5:20 with his prisoner who is now back in his old quarters occupying cell No. 7, which is an iron clad one on the the ground floor of the prison. The prisoner gave Mr. Burkholder no trouble whatever on his return to this city, and seemed glad to get back to his old quarters. A reporter of this paper called on him to day and had a chat with him. He was attired in a new suit of stripes which are very clean and neat. Since last seen in West Chester his appearance has greatly changed. Although still stout he looks thin in the face and states that he he lost between ten and fitteen pounds since he was first arrested. He now wears a full beard of its natural color instead of the fierce looking dyed moustache which formerly adorned his upper lip. Over his blind eye he wore a neat little green parch. He says his health is not good, as he is troubled with kidney disease. He was quite communicative of the Chester county authorities is not very exalted and does not speak well of his treatment by them. He was not at all he says, they were influenced by prejudice, he could have been convicted for almost any crime there. The men who swore against him made many different kinds of statements, especially in regard to his personal appearance. Before the trials and while they were in progress he was always auxiously awaiting the decision of the court and always expected to be returned to Lancaster. He did not go on the witness stand for this reason and called no witnesses. He says he is glad that he is back again among people with whom he is acquainted and if he was a free man to day he would lead an honest and upright life in this city. He blames Charles Gibson, his sou-in law, for many of his misdeeds and claims that if it had not been for him he would not have gotten into the trouble for which he re ceived the long sentence in this city. During the time that he was out of prison he lived a greater part of his time in Philadelphia, where he had three different jobs of work, at which he was receiving good wages, but he could not remain at it, as he was constantly stum bling over someous from Lancaster whom he knew. Many of them did not know him and others at the spoke to would not "give him away." He says that he understands his wife is getting a divorce from him but there has never been any diffi culty between them. He is only unable to support her or family while locked up. He is somewhat dissatisfied with the cell in which he is now, and would would rather be up stairs, not because it is less secure up there, but it would be more beneficial to his health.

WEDDING BELLS.

The Marchage of Miss Catharine Keffer and Mr. Richard L. Head, Harrisburg Patriot.

Miss Catharine Keffer, daughter of the late John Keffer, of Lancaster, and Mr. Richard L. Head, chief clerk in the superintendent's office of the Pennsylvania R. R, this city, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony last evening at the pro cathedral, Rev. Father McBride pro nonneing the ceremony. The couple were attended to the altar by Mrs. William Swooney and Grant Wescott, of New York, niece and nephew of the groom. Those present at the services were Julius Low and wife, of Pittsburg ; Joseph Head, Lateobe; M.s. John Head, Greensburg; Miss Westcott, Philadelphia; Prof. Keffer, and wife, Lancaster ; Mrs. Kline, Lancaster; Dr. Fornias and wife, Philadelphia; O. G. Smith and wife, John Keffer and Mrs. Ann Keffer, Harrisburg; Miss Emma Marshall, Lancaster; David McDonnell and wife, Harry J. Steele and wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Dr. O. A. Rahter, Harris burg. At the conclusion of the nuptial ceremonies a reception was given at the residence of Dr. Rahter, 209 Waleut street, where Mr. and Mrs. Head will make their future home. Mrs. Head is a cousin of Mrs. Dr. Rahter. There were many intimate friends present and on elegant collation was served about 10 o'clock, after the congratulations to the happy couple were over. The wedding gitts were elegant and numerous, among the number being a handsome bronze clock, a solid silver ice pitcher with goblets and dripping bowl, from the offcials and clerks at the Pennsylvania station. Mr. and Mrs. Head left on the midnight train east in a special car for New York, accompanied by a few friends. Their wedding tone will be an extended one.

Where Does the Danger Come In? Editors of Intelligencer :

The removal of the duty on matches has called a new and dangerous competition into the market. Sweden is shipping hundreds of tons to this country. Although they pay a 35 per cent. duty they can be sold cheaper than the home made article .- New Era.

We should like to know what danger there is in getting cheap matches-that is, what evil can possibly come to the consumers. If we are correctly informed match making in this country is a monop oly, so rich and strong that it has made a corner in woodlands to supply its needs in manufacturing. Of course cheap matches | cattle to John Bair; 40 cattle to A. Buckwould lessen the grip of this monstrous monopoly, and this to the mind of the Era would be "dangerous." When a high protective tariff takes possession of minds to a few other consignees or merely taken of uncertain calibre the consumer is never thought about, but whatever threatens the packets of the precious monopolist is dangerous. Whatever threatens the people's comforts or liberties is dangerousnot what curbs the giant strides of present monopolies. The Era will certainly have to reform its catechism.

Lightning After Philosophers. The "Summer School of Christian Philosophy '' was advertised to meet Thursday morning in the Universalist church, Rich field Springs, but at the last moment, for some trivial reason, the programme was changed and it was called to order in the Presbyterian church, across the way. During the session a thunder shower came up, and the congregation was astonished and frightened at one terrific flash and report that fairly seemed to set the church on fire. No one was injured and it was found upon investigation that the Universalist church, where they had expected to meet, had been struck by the "bolt."

A Rival to Ell Polkins. Last night about 11 o'clock Chief of Police Deichler found a little boy about 8 was doing there The little fellow said he had no home; his father and mother were dead, and he had to get along as best he could. He was asked where he got his meals and where he lodged. He answered that he begged his meals and lodged under the large trees in the reservoir grounds. The chief asked him who did his washing and he answered that he washed them himself, that he went down to the creek took off his clothes, washed them in the stream and hung them on the bushes until they were dried. The chief asked him if he had no relatives. He answered that he had some consins and aunts, but they lived away down south, and he had an uncle named Dunham, living in Pitts burg. The chief took him to the station | KENNEY, Dry Goo's Merchant, Ithaca, N. Y. house, notified the mayor of the case, and the little waif was about being sent to the children's home, when some ore came along who recognized his face as being quite familiar. A further investigation showed that the little fellow was a native of this city, a son of Biddy Daily; and that he has a very comfortable home with his grandmother, Mrs. Dune, of East Walnut street. He was taken to tis grandmother's and she was made acquainted with the yards the young rascal had been spinning. She showed the offi cer two or three good suits of

RESCUED FROM DEATH

The following statement of William J. Cough in, of Somerville, Mass., is so remarkable that we beg to ask for it the attention of our read ers. He says: "In the fall of 18761 was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs, followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time hat I could not leave my bed. In the sumner of 1877 I was admitted to the City Hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in by left lung as big as a half-dollar. I expend over a hundred dollars in doctors and medines. I was so far gone at one time a repor and around that I was dead. I gave up hope but a friend told me of DR. WM. SIR. WALTER RALEIGH.

His Behaver When Led Upon the Scaf-Gentleman's Magazine. It was a bitterly cold October morning, rendered all the more sharp by a cutting east wind, and as Raleigh ascended the scaffold and perpared to address the vast mob that thronged the palace yard his limbs, enfeebled by confinement and illhealth, trembled so visibly that he could scarcely support himself. The sheriff, observing this debility, offered to help his ill fated charge down from the scaffold and take him to a fire, so that being warmed he might be the better able to deliver his dying speech. "No, good Mr. Sheriff," said Raleigh, "let us dispatch, for within this quarter of an hour mine ague will come upon me, and if I be not dead before then mine enemies will say that I quake for fear." Then, holding on by the rail of the scaffold, he faced the crowd and thus began : "I thank God heartily that He hath brought me into the fight to die, and that He hath not suffered me to die in the dark prison of the tower, where I have suffered a great deal of misery and cruel sickness; and I thank God that my fever hath not taken me at the time, as I prayed to God it might not." After this preface he proceeded to deal with the charges brought against him. He denied that he ever entered into any plot with France, though he admitted, to save his life, he had attempted to escape into France. He denied that he had ever been counselled by Lord Carew, and other lords to fly the country, or that he had ever offered Sir Lewis Stukeley money to assist him in escaping. "But, indeed," he acknowl-edged, "I showed him a letter that if he would go with me there should be order taken for his debts when he was gone; neither had I £10,000 to give him, for if I had had so much I could have made my peace better with it in the other ways than in giving it to Stukeley." He declared that his only object in startgood to speak of, and I am now at this in protest, as I shall appear before Him, this that I have spoken is true, and I hope I shall be believed."

How Crimical Lawyers Gather a Practice. A murderer in New York can, if he chooses, take his pick from a considerable number of fairly competent lawyers, even though he hasn't a dollar with which to "I was five years getting into a profitable criminal practice "one of the men in this line is quoted as saying, "and I succeeded only by sorving gratis. I haunted police courts, and to every prisoner committed for trial who had no counsel f tendered myself. In the trial courts the judge may assign any lawyer present to defend a prisoner not provided with coun sel. I made it a point to be on band for these assignments. Of course many of the cases were so small that they didn't get into the papers at all, and in some that were reported my name would not appear, but usually each hard day's work brought the desired reward in the way of publicity. My practice grew to immense proportions, but it was a year before I could get enough money out of it in a week to pay my modest board bill on Saturday night. At the end of the second year I had worked up to a barely living income, but had a debt left to clear off, and it is only very lately that I have become established firmly enough to refuse all but eash cases. Indeed, I do not yet let a good murder fall into rival hands on account of the perpatrator's impecuniosity. Let me advise more eminent ones, too, than you can
