FARM NOTES.

REASONABLE HINTS FOR HUSBANDMEN.

Late Hauls--Economy on the Farm--The Results of Carelessness--What is the Matter with the Peaches? Germantown Telegraph.

In addition to what we lately said of certain garden crops that can be sown late and still be in season for table use by the time the winter sets in, we would mention corn salad and scurvy grass, which should now be sown. They will be found to be very welcome in late autumn, when we are without salads. In fact, they will come quite as opportunely and be enjoyed with as much zest and heartiness as the lettuce we so much crave for in the early spring. Spinach, too, we feel as if we must again mention--for we regard it as the best of all "greens"--should be sown for late autumn use; and again in October for early spring use, when it will be greatly enjoyed, as the earliest of garden vegetables.

Farming Economy.

We have sometimes thought that if the universal advice given to the young men of the Atlantic states to go West and turn farmers, was properly examined by a disinterested observer, it would turn out to be a really good thing for the young men of the Atlantic states to come down to the most primitive form of modern civilization to engage in farming on the frontier in the simplest and rudest style for the sake of economy, in order to get a fair start in the world. It has also seemed to us that if the young men of the Atlantic states were willing to live in the same style here and to make economy and thrift management his entire study as a farmer by coming down to first principles, doing his own work, and spending as little money as possible for his labor, machinery, and living, he could in the course of five years make out more on a small farm in the Middle states than in the West. But the truth is, that the same course of reasoning will now apply to such states as Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, as compared with the new West beyond the frontier in Iowa.

THE PEACHES.

Within the past twenty years the people of the great cities of New York and Philadelphia have exhibited no small surprise at the remarkable extent of railway building in South Jersey, in regions that had for half a century previous been considered as useless and hopeless for the purpose of agriculture, while at the same time the capitalists of those cities were investing enormous sums of money in covering the whole West with a perfect network of railways, and thus giving those states extraordinary advantages over those of the seaboard. But in the meantime the capitalists of those cities were investing enormous sums of money in covering the whole West with a perfect network of railways, and thus giving those states extraordinary advantages over those of the seaboard. But in the meantime the capitalists of those cities were investing enormous sums of money in covering the whole West with a perfect network of railways, and thus giving those states extraordinary advantages over those of the seaboard.

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

On the Chickahominy.

Under date of May 8, 1862, Col. S. F. Timmerman, of Dover, N. H., sends us the following: "While on duty in the army of the Potomac in the swamps of the Chickahominy I contracted a complication of diseases that culminated in spinal trouble, paralysis on one side, and severe disease of the kidneys and bladder, and great urinary weakness. For a long time I was under the treatment of the best physicians, and tried many of the so-called remedies, but received no permanent benefit. When I was in the drug business in Boston I heard favorable accounts of the efficacy of Hunt's Remedy for diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs, and having decided to give it a trial, I purchased some at Wingate's drug store, D. W. N. H., and have received great relief from using it. The severe pains in my back are removed, and I am able to sleep soundly and obtain rest at night--which for so long a time I could not do, and the weakness in the urinary organs has been relieved, and I greatly regret that I did not test the great merits of Hunt's Remedy when I was first taken sick, as I am confident it would have saved me from several years of suffering; and hearing of the most remarkable cures effected by Hunt's Remedy in a case of Bright's Disease here in our midst in Dover, after the use of several years of suffering, and celebrated physicians."

BITTER WORN.

Horrors on Horror's Head Accumulate in 1883.

Chicago Tribune.

Whether the events of this fatal year of our Lord 1883 have any reference to the realization of prophecy or to the construing of scripture declarations or not, no one will question that it has thus far been a terrible year in its destructive visitations upon people, their lives and their property. Whether it has culminated in the disaster at Lehigh, which in the twinkling of an eye and without warning devastated that "smiling island," and swept thousands out of existence, remains to be seen; but this is only one of many disasters which have marred their black procession across the globe.
