

The Lancaster Intelligencer.

Volume XX-No 20.

LANCASTER, PA., MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1883.

Price Two Cents.

STOVES, HEATERS, ETC.

STOVES! STOVES!

During the past week we have received the largest stock of Cook and Parlor Stoves, Ranges and Heaters ever brought to Lancaster city; they are all from the best manufacturers, and we guarantee every stove we sell. Having just completed two new stories to our already large store, we devote one of these to the exhibition and sale of stoves exclusively, and would be pleased to have our customers call and see our large and varied stock. We have the Celebrated Adams & Westlake Coal Oil Stoves, with Heater attached, which we are selling cheap; they are a good article and just the thing for a sick room. We have also a very large assortment of Zinc and Crystal Stove Boards, which we are selling at low prices. Our stock of Floor Oil Cloths never was so large and never contained so many choice patterns as now; we have some beautiful patterns in one yard wide for 25 cents per yard and up.

FLINN & BRENEMAN,
No. 152 North Queen Street, Lancaster, Pa.

DRY GOODS.

(²) GEORGE FAHNESTOCK,

(BAIR'S OLD STAND)

NO. 14 EAST KING STREET.

Blankets! Blankets! Blankets!

We offer to-day an immense Stock of BLANKETS at a small Advance on Cost.
104 White Supped. Blankets at..... $1.50 Per Pair
104 White Wool Blankets at..... $2.50 Per Pair
104 White Wool Blankets at..... $2.50 Per Pair
104 White Wool Blankets at..... $3.00 Per Pair
104 White Wool Blankets at..... $3.50 Per Pair
104 White Wool Blankets at..... $4.00 Per Pair
White All Wool Blankets, best ever sold, at..... $4.50 Per Pair
Large Stock of colored Blankets at Reduced Prices. Comforts and Comfortables.

GEORGE FAHNESTOCK,
NO. 14 EAST KING STREET,
LANCASTER, PA.

PLUMBING AND GAS FITTING.

JOHNS L. ARNOLD,

PLUMBING, GAS-FITTING,
GAS FIXTURES, OIL FIXTURES,
TIN ROOFING, SLATE ROOFING,
Steam Fitters' Supplies, Patent Cold Case Heaters.

Finest Work, Best Workmen. Leave your Orders at

JOHN L. ARNOLD'S,

Nos. 11, 13, 15 EAST ORANGE STREET, LANCASTER, PA.

LIVERY STABLE.

HOUGHTON'S.

New Livery and Sale Stables.

FIRST CLASS HORSES AND BUGGIES TO HIRE; ALSO, OMNIBUSES FOR PARTIES AND PICNICS. HORSES BOUGHT AND SOLD AT ALL TIMES.

Stables--No. 44 Market Street, near Old Black Horse Hotel.

HUMAN GUANO.

Composed of Pure Human Excrement and Urine. Unrivaled for Wheat, Tobacco, Grass, Corn, &c. --SOLD BY--

WM. H. JONES, No. 422 Market Street; C. B. ROGERS, No. 133 Market Street; GRAHAM, EMLEN & PANSMORE, No. 50 Market Street; J. RIBER & SON, Brantford, Philadelphia, and responsible dealers generally.

OFFICE--No. 333 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

G. MUSSelman, Agent, Witmer, Lancaster county, Pa.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

JOHN BAER'S SONS,

15 and 17 NORTH QUEEN ST., LANCASTER, PA.

PAPER MANUFACTURERS, &c.

PHARES W. FRY,

OUR LINE OF

Dado Window Shades

Is larger than any season heretofore. We have them in all colors, six and seven feet long. These goods are very stylish and popular--special sizes made to order.

PLAIN SHADING

By the yard in any quantity, white with tan, large windows and store shades. Tan and Wood Spring Rollers. Also Cord Fixtures, shades made up promptly and hung in best manner.

NEW PATTERNS OF

WALL PAPERS

Of every description, common and gilt paper at low prices. Borders, friezes, general pieces, &c.

LACE CURTAINS,

In cream and white, poles, cornices, bands, loops, &c.

PHARES W. FRY,

57 NORTH QUEEN ST.

STEVE'S HOUSE,

SHAVING AND HAIR DRESSING SALOON

Good Journeymen and prices same as other saloons.

H. WAGNER, Manager.

MAKE NO MISTAKE, FOR YOU CAN

buy the best 55, Havana cigar in the market, at

HARTMAN'S YELLOW FRONT CIGAR STORE.

MEDICAL.

WHEELER'S REMEDIES.

SENSIBLE MEN

and Women know ere this that of the many diseases and derangements of the body each has its appropriate cause and that often a different method of treatment in order to effect a cure, and a moment's reflection will convince that any of the quick nostrums or remedies of the day do not cure a number of diametrically different diseases and prove failures, even if we do not call them humbug.

POOR PEOPLE

and people of moderate means, and even poor who well know that the curse of practicing physicians is to pay themselves poor that after paying themselves poor that no benefit has accrued to them, in fact they have thrown away their money. They are told to go to Wheeler's No. 2 Sure Remedies for each disease, and will form most remarkable results, with many other claims than those claimed for it, and as those remedies have stood the test of years without a single failure, we can say that every instance where a cure is not positively effected, the remedies are entirely vegetable, can do no harm, and will prevent every disease for which they are prescribed.

RHEUMATISM.

Gout, Lameness of Joints, Sciatica and Neuralgia, Rheumatism, and all rheumatic diseases, the use of Wheeler's No. 90 Rheumatic Remedy. We say boldly that in the word of cases of no matter how long standing, how refractory, how obstinate, we will positively refund the money paid for the treatment, and your suffering will be entirely stopped for all time.

With the same remedy we will cure you of all your rheumatic complaints, and the price is only 20 cents, obtainable from any druggist, or sent free by mail on receipt of price. Stamp taken.

YOUNG MEN ASSASSINATED.

Caused From This Day to Midnight and Mortal.

A cold blooded and cowardly murderer, the particulars of which are as follows: Wheeler, a young man who was assigned to assist Father Pitass. The latter has been the pastor twelve years and has built up the congregation by hard work. He is now building a new stone church. The old priest was strict and severe and the young man was opposite. The latter soon ingratiated himself into the good graces of the church, and he used his best endeavor to have him appointed Father Pitass. The young priest was sent by Bishop Ryan to Oregon, N. Y., this week. There is much sympathy for Father Pitass, who is a faithful, conscientious worker.

NOTABLE CASES OF SELF-DESTRUCTION AND CRIME--A Sad Miscellany near Wilkesbarre.

The suicidal mania seems to have become epidemic in London. The varied forms of destruction practiced are themselves indicative that no one short of a maniac could invent them. An officer of engineers a few days ago made a dynamite belt, doused it in oil, and blew himself to atoms. A day or two afterwards a prominent doctor put an end to his life by cutting his neck, which he had filled with a quantity of phosphorus, washing down the meat with a glass of carbolic acid. Although the number of suicides increase monthly no notice is taken of individual cases unless the victim destroys himself in some extraordinary manner.

A Mr. Hughes, a Church of England clergyman, very much advanced in years, is in custody at Birmingham, charged with bigamy. The circumstances of his career are so remarkable that his case has excited a great deal of comment. At the age of 75 he was convicted and sentenced for forgery. Previous to this he had been in trouble for seducing a stepdaughter of his second wife and would probably have suffered for this offense had not the greater charge taken precedence. He did not remain long in custody, however, his venerable appearance and holy calling, together with promises of reform, soon procuring him a ticket of leave. Shortly after his release and when he was eighty years of age he married again and was appointed to a curacy at Westbury. His reformation seemed complete. He was attentive to his duties and became very popular with the congregation. His eloquence attracted members, and the attendance at the church increased so rapidly that seats were at a premium. This prosperity, however, instead of keeping the old gentleman in the straight path seems to have incited him to further wrong doing. His next move was to seduce and clandestinely marry a young girl of the town, who was so completely under his influence that she consented to this, notwithstanding the fact that his wife was alive. His relations to this girl finally caused such amount of suspicion that Mr. Hughes concluded to leave. When he did he left complete, his record by eloping with the vicar's cook, leaving both his true wife and the girl whom he had recently married behind. Steps were immediately taken which led to his arrest and he is now in jail awaiting trial. Mr. Hughes, on learning the details of her husband's peridy, went mad and is at present in confinement and under treatment in a private asylum.

Quite a sensation has been caused in Liverpool among Catholics by the sudden disappearance of a prominent priest. He had for some time been collecting money for the repair of rebuilding his church, and had received about $4,000. On Wednesday, accompanied by a young lady who has been a constant attendant at his church, he suddenly left town. Since that time nothing has been heard of the priest, the young lady or the $4,000.

SO RUNS THE WORLD.

THE SUICIDAL MANIA IN ENGLAND.

Notable Cases of Self-Destruction and Crime--A Sad Miscellany near Wilkesbarre.

The suicidal mania seems to have become epidemic in London. The varied forms of destruction practiced are themselves indicative that no one short of a maniac could invent them. An officer of engineers a few days ago made a dynamite belt, doused it in oil, and blew himself to atoms. A day or two afterwards a prominent doctor put an end to his life by cutting his neck, which he had filled with a quantity of phosphorus, washing down the meat with a glass of carbolic acid. Although the number of suicides increase monthly no notice is taken of individual cases unless the victim destroys himself in some extraordinary manner.

A Mr. Hughes, a Church of England clergyman, very much advanced in years, is in custody at Birmingham, charged with bigamy. The circumstances of his career are so remarkable that his case has excited a great deal of comment. At the age of 75 he was convicted and sentenced for forgery. Previous to this he had been in trouble for seducing a stepdaughter of his second wife and would probably have suffered for this offense had not the greater charge taken precedence. He did not remain long in custody, however, his venerable appearance and holy calling, together with promises of reform, soon procuring him a ticket of leave. Shortly after his release and when he was eighty years of age he married again and was appointed to a curacy at Westbury. His reformation seemed complete. He was attentive to his duties and became very popular with the congregation. His eloquence attracted members, and the attendance at the church increased so rapidly that seats were at a premium. This prosperity, however, instead of keeping the old gentleman in the straight path seems to have incited him to further wrong doing. His next move was to seduce and clandestinely marry a young girl of the town, who was so completely under his influence that she consented to this, notwithstanding the fact that his wife was alive. His relations to this girl finally caused such amount of suspicion that Mr. Hughes concluded to leave. When he did he left complete, his record by eloping with the vicar's cook, leaving both his true wife and the girl whom he had recently married behind. Steps were immediately taken which led to his arrest and he is now in jail awaiting trial. Mr. Hughes, on learning the details of her husband's peridy, went mad and is at present in confinement and under treatment in a private asylum.

Quite a sensation has been caused in Liverpool among Catholics by the sudden disappearance of a prominent priest. He had for some time been collecting money for the repair of rebuilding his church, and had received about $4,000. On Wednesday, accompanied by a young lady who has been a constant attendant at his church, he suddenly left town. Since that time nothing has been heard of the priest, the young lady or the $4,000.

Four Men Slain in the Norton of a Snare.

A cold-blooded and cowardly murderer, the particulars of which are as follows:

Clifford and Sibley streets Saturday at midnight in Detroit, Michigan. The victim was Cornelius Allen, a young man twenty years old, employed in W. H. Tritton & Co.'s drug store, a branch of which is located on the corner mentioned. According to the accounts of several different persons living in the neighborhood, but one pistol shot was fired. John McNally, living at 218 Clinton street, if not the first, was about the first person on the spot after the murder.

He was in bed when he heard the shots, and jumped up, threw open the window and saw the body of the murdered boy lying on Clifford street and opposite the house. He saw him by a drug store window light which was left burning all night. Several citizens saw a man running away from the spot immediately after the shooting, but the man was not known. Allen slept over stairs above the store, and the key to the store was found by his side on the walk. The store had not been disturbed.

The supposition is that he was called up by the murderer, who shot him as he turned the corner to enter the store. Allen having to traverse the street from his home to the store. The name of the criminal cannot be guessed. The victim was a boy of the son of Rev. Peter Allen, of Waterloo, Ont., and had lived in Detroit less than a year. He was not dead when found, but could not speak, and expired in five minutes afterwards. The bullet penetrated the brain.

He was in bed when he heard the shots, and jumped up, threw open the window and saw the body of the murdered boy lying on Clifford street and opposite the house. He saw him by a drug store window light which was left burning all night. Several citizens saw a man running away from the spot immediately after the shooting, but the man was not known. Allen slept over stairs above the store, and the key to the store was found by his side on the walk. The store had not been disturbed.

The supposition is that he was called up by the murderer, who shot him as he turned the corner to enter the store. Allen having to traverse the street from his home to the store. The name of the criminal cannot be guessed. The victim was a boy of the son of Rev. Peter Allen, of Waterloo, Ont., and had lived in Detroit less than a year. He was not dead when found, but could not speak, and expired in five minutes afterwards. The bullet penetrated the brain.

He was in bed when he heard the shots, and jumped up, threw open the window and saw the body of the murdered boy lying on Clifford street and opposite the house. He saw him by a drug store window light which was left burning all night. Several citizens saw a man running away from the spot immediately after the shooting, but the man was not known. Allen slept over stairs above the store, and the key to the store was found by his side on the walk. The store had not been disturbed.

The supposition is that he was called up by the murderer, who shot him as he turned the corner to enter the store. Allen having to traverse the street from his home to the store. The name of the criminal cannot be guessed. The victim was a boy of the son of Rev. Peter Allen, of Waterloo, Ont., and had lived in Detroit less than a year. He was not dead when found, but could not speak, and expired in five minutes afterwards. The bullet penetrated the brain.

He was in bed when he heard the shots, and jumped up, threw open the window and saw the body of the murdered boy lying on Clifford street and opposite the house. He saw him by a drug store window light which was left burning all night. Several citizens saw a man running away from the spot immediately after the shooting, but the man was not known. Allen slept over stairs above the store, and the key to the store was found by his side on the walk. The store had not been disturbed.

The supposition is that he was called up by the murderer, who shot him as he turned the corner to enter the store. Allen having to traverse the street from his home to the store. The name of the criminal cannot be guessed. The victim was a boy of the son of Rev. Peter Allen, of Waterloo, Ont., and had lived in Detroit less than a year. He was not dead when found, but could not speak, and expired in five minutes afterwards. The bullet penetrated the brain.

He was in bed when he heard the shots, and jumped up, threw open the window and saw the body of the murdered boy lying on Clifford street and opposite the house. He saw him by a drug store window light which was left burning all night. Several citizens saw a man running away from the spot immediately after the shooting, but the man was not known. Allen slept over stairs above the store, and the key to the store was found by his side on the walk. The store had not been disturbed.

The supposition is that he was called up by the murderer, who shot him as he turned the corner to enter the store. Allen having to traverse the street from his home to the store. The name of the criminal cannot be guessed. The victim was a boy of the son of Rev. Peter Allen, of Waterloo, Ont., and had lived in Detroit less than a year. He was not dead when found, but could not speak, and expired in five minutes afterwards. The bullet penetrated the brain.

He was in bed when he heard the shots, and jumped up, threw open the window and saw the body of the murdered boy lying on Clifford street and opposite the house. He saw him by a drug store window light which was left burning all night. Several citizens saw a man running away from the spot immediately after the shooting, but the man was not known. Allen slept over stairs above the store, and the key to the store was found by his side on the walk. The store had not been disturbed.

The supposition is that he was called up by the murderer, who shot him as he turned the corner to enter the store. Allen having to traverse the street from his home to the store. The name of the criminal cannot be guessed. The victim was a boy of the son of Rev. Peter Allen, of Waterloo, Ont., and had lived in Detroit less than a year. He was not dead when found, but could not speak, and expired in five minutes afterwards. The bullet penetrated the brain.

He was in bed when he heard the shots, and jumped up, threw open the window and saw the body of the murdered boy lying on Clifford street and opposite the house. He saw him by a drug store window light which was left burning all night. Several citizens saw a man running away from the spot immediately after the shooting, but the man was not known. Allen slept over stairs above the store, and the key to the store was found by his side on the walk. The store had not been disturbed.

The supposition is that he was called up by the murderer, who shot him as he turned the corner to enter the store. Allen having to traverse the street from his home to the store. The name of the criminal cannot be guessed. The victim was a boy of the son of Rev. Peter Allen, of Waterloo, Ont., and had lived in Detroit less than a year. He was not dead when found, but could not speak, and expired in five minutes afterwards. The bullet penetrated the brain.

He was in bed when he heard the shots, and jumped up, threw open the window and saw the body of the murdered boy lying on Clifford street and opposite the house. He saw him by a drug store window light which was left burning all night. Several citizens saw a man running away from the spot immediately after the shooting, but