That large one, which would be the centre stone of a necklace, There are three things to be considered in computing the value of a diamond : color, brilliancy and cutting. In the matter of color the blue or steel hued diamond is the most valuable. The best work in cutting is done in Amsterdam, where the trade has come down for hundreds of years from father to son. There are, however, some very good lapidaries in New York."

'Platina and gold is a favorite combination in gentleman's watch chains and rings," continued the jeweler, as he showed a tray of rings made of platina and gold. Platina is not unlike silver in appearance, and is, owing to its weight, more valuable than gold.

Each of the players had a quart tickler, from son asked the elder Davis to let him have his (Davis') flask, which request was cheerfully complied with. After taking a good, long draught, Bryersen remarked : "Davis, your old apple jack is burned out and tastes of the old copper boiler. If I

ers. Bryerson succeeded in firing first. His ball struck his antagonist in the chest and killed him almost instantly. The son of the dead moonshiner and card player denounced Bryerson for his conduct, and attempted to punish him. Bryerson was too quick for him, and before the son could draw his weapon he fired upon him, the ball striking young Davis in the side, inflicting a fearful wound, from which he will probably die. Bryerson flew down the moun tains, leaving his victims just where he had shot them down. He had not been arrested up to last reports. The LICON-shiners in the neighborhood are greatly incensed, and threats of lynching are made, but they are not at all likely to be carried out. All of the parties to the duel were popular among their friends, and the sentiment among them in regard to the merit of the case seem to be equally divided.
